

Contest

postponed

Due to a small number of entries into the LAMBDA writing contest, we have decided to postpone it until the next issue. All submitted pieces will still be evaluated for the upcoming issue.

There will be a $50 first prize and $25 second prize for pieces in the following categories: newswriting, poetry, prose, or fiction.

If you would like more information, email LAMBDA at:

Purpose

Lambda is a bi-semesterly publication brought to the community by the B-GLAD office of UNC-Chapel Hill. Our mission is to provide a diverse news journal for everyone in Chapel Hill and on campus that care about queer issues.

Please remember that the opinions and/or claims made by the individual columnists are their own, and not necessarily those endorsed by Lambda or its contributors.

All submissions are copyrighted by the author... reproduction concerns should be taken up with them. Email us to get the correct information.
