

Front Cover Story

LAMBDA investigates the University's poor publicity of its anti-harassment and nondiscrimination policies on sexual orientation.

12

Back Cover Story

LAMBDA explores the issue of homophobia in the classroom and its effects on LGBTIQ students in the wake of the Elyse Crystall controversy.

2b

News

Organizers from the GLBT-SA orchestrated a multi-faceted and memorable Celebration Week. Beginning with this year's Drag Show, here's a look at how things went down.

4

Comments from North Carolina Unity Conference Director Trevor Hoppe about this year's gathering.

7

RHA's Writing on the Wall project brings the campus face to face with oppressive language.

8

Features

Alex Ferrando begins his term as a co-chairperson of the GLBT-SA. Find out what life is like for this sophomore from Savannah, Ga.

10

The LGBTQ Office continues to be a resource and support network for all students.

15

Opinions

A quirky critique of this year's Lavender Ball

16

Why UNC could stand to be a little queerer

17

The pressing problems with Playboy magazine

18

Just how virtuous is Virtuous Woman?

19

The new local mobilization for marriage equality

20

Why "gay shame" is the worst shame of all

21

Photo by Doug Dukeman

Sophomore Alex Ferrando (left) wraps himself in LGBTIQ rights as one of GLBT-SA's new co-chairpersons. Seductress Angela Lopez (right) wows the audience at Celebration Week's Drag Show.

Photo by Michael Jerch

Cover photo by Michael Jerch
Cover design by Jermaine Caldwell