

What would be the most telling signs that my boyfriend is gay?

Cashmere. Or body lotion. Certifiable tests any decoy hetero girlfriend should know about. If a male specimen is concerned with the collagen levels and moisture of his skin, you may need to worry. An appreciation of expensive sweaters may be a red flag as well. Let's face it, gay men value light weight wools just as much as they notice the incredible body and volume of your hair! In all seriousness though, accepting one's sexuality is a difficult process. If you do have suspicions that your boyfriend is gay, feel blessed and be there for him. You may have a new GBF instead of a burnt bridge at the end of the whole thing.

Christmas has been proud of its gayness in the past, but what do you think gayest time of the year?

Black Friday. Duh! What other time of year can you shop 'til you drop with such abandon? In all honesty, Kady wasn't lying when she called the mall a watering hole. The day after Thanksgiving really is an animalistic retail experience. They don't make unlimited quantities in everyone's size! That day, more than any other, the gay male is the most ferocious shopper in the Sahara!

What's the sexiest way to ask for consent?

Well, we all want to be very clear about this whole consent thing, so I suggest dressing up like one of Sue Sylvester's Cheerios and articulating it through a bull horn. Loud and clear. Before anyone's spirit stick is involved. And hey, who doesn't like role play?

Allies are always asked whom they would "go gay for" - whom would you go straight for?

Sigourney Weaver. Need I say more? Okay, if you insist. Not only does she shoot aliens, she also ages like Benjamin Button and she played everyone's favorite camp counselor in Holes!

Fierce is overused and has been hijacked by the straight community. Can you PLEASE save our community from its lack of freshness and come up with a new word?

Well we all know how gays tend to hyperbolize, so I would like to suggest we use the word "crit." It is an abbreviation for critical, meaning essential. For example, I would say that it is "crit" for every gay man to own the Mariah Carey holiday album, despite the fact that the only good song on it is "All I Want For Christmas Is You." I would also like encourage everyone to adopt the word "whorrifying" into their repertoire. Yes, I'm talking to you, boy dancing on the bar with nothing but your underwear on. And yes I'm talking to you too, girl wearing the shirt dress! Whorrifying.

My gaydar is broken. Who do you take yours to get fixed?

It's not so much who, but where. And that "where" would be H&M. If you've ever doubted your ability to identify a gay man, no worries. Take confidence in knowing no straight man would shop in H&M. Just like no gay man would eat at Bskis. Strategy people. Also, can I just preach for a second, it is really hard to keep one's gaydar properly functioning on this campus!
