EXAMINATION WEEK

Last week was examination week, and every day some would say, "I had my hardest exam today," or "that woman doesn't mind giving hard exams." We will have to admit that the teachers always catch the dickens, especially during exams. Smiling faces become serious during the week, for the girls were all determined to pass their work for the first semester. Judging from the smiling faces we see around the campus now every one must have got along with her work exceedingly well.
