

Lo' Co'

Student Publication Of Louisburg College

Published Bi-Weekly

Co-Editors and Business Mgrs.
Archie Ellis and Stuart Godfrey

Feature Editors
Newby Crowell and Max Bray

Society Editor
Agnes Godfrey

Reporters
Harold Belanga, Edith Modlin, Bill Shelton
Margarete Lipscomb

Faculty Advisor
B. B. Bray, Jr.

Copy Editors
Frances Boyette and Louise Brown

Circulation Mgr.
Iola Lewis

LET'S HAVE DANCING

A question has recently arisen in this school. Should Louisburg College have dancing? Yes say the students and many members of the faculty. Could not the "no" people be brought to the realization that properly supervised dances would be beneficial, not only to the decorum of the school but would give the students a well conducted and healthful pastime that would help to fill up spare time that possibly would be devoted to harmful deeds both to the school and the student.

Our contemporaries have already instituted this form of extra-curricular social activity, and why not we? Even the Quakers of Guilford have dancing every week. There are various forms of dancing and dances. Properly supervised college dancing for only college people, says ye writer, would get the affirmative vote of many liberal ministers. This publication joins popular opinion and comes out whole-heartedly in support of the movement for supervised dances in Louisburg College.

"SH" AND "BOO" VERSUS GOOD MANNERS

By Miss Lula Mae Stipe

Many a man is crabbed, moody, and stingy in his home, and among his family and servants. But let the door bell ring! Let a visitor call! As if by magic this man becomes suave and generous. He puts on his company manners.

A story is told of a capable executive who lost an opportunity for promotion because his manners among his business associates were not carried over into his home. The president of the concern who learned in time the dual code of the man, decided not to trust him in a post where instinctive good manners were a prime requisite. The bear had come home unaware that his superior had preceded him into the house with the offer of advancement, and before his meek wife could break the news had growled out his true manners.

The acid test of good manners in our student body is not applied on the street, in church, or at a sorority or fraternity banquet where expediency and conventionality hold worship, and command good manners, but the real test comes in our daily college life.

Someone has said that there is a time and place for everything under the shining sun. The "Sh" and "Boo" so prevalent among us may be all right on the football field when we wish to tantalize a player on the opposing side or in a gay informal social get-together affair, but good manners taboo the "Sh" and "Boo" when we await the asking of the blessing at the noon day or evening meal, as we listen to the announcements in the dining-hall and chapel, and as we sit waiting for the chapel service to begin each Monday and Thursday.

Can't we determine as a student body to exterminate these two ejaculations from our vocabulary when we know we are using them in the wrong place, and at the wrong time? Can't we learn to cultivate a code of good manners that shall say to visitors, that here at Louisburg College the invisible apparel of good manners proclaims the lady and gentleman alike? Surely it is worth striving for!

COOPERATION

"One big yell for Louisburg. Put plenty of pep in it—show 'em you mean it." That goes on and on but what I want to know is this—How much real pep and enthusiasm do we hold for Louisburg? When our football season ends does our spirit of confidence and support in our college end?

How far reaching is that Louisburg Pep?

Those questions hold far reaching results—if our pep is artificial we yell only because our neighbors yell. Then, when the Trojans hit a losing streak we falter. Keep up the spirit and you won't go down. Be artificial and you float with the tides—whither the end might be.

For the next two propositions let Ye Writer answer as one for each joins hands with the other.

Our school cannot function properly without the whole-hearted support of the entire personnel of our college. I do not look for a "Rah-Rah" spirit on English 13 or Math 2 but do expect to see the desire to study, a one-hundred percent cooperation with the teacher. The student councils make the rulings; they are not police, but depend on you to make their decisions successful. The administration must and does have two main objectives in view as we travel on in our work. These are: the best possible provisions for a happy and profitable year to every student, and the best means of building up Louisburg College.

We have grand material at our institution for continuing the great growth of the past.

Three ringing cheers for our entire school. Let them ring—we mean it!

Good Taste!

Copyright, 1934
The American
Tobacco Company

Luckies

They Taste Better

The Cream of the Crop

"It's toasted"

The clean center leaves are the mildest leaves—they cost more—they taste better—so of course, Luckies use only the clean center leaves—the choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos.

✓ Your throat protection—against irritation—against cough