MISSIONARY VISITS LOUISBURG

Miss Susie Peach Foster, American missionary to Korea, visited Louisburg College Wednesday and Thursday. Miss Foster is a native of Alabama and attended Huntingdon College in Montgomery, Alabama, where she received her A. B. Miss Foster received her M. A. from Scarritt College for training christian workers, and spent nine years as a missionary in Korea.

Miss Foster is at present a personnel worker for the candidate committee of the Woman's Division of the Board of Missions of the Methodist Church. She is visiting colleges and universities seeking well qualified young people who might be interested in either home or foreign missionary work. She granted interviews Wednesday and Thursday. Miss Foster spoke Wednesday night on "Our Work in Korea and Opportunities of Service for Young People Today."

Miss Foster is a very charming and highly interesting woman. Louisburg was honored by her visit.

LISTEN, YE JITTERBUGS

The orchestra under the direction of Mr. Byerly is improving by leaps and bounds and is really putting out some swell music now. The boys have been working night and day for the past two or three months, and they have made the band something to be proud of. It is not a "hit and miss" outfit like it started out to be but has turned out to be a real jive maker.

The brass section of the band is one of the hottest in the business. Richard Auger handles number one trumpet supported by Bobby Andrews.

ELECTION

The returns from the election of officers for the student body were made known Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock after a week of high tension. Those elected were:

President, Richard Auger
Vice-President, May Davis
Secretary, May Davis
Treasurer, Borden McClees.

These officers are to see that meetings and elections are conducted according to parliamentary procedure. Any trouble arising in meetings or elections should be deferred to these officers who will decide the issue.

FRANKLIN COUNTY FARM CONVENTION

At the Franklin County Farm Convention recently held at Louisburg College, current agricultural problems were discussed.

Specialists in different fields of agriculture were present and valuable information and advice were given to the farmers concerning their crops and the insects endangering them. The meeting was climaxed Thursday by a speech by Dr. Clarence Poe, editor of the "Progressive Farmer", on the ten-year farm program for the south. Having recently returned from a meeting of Southern Agriculturalists, he was very well versed on the situation of the farmer today, and the plans to enlarge and better the position of the farmer.
