MAY QUEEN

Rose Manning

Rose Manning, who hails from Middlesex, has been selected by the Student Body for two honors during the past few weeks. She was elected May Queen and was Louisburg's representative for Conference Queen during the tournament at Campbell College.

Court Elections for May Are Held

February 12 was the date set for the election of this year's May Court. Ten girls, eight members of the court, the maid of honor, and the queen, were elected. These girls will, at some time in the future, choose their own escorts.

Elected as Court Members

Elected as members of the court were Barbara Bunn, Eldie Lee Montague, Elizabeth Swindell, Elizabeth Tyndall, Elizabeth Edwards, Jean Jackson, Betty Gale Floyd, and Mary Richardson.

Maid of honor will be Marilyn Baker. She is a sophomore and is usually seen around the college post office.

The queen will be Rose Manning. She has been an outstanding figure as a freshman member of the basketball team. Rose was also Louisburg's entrant for Conference Queen at Campbell College during the tournament.

Paul Bullock Acts As Master of Ceremonies At Program on Etiquette

A program on etiquette presented as a TV broadcast with Paul Bullock as master of ceremonies was presented by the YM-YWCA on Feb. 3. Various social situations, showing both correct and incorrect procedure, included a couple entering a theater; going up and down steps, entering doorways; introducing people, accepting and immediately rejecting a program part; carrying on conversations in public places; walking four abreast and meeting others on the sidewalk; and entering the cafeteria and proceeding to eat.

Opening devotional was led by Katherine Nixon. An informal dialogue about etiquette was presented by Mrs. George Blount, wife of local Methodist minister, and Miss Ruth Merritt.

Those participating in the skits were Marvin Gregory, Rachel Kennedy, Carl Stubbs, Charlene Newton, John Hooker; Nina Oakley (impersonating Miss Miriam Russell, Dean of Women); Martha Ann Perdue, Audrey Harris, Dorris Boone, Carol Smith, Peggy Goodwin, George Parrish, Johnny Cannady and Shirley Manning.

The Valentine theme was carried out on the YM-YWCA program Feb. 10. The devotional was given by Flora Bundy. The poem "How Do I Love Thee" was read and dramatized by Jean Jackson. "Old Sweetheart of Mine" was dramatized by Donald Lewter, Kacky Nixon, Louis McCullen, Judy Ann Olsen, daughter of Mrs. C. P. Caldwell, and Joe Goldston, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Goldston.

Mrs. Taylor Dodson spoke on the meaning of love. Points brought out in her talk were the stages of love, (1) baby, love of self; (2) small child, (3) love of same sex, (4) teen-age, puppy love, (5) parental love, (6) love and marriage.

Miss Sara Foster sang "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" with Sara Faucette accompanying at the piano.

Juniors Sponsor Valentine Dance in Main Social Hall

Rev. W. Goldston Is New Member Of Religious Dept.

"Louisburg College has adopted a new mission for itself—namely, that of becoming a center of leadership training for our town and country churches of the North Carolina Conference. As professor of Town and Country Work, my task is to help realize this new mission. My duties involve work within the College as well as work outside the College." These are the words of The Rev. Wade Goldston, one of the newer faculty members at Louisburg.

Born in Goldston, N. C.

Mr. Goldston was born in Goldston, North Carolina. When he was a young boy he had no idea that he would become a preacher. He entered the University of North Carolina with the thought of studying civil engineering. It was not until near the end of his first quarter at the University that he felt his call into the ministry. Despite the unexpectedness of the call, it was clear that God wanted him to preach. To this day Mr. Goldston does not regret the change.

Mr. Goldston then transferred to Duke Divinity School where he studied for three years and received a B. D. degree. He also attended the Yale Divinity School for one year, receiving another B. D. degree.

In 1939 Mr. Goldston married Miss Ruth Milton of Battleboro. The Goldstons now have two children, Bonnie, who is a freshman in high school and Joseph Wade, who is in the fourth grade.

Teaching Part Time

At the present time, Mr. Goldston is teaching only part time at Louisburg. He teaches a Bible course and a course for supply pastors. (Methodist pastors whose academic training is limited so that they are not fully ordained and are not members of the annual conference).

In 1952, Mr. Goldston was a delegate to the General and the Judicial Conferences of the Methodist Church.

When asked what his hobby was Mr. Goldston replied, "It used to be bird-hunting and gardening. But since I have been at Louisburg, I have become interested in golf."

Mr. Goldston says, "I have been happy in my work. Everyone is good to me. I find that the college does a high grade of academic work and that the personnel of the college is very dedicated to its task. I look for Louisburg College, which has a rich history, to grow and to render its greatest service in the years ahead."

The Rev. Mr. Goldston, may the students and teachers at Louisburg wish you luck.

Betty Floyd Is Crowned "Miss Sweetheart"

The Junior class sponsored a Valentine dance in the Main Social Hall Saturday night, February 12, from 8:00-11:00 p. m.

Coming into the front door of Main Building, the guests found the social room transformed into a dream-like atmosphere, beautifully decorated with red and white streamers criss-crossing from the ceiling, windows, and lights. Red hearts were scattered around the room while red and white ones hung mobile style from the ceiling. Festoons draped the piano from which candles burned brightly. A number of tables were placed cabaret style in the hall, and they were outlined with streamers. Large candles glowed on each table.

The refreshment table was placed at the other side of the hall. The table was covered with a white lace cloth with red and green ivy circling the punch bowl and candles placed at either end. Potato chips with cream cheese dip, peppermint hearts, and peanuts were served. Rose Manning served the punch.

Crowned "Miss Sweetheart"

During the evening Betty Gale Floyd was crowned "Miss Sweetheart" by Dewey Yarborough, class president, and was presented a box of sweetheart candy.

Chaperones present were Miss Miriam Russell, Mrs. Catherine Parks, Dr. Ann Blumenfield, Mrs. Genevieve Perry, and Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Holton. Approximately eighty persons were present during the evening.

Committee chairmen for the different groups were: refreshment, Rose Manning; decoration, Edwin Woodhouse; music, Elizabeth Swindell; queen, Mona Harris; advertising, Betty Coile; and finances, Bill Faucette.

Many thanks are due to members of the class who served on different committees, or helped in any way to make the dance a successful and lovely affair for all who attended.
