35 New Students Enroll for Term

Thirty-five new members joined the ranks of students here at Louisburg this semester.

Among these new recruits only three are from Louisburg: Claudette Cranford, Joyce Eagles, and Johnny Matthews. Out-of-state students include: Henry Backus and Renwick Bradley, from Savannah, Georgia; David Jewett, from Upper New York; Wallace Masencup, from Amherst, Virginia; William Tillar, from Emporia, Virginia; and Ronald Sealey, from Hicksville, New York.

Those from North Carolina include: Ewell Goss, Claude Jones, William Arthur Kale, Morgan Riley, and John Wily, all from Durham; L. J. Grantham and Jimmy Kornegay, from Mount Olive; Clarence Deans and Maxie Raines, from Wilson; John Barr, from Rural Hall; Jon Fulford, from Hertford; Virginia Fowle, from Washington; Riley Fields, from Marshville; James L. Howard, from Carrboro; Clark Hooks, from Fremont; Keith Hobbs, from Warsaw; William Hollowell, from Holly Ridge; Jesse Jones, from Fuquay Springs; Sammy Kellum, from New Bern; Betsy Massey from Zebulon; Jane Perry from Windsor; Andrew Romanet from Roxboro; Nancy Staples from Butler; Annie Taylor from Havelock; H. Whitehead from Tarboro; and Dale Whitfield from Raleigh.

New Art Trio Presents Concert

The New Art Trio, consisting of Nancy Cirillo, a New Yorker, Ann Heiligman, from Texas, and Bruce Rogers, a native of Indiana, presented a concert in the Mills High School Auditorium on February 10, 1960, at 8:00 p.m., sponsored by the Louisburg College Concert Series.

Ann Heiligman, piano, made her debut with the Houston Symphony under Effrem Kurtz when she was fifteen following a period of study in New York under Mansheim Pressler. Later she studied at Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia, and with the great concert artist, Rudolf Serkin, in Vermont.

Nancy Cirillo, violin, has made many recital and orchestral appearances with the Little Orchestra Society, the Lancaster Symphony, and others. She has made six coast-to-coast broadcasts over ABC. A long-time pupil of Louis Persinger, she has been to Italy twice — once concertizing and once as a three-year scholarship student in Rome.

Bruce Rogers, cello, was born in Indiana and subsequently spent ten years of his childhood with his missionary parents in the wilds of Kenya, Africa. He is a graduate of the Juilliard School of Music in New York. He was soloist with the Juilliard Orchestra on its European tour, including the World's Fair in Brussels.

Members of the Louisburg College Glee Club served as ushers at the concert.

"Y" Presents Annual Variety Show

The second variety show of the 1959-60 season was presented to a capacity crowd on February 4 in Main Auditorium at Louisburg College.

Highlighting the program was the rocking combo composed of Tommy Sharpe on the drums, and Dave Hubbard, Tommy Ralph, and Butch Mills on their guitars. Billy Graham came from the audience and added his upbeat piano to the quartet toward the end.

The show began with a Parisian skit, featuring Sandy Featherstone and Pricilla Hancock. A touch of the oriental came next when Masoka Yamado danced in Japanese style. Later on in the program she switched to the dances of this country and did the Charleston.

"The Lord Made a Woman" and it was Birdsong with the next feature, a pantomime done by Marilyn Ganey and David Birdsong, the confused couple. Fred Davis and Tommy Ralph played their guitars and sang "Three Jolly Coachmen." Then Hunter Dula played a classical selection.

No one can do the "can can" like Sam Maddy, Pal Midget, David Birdsong, Ron Sealy, and James Woodard, and they showed the crowd it could be done. "I Think You're Wonderful" was the record to which Earlene Martin did a pantomime. Gene Smith played his guitar and sang an original number.

The Sleep Walkers with their pajamas and "shades" made quite a hit when they pantomimed to "Young Blood" and "Come Go With Me." This group is composed of Harward Vashaw, John Raleigh, Chick Hardin, and Charlie Robertson.

Mrs. McDonald Sings in Chapel

Mrs. Joyce N. McDonald, mezzo-soprano, sang in the Mills School Auditorium on Wednesday, February 10, for the regular Chapel hour. Mrs. McDonald is the wife of Mr. Walter N. McDonald, Dean of Men here.

Her numbers included selections from the classics by Bach, Brahms, and Rachmaninov; American folk-songs; and songs from several Broadway productions.

A native of Ohio, Mrs. McDonald received the Bachelor of Music degree from Westminister College at Princeton, New Jersey. For a year following her graduation, she toured nationally with the famous Westminister Choir.

FBLA Sees Movie, Makes Dance Plans

The Louisburg College Chapter of FBLA met Tuesday night, February 2, at 7:15 in Main Auditorium.

The members watched a film entitled "Better Typing at Your Fingertips," sponsored by the makers of Smith Corona Typewriters. One of the world champion typists gave examples of good and bad typing habits.

During the business session, presided over by Stanly Glasgow, the group decided to continue plans for a Leap Year Dance, including band music. The arrangements for tickets and other matters concerning the dance were turned over to Joe Hudson and Jay Thompson.

Victory Over PJC, Crowning of Queen Highlight Homecoming

By BRENDA STARBUCK

From a field of eleven candidates, Judy Cheatham, of Franklinton, was chosen Homecoming Queen for 1960 before a capacity crowd at Holton Gym during half-time ceremonies of the Louisburg-Presbyterian Junior College games Saturday night, February 6.

Homecoming Queen Has Acting Ambitions

By EARLENE MARTIN

Tact, poise, and femininity — the perfect description of Miss Judith Cheatham as she was crowned 1960 Homecoming Queen of Louisburg College Saturday night, February 6, in Holton Gymnasium.

An extremely surprised, slightly dazed, and starry-eyed Judy Cheatham moved around the gymnasium floor and out into the lobby where she let loose her emotions. Tears brimmed her eyes and spilled over onto her flushed cheeks as friends and well-wishers closed in upon her.

A theatrical enthusiast, Miss Cheatham lists music and art as favorite activities, along with writing. As a popular graduate of Franklinton High School and Peace Preparatory School, she held offices in such organizations as the Beta Club, the Monogram Club, the F.T.A., the Honor Society, and the Drama Club. She was chosen as the most talented senior at Peace.

Miss Cheatham became interested in drama at an early age and carried out her ambition by participating in plays throughout her school career. Miss Cheatham was highly praised for her acting lead in the Franklinton High School junior play and also for one of the leads in the Raleigh Little Theater. During her senior year at Peace, Miss Cheatham was awarded a summer-term scholarship with the Carolina Playmakers, where she achieved the highest acting award at Carolina in the play "Soldadera."

As a freshman at Louisburg College, Miss Cheatham wishes to further her education in dramatics and expresses the desire to become a teacher of dramatics after her college education.

Miss Cheatham was escorted by Archie Robertson of Petersburg, Virginia. The Queen was formally presented by last year's Queen, Linda Lea, of Durham, whose escort was Fred Davis, of Morrisville.

The parade of pink, blue, and white-gowned contestants was followed by a smashing 108-83 homecoming victory over P.J.C.

A tea-dance in the Main Social Hall that lasted from 3 to 5 o'clock started the events of Homecoming Day. Alumni of Louisburg renewed old acquaintances while current students talked and sipped tea with other friends and students.

At 5 o'clock, the candidates for Queen, with their escorts, went to the Gym for a short rehearsal of the presentation. The representatives from schools in Franklin County attended the rehearsal.

Immediately following the rehearsal, the candidates and escorts went to the cafeteria to join the judges and alumni for dinner. A business meeting of the Alumni Association was then held.

Mrs. Mamie Clayton, of Roxboro, vice-president of the Association, opened the meeting with a few words of introduction of Paul Gregory's recitation of the poem "Louisburg Is Me," written by Felton Parker, class of 1951.

BETA PHI GAMMA ELECTS OFFICERS

Beta Phi Gamma, national honorary journalistic fraternity, held a short meeting Tuesday, February 2, for the purpose of electing officers for the remainder of the school year.

Those elected were Peter B. Maupin, Wake Forest, President; William E. Ezzell, Goldsboro, Vice-President; John G. Patronis, Roanoke Rapids, Treasurer; and Linda C. Lea, Durham, Secretary. An initiation meeting for the induction of new members will be held soon, according to the faculty sponsor, Mr. E. A. Vause.
