College Gets $240,000 Kenan Foundation Grant

The Sarah Graham Kenan Foundation announced Wednesday, September 21, at a meeting here of the Louisburg College Board of Trustees that a grant totaling $240,000 would be given to the College for a four-year period. This grant, amounting to $60,000 annually, will be used to supplement faculty salaries, provide additional scholarships, improve library resources and assist the College in securing a new infirmary. Mr. David Daniel, Director of College Relations, later explained that the grant is expected to double the 25,000 volumes in the new library. Daniel also said that it will afford fifty more $400 scholarships over the four-year period, besides contributing one third of the cost of the new infirmary, to be built in the near future. A special press conference was called at 1 p.m. September 21, following an 11:30 a.m. meeting of the Board of Trustees with Foundation officials. Frank H. Kenan, President of the Foundation, was introduced to the Trustees by the late Dr. Herbert J. Herring, General Consultant of Louisburg College and former Vice President of Duke University. Judge Hamilton H. Hobgood of Louisburg and E. Hoover Taft, Jr. of Greenville expressed appreciation of the gift on behalf of the Board. Dr. John W. Scott of Chapel Hill, Secretary of the Kenan Foundation, stated that the Foundation desired to present this first gift to a junior college to an institution "of unquestionable merit and integrity" and said this was the reason for choosing Louisburg. Dr. Robbins, Louisburg College President, who received the grant, largest in the College's 180-year history, stated, "All of us are overwhelmed with this kind generosity. We accept the challenge that has been put before us. We will continue to build on the solid foundation of the past."

Religious Emphasis Week was observed on the campus of Louisburg College October 3 through October 6. It was highlighted by speeches by the guest speaker, Reverend William Kellon Quick, pastor of Saint James Methodist Church in Greenville, North Carolina. The purpose of Religious Emphasis Week, as defined by Reverend Wade Goldston, Louisburg College Chaplain in charge of the events, is "to emphasize the importance of Christian faith and Christian living in the lives of our college students. Special effort is made to relate the Good News of the Christian Religion to young people living in this revolutionary twentieth century."

Services for Religious Emphasis Week began on Monday, October 3, and ended on Thursday, October 6. There were services each evening at 7:30 p.m. Services were held on Tuesday and Thursday mornings at 11 a.m., and a brief service on Wednesday Morning beginning at 11:20 and closing at 11:50. Required chapel during Religious Emphasis Week was held on Tuesday at 11 a.m. Each night, Monday through Thursday at 10 p.m., the guest minister visited the dormitories. These visits were in the nature of "bull sessions," with students having the privilege of asking any question desired.

Freshmen Swing Through Orientation

Louisburg College opened its orientation week on Sunday, September 11. Approximately 415 freshmen students reported to Dean Patterson's office to receive their Orientation Programs and to have their identification pictures taken. Vesper services were directed on Sunday night by Reverend Wade Goldston who emphasized the campus spirit of, "Can I Help You."

Monday morning, Dean York spoke on academic policies. At 9:45 a.m. the students met with Dean Patterson and the Student Government Association to discuss rules and regulations of the College. Monday afternoon students were taken on tours of the library. After supper, the filmstrip, "I Wish I'd Known That Before I Went to College," was shown in the AC Building. This was followed by a panel discussion.

Tuesday was filled with meetings concerning registration and the courses of study for the freshmen students. At 8:00 p.m., a formal reception was

SGA Plans Plans

The Student Government Association met Tuesday evening, September 20, for the first time this year under the leadership of our new president, Garland McPherson.

Plans are being made for the lobby of the Old Library in the rear of Main building. The former library is to be made into a television room sometime in the future. Suggestions were made as to the possibility of See PLANS Page 4

Dr. Herring Dies

By Sandra Rook

Dr. H. J. Herring

We at Louisburg were saddened by the passing of a well-respected and beloved man who served us well since he first became a member of our Board of Trustees on April 8, 1952. Dr. Herbert James Herring died Friday, September 23, 1966 after being stricken at his home at 2605 Sevier Street in Durham.

He was dead on arrival at Duke Hospital shortly after 9 a.m. He had suffered two previous heart attacks in recent years.

Dr. Herring was born Dec. 11, 1899, in Pender County, N. C. He received his A. B. degree at Duke University in See HERRING Page 4
