

Richardson To Lecture On "Championship"

The Louisburg College Lecture Series will present Mr. Bobby Richardson in the college auditorium at 8:00 on April 8.

From his earliest childhood he had only one purpose, and that was finding time to play baseball. Mr. Richardson's first baseball season was playing for the American Legion at the age of fourteen as second baseman. Through much practice and long seasons, Bobby Richardson reached the peak of his baseball career by playing in the World Series. Thus, the sports-minded students will remember him as an outstanding athlete.

Mr. Richardson has received the Gold Glove Award and was named to the American league All-Star team for seven years. He has also been recognized as the top fielding second baseman in the major leagues. In 1964, he set a new World Series record of collecting thirteen hits against the St. Louis Cardinals.

Today Bobby Richardson is a successful businessman with Liberty Life Insurance Company of South Carolina. Although he is no longer a professional athlete, he has a national tour program with the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

Appropriately enough, his subject for the lecture will be "The Price of Championship."

Lee Castle And Tommy Dorsey Orchestra Gives Dance

On April 1, there was a dance in the college cafeteria sponsored by the I.C.C. featuring Jimmy Dorsey Orchestra. Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey have delighted audiences from coast to coast for over two decades.

The Dorsey brothers were taught to play their instruments while they were young. Their father, Thomas Dorsey, Sr., was the leader of a brass band, and he let the boys fill in when a member was not present. Before the Dorsey's were out of their teens, they were playing with top name orchestras of the day. In 1934 Tommy and Jimmy decided to go together and form their own group. By this time both boys were accomplished masters of their instruments. For almost two years after forming their own band, they won national acclaim. In 1936 they decided to split up. Both the boys formed their own orchestra based on their own conception of music. After seventeen years they decided to again pool their talents. They performed before their greatest audience on CBS-TV hit program "Stage Show," and the Dorseys won the favor of an entire new generation of music lovers.

The director of the Jimmy Dorsey Orchestra is Lee Castle. He is an accomplished trumpet player and conductor.
