Project Attainment Now $535,000

Pledges to "Project Attainment" now total $535,679, with $265,161 already paid in cash.

"Project Attainment," begun in the fall of 1969, has a goal of $850,000. This amount with Federal grants and loans will enable the college to greatly improve its facilities. Projects already completed or underway are remodeling of Franklin Dormitory, purchase of the 21-acre A. W. Person tract joining the campus on the north on which a 96-bed men's dormitory is now being constructed, and other improvements. Other plans in "Project Attainment" include an academic-science building, a student center, and the retirement of a $40,000 indebtedness on the library building.

President Cecil W. Robbins, who is giving a great deal of time to the promotion of "Project Attainment," invites all alumni and friends to share in this very vital project. During the immediate years ahead, Louisburg College, like all private insitutions of higher learning, critically needs the support of all friends of the college.
