Pat Paulsen Kicks Off Homecoming

By Pam Ivey

Homecoming festivities at Louisburg College take place November 19 and 20 this year with a full schedule of events planned.

The activities begin with one of the most popular attractions of the College's Cultural Events Series. The amazing Pat Paulsen will appear on Friday night, November 19, at 8:00 in the College Auditorium to present his lecture "Pat Paulsen Looks at the 70's." The former Nevada gypsum plant worker and photostat machine operator, soared to fame in the 1968 presidential election as the candidate of the STAG (Stright Talking American Government) Party. His lecture, including the use of visual aids, will cover such topics as drugs, the sexual revolution, religion, ecology, and politics.

Admission to the lecture and show on November 19 at 8:00 p.m. will be $2.00 for the public and $1.00 for Louisburg College students. A reception will be held in the Fine Arts Building after the lecture at which time the Jill Flink Paintings and Lithographs Exhibit will be on display.

The Alumni Association has planned a gala weekend for the former students of the College. Invitations to reunions have been sent to those graduating at five-year intervals from 1926 through 1966. More than 1,000 alumni have been invited through letters written by class agents from each of the designated classes. The letters were reproduced on the off-set machine at the College and were sent to the alumni. Upon arrival, the alumni will register in the Main Building and will be assigned meeting places according to classes. They will be served lunch on November 20, around the bandstand. The Student Government Association has graciously furnished a band, the Casanovas of Raleigh, to entertain the alumni from 12 noon until 2:00 p.m. The alumni are invited to attend the basketball game that night and, in the words of Alumni Director, Mr. Kenneth Davis, "If they feel young enough and spry enough, they can dance with the Men of Distinction after the ballgame".

The highlight of Homecoming weekend will be the contest between the Louisburg College Hurricanes and the basketball team of Lces-McRae of Banner Elk, North Carolina with the talents of sophomores Steve Whitley, Wayne Ellington, Rudy Brown, Gerald Royal, Bill Zeppelin, Bruce Boseman, Jimmy Conder, and Phil Jones, coupled with the ability of a new squad of freshmen composed of Don Carter, Rick Schneider, Don Maskall, Sammy Taybron, Dan Harris, Phil Turner, and Eddie Edgerton; the Hurricanes will present a superior showing of basketball artistry.

During the half-time of the game, the announcement of the 1971 Homecoming Queen will be made. Last year's queen, Miss Kay Whittenton, will crown the new queen. The mood will be tense as nine beauties wait in anxious anticipation of the decision.

Following the game, the excitement will move to the Cafeteria for the final phase of the big weekend. The Men of Distinction will provide the music for the Homecoming Dance.

Class Officers Chosen

Class officers were elected on Tuesday, November 9, following an active campaign by candidates that terminated with speeches Monday night in the AC Auditorium. Sophomore class officers are Jack McAllister, President; Mary Toomey, Vice-President; Kathy Dunnagan, Secretary; Reggie White, Treasurer.

Freshmen officers are Roland Valentine, President; Lynne Chambers, Vice-President; Pam Ivey, Secretary; Debbie Hayes, Treasurer.

Voting was held in the Student Union instead of in the cafeteria as in previous elections. Some students feel that this fact plus increased student interest in matters concerning the students led to a good turn-out of voters. A

"In The Year Of The Pig"

"Emile de Antonio's documentary 'In the Year of the Pig' has done something it's getting harder and harder to do-it has made the Vietnamese war real." Thus Jim Frosch of THE HARVARD CRIMSON aptly describes this unveiling of the story of the wars of Viet Nam since the 1930's. The title of the film in no way refers to federal or local police. It is of a Confucian context and serves to show what the governments are actually doing in the year of the Pig, the Snake, and the Rat.

Nominated for an Academy Award in 1969, the film is a Contemporary Films Release produced and directed by Emile de Antonio. The showing at 8:00 p.m. on November 15, in the College Auditorium total of 487 votes were cast out of the some 777 students who are enrolled here. This is an increase over voting in former years.

was limited for admission to Louisburg College students, faculty, and staff due to the film rental rates.

"In the Year of the Pig" is the largest accumulation of film on Viet Nam and includes a cast of senators, presidents, fighting men, military officers, journalists, and others.

Preceding the film was the Academy Award winning "Interviews with My Lai Veterans." Directed by Joseph Strick, this shocking film is based on the accounts of five ex-soldiers involved in the massacre.

Students Injured In Wreck

Two Louisburg College students were seriously injured in a wreck that occurred around midnight on October 20. Ralph (Ricky) Moore and Jerry Gene Coombs, both of Raleigh, received injuries when Ricky's 1969 Chevrolet Camero went out of control. When rounding a curve on North Main Street, the car skidded on the wet pavement and struck a power pole and a tree.

Rescuers worked thirty minutes to free the two students. Both men were then taken to Louisburg Hospital and later transferred to Wake Memorial Hospital in Raleigh.

Moore suffered facial cuts and a broken pelvis, and Coombs suffered a broken arm, broken elbow, broken collar bone, and three broken ribs. The car was a total loss.

According to Police Officer Bill King, Moore was to be charged with driving on the wrong side of the road and exceeding the speed limit.

Both young men are recovering from their injuries and are now in satisfactory condition. Moore and Coombs are freshmen at Louisburg College.
