New Officers Elected For 74-75 SGA

Bill Roughton, a medical art major from New Bern, has been elected SGA President for the 1974-75 school year. Roughton defeated opponent Danny Lee for the office.

Jan Moses captured the vice-presidential spot, winning out over Carey Butler, Jeff Mangum, and Jamie Milliken.

Susan Davis was victorious in the race for secretarial duties. Susan, a business student from Rocky Mount, defeated Ora Hartsfield.

Marian Satterwhite of Henderson won over challengers Tim Jackson and David Coleman for SGA treasurer.

Two vied for the important position of chief justice. Bert Sigmon of Hickory defeated Jim Ammons for the office.

The SGA elections were held April 23 and 24. According to Elections Committee Chairman Sid Smyth, 63 percent of the student body went to the polls. Smyth stated this was one of the best voting turnouts in the history of Louisburg College.

Roughton States Views

"I'm entering office with rather mixed emotions," commented newly elected SGA President Bill Roughton. "I realize that the responsibilities will be great next year and a lot of hard work will be involved, but to have a chance to serve my friends will be worth it all."

In viewing his forthcoming administration, Roughton cites social regulations as a major issue. He plans to campaign for inter-dorm visitation, as well as a feasible curfew settlement. Roughton backs the proposal that will go before the April 26 Board of Trustees meeting, enabling any student to come in any time he wishes. The proposal calls for all dorms (both men's and women's) to be closed at 12:00 p.m. If a student comes in after this time, he gets the security guard to let him in, with no penalties or questions.

Roughton feels open channels of communication with the Administration are a necessity and plans to make a sincere effort at keeping in close communication. He expressed a desire to work directly with the Administration rather than through the Board of Trustees, thus eliminating unnecessary delays.

"Our primary interest will be in doing what the majority of students want," stated Roughton, "whether it be in women's rights, entertainment, or whatever."

An important instrument to be utilized next year will be polls and questionnaires issued to the student body. By the feedback, the new SGA will be able to determine exactly what the students want in all areas of campus life. Roughton said this will eliminate any possible accusations that the SGA is taking too much responsibility in its own hands without student support.

Roughton praised the work of this year's SGA, and ascribed to them a major breakthrough in the field of social regulations.

"Louisburg College doesn't want to damage its Christian atmosphere," said Roughton. "Christianity can be defined as caring and helping your fellow man. In so far as placing restrictions on one's freedom, this only hinders in finding out truth. I feel only the individual should decide if he is morally right in his actions."

Comedy Team Kicks Off Spring Weekend

The SGA will present its final gala week-end of the year April 26, 27 and 28. A concert, a comedy team, a dance, the crowning of May Queen, and a movie are on tap for the 1974 Spring Week-end.

Comedians Edmonds and Curley will open the SGA Showcase on Friday night, April 26 at 8:00 in the College Auditorium. The two have been together only four years, and have had remarkable success, appearing on such television shows as Johnny Carson and Dick Cavett. The comedy team has performed at major colleges and universities throughout the nation, opening acts for stars such as Three Dog Nite, Bread, Chicago, John Denver, and the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band.

Edmonds and Curley have a truly unique act — full of zany skits and sound effects. Some of the highlights of their performance are an impression of TV Wide World of Sports, an electrocardiogram malfunctioning on an imaginary patient, sex education instruction with child and teacher, as well as improvisations on ideas suggested by the audience.

Following Edmonds and Curley, the Mission Mountain Wood Band will have the audience stomping their feet and clapping their hands to their blue grass sounds. The group is composed of five talented young men — Steve Riddle, Rob Quist, Greg Reichberg, Richard Johnson, and Terry Robinson — from Montana. Mission Mountain Wood Band has appeared at nightclub and colleges all over, and was featured on the CBS network special "Country Comes to New York."

Though they are essentially bluegrass combo, the group also has country and western, blues jazz, and rock elements.

On Saturday at 9 p.m. in the Cafeteria the SGA will sponsor the Spring Dance. Mainstream, composed of seven very versatile musicians, are slated to play. The South Carolina based group specializes in beach music.

The highlight of the night will come when the 1974 May Queen is crowned at the dance.

"What's Up, Doc?" will be the featured film shown at 8 p.m. in the College Auditorium on Sunday night, April 28. Barbara Streisand and Ryan O'Neal star in this hilarious comedy based in the 30's.

Louisburg College students and their guests will be admitted free to all events of the weekend.

Awards Day Activities

Awards Day will be held in the AC Auditorium on Tuesday, April 30 at 11 a.m. At this time, Louisburg College students will receive recognition for the outstanding work they have done since coming to Louisburg.

Mr. C. Ray Pruette will preside over the Awards Day activities. Awards will be presented to one or more outstanding students in the various departments. Departments who will present awards include Athletics, Biology, Business, Chemistry, Drama, Economics, Foreign Language, History, Journalism, Music, Physics, and Psychology. There will also be special awards which will include the National Methodist Scholarship, Malone Medal, and the Smith Award. The awards may be in the form of books, trophies, money, etc.

In addition, the Marshalls will also receive special recognition and the new Student Government officers will be inducted during this time. All students will be required to attend.
