Paul Baron's Harmonica Rascals

Paul Baron's Harmonicats To Appear On April 12

For over thirty-four years, Paul Baron's Harmonica Rascals have topped all acts in their field. On Saturday, April 12, the world famous "Harmonicats" will appear in the LC Auditorium at 8 p.m.

The Harmonicats continue to maintain and add to their reputation as the outstanding musical novelty act in the entertainment field. The Harmonica Rascals have often been referred to as the "College of Harmonica Virtuosity" because of the great number of headliners that have made their debut with this group.

Paul Baron, leader and arranger of the Harmonicats, directs the group in a variety of rollicking routines, including hilarious comedy capers and dazzling acrobatics. Of course, the Harmonicats also display and play an amazing number and assortment of Hohner Harmonicas. The smallest is a minute one inch and the largest ranges up to thirty inches.

The musical repertoire of the group represents another side of their brilliant showmanship, as their selections range from classical pieces to the hits of today.

The highlight of the Rascals act is the spirited rivalry between leader Paul Baron and little Shorty. Shorty struggles throughout the evening to win his rightful place in the spotlight, all the while being rebuffed by other members of the group. Win or lose, Shorty adds hilarious comic antics to the act.

The Harmonica Rascals continue to have successful bookings in Las Vegas, Reno, Tokyo, London, at State and County fairs, and on radio and television. They have recently released an album, adding another accomplishment to their well-deserved reputation as the top Harmonica act in the business.

Admission for adults will be $3.00 at the door and $2.75 in advance. Louisburg students will be admitted for $1.50 at the door and $1.25 in advance.

Players To Present "Browning Show"

The Louisburg College Players will present "The Browning Show" on April 7-10 and 16-19. "The Browning Show" will be a production of oral interpretations of Robert Browning and Elizabeth Barrett Browning's greatest poems. Theatre manager Sally Versteeg feels this will be the biggest and best thing the Players have ever done.

The women's roles in the monologues will be played by

The Green Grass Cloggers

Folk Festival Attracts Multitude Of Local Talent

For those who enjoy the sounds of banjo pickin', guitar strummin', and just good ole foot stompin' music, attendance to the Franklin County Folk Festival in the LC Auditorium will be quite a treat. All performers, professional or amateur, will be of the highest calibre.

One of the bands playing is the Blue Grass Experience. The group was formed by a former LC student, Thomas Shelton Edwards, and Leroy Savage of Louisburg, while both were attending Est Carolina University.

The Blue Grass Experience won the World's Champion Bluegrass Band at Union Grove in 1972.

The band has played at many colleges and universities throughout the South and also appeared in concert with John Hartford, David Bromberg, Elizabeth Cotton and many other folk music greats.

For those who enjoy sights along with sounds, The Green Grass Cloggers will also be performing.

Clogging is a fast, foot stomping dance that originated to accompany the southern Appalachian region. The patterns are similar to square dancing.

The Green Grass Cloggers are from Greenville, N. C. For the past three years, they have performed at concerts, fiddlers conventions, and bluegrass festivals up and down the coast of the Eastern United States.

In 1972 and again in 1974, the Cloggers won the title of World Champion Traditional Clogger at Fiddlers' Grove, North Carolina.

These aren't the only talents coming to Louisburg, because many local townspeople and college students will be performing.

There will be an admission charge to all for the Friday, March 21 concert. Showtime is 7:30 p.m.

Other members of the Players will be involved in costuming, lighting, tickets, and other phases of production. Sandy Versteeg, an instructor of Drama in the Franklin County public schools, will direct the show.

Showtime for all performance will be 7:30. LC students are admitted free through reserved seats. Admission for all others is 75 cents for students and $1.00 for adults.
