Columns

RUSTY BARATH, Editor

DANNY CLARK, Associate Editor KATHY BULLARD, Managing Editor BOB BRUECKNER, Adviser

ARCHIVES
ARCHIVES
ARCHIVES

SID PROCTOR, Sports Editor STEPHEN WHEELER, Business Mgr. GRAYSON POWELL, Photo Editor

Staff Writers: Lisa Milton, Darla Chiangi, Frankie Bartholamew, Ronnie Lawerence, Colleen Currin, Scott Berkeley, Cozette Washburn. Typists: Doe Spivey, Lea Peterson, Vivian Overton, Penny Meadows, Lisa Braswell, Karen Coker.

Printing: The Oxford Orphanage Press, Oxford. The Columns is printed bimonthly during the academic year at Louisburg College. Letters to the Editor and Columns are welcome. For information call Extension 261 or 238.

Editorial Comment

by Eddie Woodhouse Associate Editor

The people of NC have re-elected Senator Jesse Helms to another term. They are to be commended. Helms has long been a spokesman of the new conservative trend that has hit this nation. Senator Helms has established himself as a person who will stand up for the battered free enterprise system, and not let our country fall to socialism.

Helm's character cannot be knocked. His honesty, his willingness to work (95% voting record), and his moral values which come from his religious convictions, all contribute in making Helms a great voice for the people. So, it was a big plus for the country to see 615,000

North Carolinians make a wise choice.

However, as expected, some sincerely feel the election had flaws. Betty McCain, chairperson of the North Carolina Democratic Party seems to feel that the election was swayed, not because of the differing philosophies of the candidates, but because of the great sum of money the Helms campaign raised. Some Ingram aides have claimed the election was bought. I can't agree. Granted, the seven million dollars the Helms cause gathered enabled them to get the exposure they wanted, and the $300,000 that Ingram raised is fractional to that of Helms. Yet Ingram was not "fighting terrific odds" as he stated in his concession speech, and money (or his lack of it) wasn't responsible for his defeat. Ingram should have only been helped by several visits by President Carter, and continual endorsement by Gov. Jim Hunt (who appears to be one of the most popular governors in the state's history). The White House even lobbied hard for a Helms defeat. Ingram only hurt himself by a constant verbal pounding of Helms' treasury and in his words, Helms' vote "against the people." Voters became tired of the same speech over and over. This was only a small reason why Ingram lost. North Carolinians were more satisfied with Senator Helms' opposition to wasteful government spending. Helms was certainly correct in saying people aren't going to turn to Washington for solutions to their problems; Washington is the problem. With this in mind, the voters realized that sending Ingram to Washington would be like sending a blank check with him.

In a state where Democrats outnumber Republicans 3 to 1, Helms obviously pulled votes from people who weren't afraid to jump party lines. Helms pulled 65 counties including Randolph county, the home of Ingram. Helms was even endorsed by two powerhouse newspapers, "The Charlotte News" and "The Winston-Salem

Sentinel."

I wish only the best for John Ingram and hope he will serve the people well as Insurance Commissioner.

As a southerner, we can be proud that we have a man who has our best interest at heart. I hope that at least for another six years, Senator Jesse Helms will continue to vote against unnecessary spending.

Classifieds

For Sale: 4-barrel manifold for Ford 428 or 390. New 135.00 asking 65.00. Contact Box 1438.

Found: Men's ring. Come to Mrs. King's Office and identify.

STATIONARY NOTES picturing Louisburg College Main Building are now available in the College Bookstore. Sales proceeds go to the Fellowships Fund of the American Association of University Women.

THIS BEAUTY WAS OWNED BY A COLLEGE KID WHO CNLY DROVE IT AROUND CAMPUS...

© COLLEGE MEDIA SERVICES · box 4244 · Berkeley. CA. 94704

Campus Paperback Bestsellers

- 1. The Thorn Birds, by Colleen McCullough. (Avon, $2.50.) Australian family saga: fiction.
- 2. All Things Wise and Wonderful, by James Herriot. (Bantam, $2.75) Continuing story of Yorkshire vet.
- 3. The Dragons of Eden, by Carl Sagan. (Ballantine, $2.25.) The evolution of intelligence.
- 4. Your Erroneous Zones, by Wayne W. Dyer. (Avon, $2.25.) Self-help pep talk.
- The Amityville Horror, by Jay Anson. (Bantam, $2.50.)
 True story of terror in a house possessed.
- 6. Lucifer's Hammer, by Larry Niven & Jerry Pournelle. (Fawcett/Crest, $2.50.) Struggle for survival after gigantic comet hits earth: fiction.
- 7. Dynasty, by Robert S. Elegant. (Fawcett/Crest, $2.75.) Saga of dynamic Eurasian family: fiction.
- 8. The Joy of Sex, by Alex Comfort. (Simon & Schuster, $6.95.) Guide to attaining sexual enjoyment.
- 9. How to Flatten Your Stomach, by Jim Everroad. (Price/Stern/Sloan, $1.75.) Rationale and exercises.
- 10. The Book of Merlyn, by T.H. White. (Berkley, $2.25.) Fantasy about last days of King Arthur: fiction.

This list was compiled October 15, 1978 by The Chronicle of Higher Education from information supplied by college stores throughout the country.