Spirit Week-The Six Days Of Homecoming

By Chris Scott

Louisburg was treated to a six-day school spirit bonanza during the week of November 17 through the 22. Students had great fun dressing differently each day to display student unity and school spirit.

Several messages were sent reminding students to participate in this rare week. They could truly express themselves; perhaps the most successful method was the fake twenty dollar bill that had many students momentarily screaming for joy, until they found out it was just a reminder from the SGA to participate. The messages were successful, however, as many students wore different suits and costumes for the appropriate days.

The theme days were Toga Day, Western Day, Hat Day, Fifties Day, and 2001 Day. Particularly successful were Hat Day and Western Day. The greatest achievement of the week was perhaps the hugely successful Talent Show held in the auditorium on Tuesday night. There were many excellent performances, but the first prize winner was vocalist Jamison Sutton, and the runners-up were Smoke 'N Thai and Company and Jeff Ingle.

Dances were held on Friday and Saturday nights. Both were hosted by the well-balanced music agenda of "The Experience" from Durham. They played records of Beach Music, disco and a little rock and roll. Both dances were successful, but probably the most attended was the Homecoming Dance on Saturday night. Approximately 400 people showed up that night.

A capacity crowd came to the Homecoming game with Ferrum. The cheerleaders had many cute stunts to please the crowd, and it was a good game. At half time, Billy Norris was crowned Homecoming King. He is a freshman from Louisburg. He was escorted by Martha Butler, a student at Louisburg High School. Runner-up was Craig Holten, a freshman from New Bern. He was escorted by Donna Cullipher, a freshman girl basketball player. Others in the Homecoming Court were Walter Krentz, Tommy Freeman, Kelton Durham, Royce Richardson, Tony Autry, and Vernon Bagley.

All in all, Homecoming Week was a great and extremely fun event that kept one wishing for more, but that unfortunately will have to wait until next year.

Cheerleaders Rally Bonfire Crowd

Homecoming weekend really got off with a pop. There was wood crackling in the fire of the first bonfire pep rally of the 80-81 season. The cheerleaders planned a big night that was sure to please the crowd.

The bitter wind and cold air aided in the excitement of the bonfire. Many freezing students and faculty snuggled close to the blazing fire for warmth. Phyllis Farris introduced the Canes Basketball teams. Tommy DeNardo, a member of the Canes team, encouraged all of the fans to come out and support the team. The guys were really looking forward to the season. After all the speeches were over, the cheerleaders got everyone excited and spirited. Many chants and cheers were taught for the game on Saturday against Ferrum.

While the fire was blazing, a dummy made of straw, dressed in

Radio Station Acquires New Albums

By Linda Floyd

Disc Jockeys at W.Q.L.C., the Louisburg College radio station, have been busy lately making improvements. Since October they have added much to the station.

They have acquired many new albums for all Lou-U students to jam by. W.Q.L.C. has also taken on a resident rock and roll group, which they support. The name of W.Q.L.C.'s resident group is Wet Shoes. Wet Shoes is an up-and-coming group from Cambridge, Virginia.

On the educational side, they have added a Public Affairs program. It is on the air on Monday and Wednesday nights at eight p.m. The name of the show is "Shadows of the Nuclear Age." On Tuesday nights at eight p.m. they have another Public Affairs
