

Cheerleaders Honor Basketball Players

By LaPonda Bridges

On Tuesday, February 10th, the Louisburg College Cheerleaders honored the basketball teams. The reception was held in the Blue Room after dinner.

Dean Morgan, Dean Eller, Dean Brown and President and Mrs. Norris were honored guests. The reception gave the cheerleaders a chance to show their appreciation to the players. They pointed out how much fun it was to cheer for super teams and how emotionally involved they were. As stated by Karen Gonzales, "When you lose, we lose, and when you win, boy do we win too!"

The cheerleaders honored the players individually. Each cheerleader had a little catchy line to say about each player. The coaches were very amused. They found out things about their players they never knew before.

After the honoring ceremony, a cake was presented to each team. All in all the reception was a success.

Louisburg College Franklin County Folk Festival Slated For March 27 & 28

By Derek Wilkins

Have you got anything planned for the weekend of March 27-28? If not, plan to stay at Louisburg and enjoy the Folk Festival, being held at Louisburg College Auditorium and at the Louisburg Courthouse Auditorium. It lasts from Friday, March 27 through Saturday, March 28.

The Festival includes contests for music, dance, arts and crafts and more. The Craft Show will be held 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on Saturday in Downtown Louisburg. Also an art contest is to be held in the College Art Gallery at the same time.

A Whistling contest is to be staged in the Louisburg Courthouse Auditorium on Saturday also.

At 7:00 p.m. each night, music and dance will be provided. There is a charge for some of these events, so be sure to check ahead on these charges.

SGA Election Slated For March 26

By Chris Scott

The SGA elections to fill the vacant offices were a success except for a thorn-in-the-side freshman vice-presidential race that would not end. Not only was a run-off declared in that race the first time the elections were held, but when special elections were held just for that race, neither Dwight Creech nor Linda Floyd nor Al Brandon could come up with the 51% of the vote needed to be a clear winner. So another run-off will take place March 26 between Creech and Floyd.

The winners in the first SGA elections were Paula Nicholson, SGA Vice-President, Teresa King, sophomore President and Jo Farrow, freshman Treasurer.

Although these people will probably have their foot in the door in the coming SGA general elections, more people are needed to run for office, because far too often a person runs unopposed for offices that have a heavy impact on student life on this campus. Dean Morgan, SGA advisor and SGA President Robert Mathews urge all those who wish to run to file immediately with SGA Secretary Delphine Alston. She will look over your files and make sure you are qualified to run. If so, you are then an official candidate.

Remember all SGA offices will be open for election. Now is a person's chance to get active and have a say on campus. Seize the moment!

Baptists Outnumber Other Denominations

By Derek Wilkins

Did you know that at Louisburg, which is a Methodist sponsored college that the students who are Baptists outnumber all other denominations listed?

Last semester there was a total of 748 students at Louisburg and 333 of those were Baptists. The rest of the list goes like this: Methodists--188, Presbyterians--63, Episcopalians--46, Catholic--36, Christian--25, No Preference--18, Other--14, Holiness--11, Lutheran--10.

This survey was taken from the first semester. Columns would like to thank Mrs. Sandra Beasley, for her help in the research of this article.

To Hot For Comfort

By LaPonda Bridges

Louisburg College has developed a problem, some say. In the dorms, early in the mornings they say, screams come from every bathroom. Why the screams? the water coming out of the showers is scorching them, in boiling streams they say.

They say the shower has been a problem here at the college since September. Just recently, since the change in weather temperature, the showers have been hotter than ever. Students caught in the lava can't explain what has happened but they know it is uncomfortable.

First they think that they have set the shower exactly the way they want it. They soap the back down and turn to rinse it off. This is when the terror begins. The back is one of the most sensitive areas of the body. It seems as if the water knows when they are about to turn around. The hot streams don't last very long, but they are sure to return within seconds.

Some dorms have it worse than others. Maria Hewitte, who lived in Merritt during the first semester, said that the showers were really bad early in the morning. Because of the hot streams of water she developed a discoloration of the skin on her back.
