be a good place to get individual attention in order to build up English and math skills. He was also attracted to the financial aid programs offered. James was attracted to the college because of its small classes.

Despite their different interests and hobbies, all three brothers share the same career goal - to become an engineer. John is interested in residential architecture while James is more interested in industrial architecture. While in high school, James and his brother Jack worked on a design team that helped design an 85-86 project house. Brother Jack is currently enrolled at N.C. State and is interested in agricultural engineering.

Louisburg College is lucky to have students like John and James. Each brings his own special talents, interests, and contributions to the college. Together they add a certain amount of fun, and of course, confusion to student life.

her way. And many and varied were the questions asked by the instructor, but still more varied were the answers which were given, for some of her teachings had fallen among fertile minds. Others had fallen follow among the fellows, while still others had fallen flat. And among them some there were who wrote for an hour, others wrote for two, and some turned away sorrowful."

"And of these, may offered up a little sacrificial bull, in hopes of pacifying the instructor, for these were the ones who had not a prayer. And when they had finished, they gathered up their belongings and went quietly, each one in his own direction. And each vowing to himself in his manner, I shall not pass this way again. But it is a long road that has no turning."

taking some of the photocopied materials out of the library.

"There are also restrictions on the material copied, and most of the material I photocopied was held until I could go. All of the material was then inspected by the authorities, and they wouldn't let me take a few 'sensitive' things with me. These were materials by forbidden authors that they didn't let out of the country because they didn't want the fascism ideas, which they are ashamed of, publized."

S.G.A. Meeting

following manner by telephone; back before Thanksgiving several lights had been damaged or had burned out and orders for repair by the companies involved had not been completed. Dean Eller said also that the college has put lighting in the parking areas around Patten (old tennis courts) and other security light in areas needed.

Problems and concerns voiced at the meeting will receive the full attention of the college, though some of these problems will always be with us. There are measures that students can take to minimize becoming victims of theft. At all times, no matter how long you may be out of your rooms, lock your doors. Don't leave wallets and cash laying around the room, lock the doors between your suites.
