Dating Game, A Big Success

by Tammi Baldwin

"If you were an animal, what would your mating call be?" This is just one example of the humorous questions that were asked during the Wednesday, October 7 edition of the Dating Game, held in Wright dormitory lobby.

Franklin and Wright dormitories sponsored the popular "home edition," of the popular television program. In all, 24 student contestants took part in the successful activity which featured questions and answers from students hidden from each other as they choose dates.

Six couples were selected after all of the questions and answers. Winning couples received a complimentary dinner to Pizza Hut, courtesy of Franklin and Wright dorms.

Resident directors Renee' Leverett and Hall Turner were pleased with the turnout of over 100 people. To date, "The Dating Game," has produced the biggest turn out for a dorm activity this year.
