

Club/Organizations Fair Set For Monday

By Keith Roberts

The Office of Student Affairs would like to encourage all new and returning students to attend the Organization and Activities Fair featuring clubs and organizations of Louisburg College.

The Fair will be held Monday August 24, 1992 in the College Auditorium, between the hours of 1:00 pm and 4:00 pm. This will give students an excellent opportunity to get acquainted with the student organizations offered for extra-curricular involvement.

The College maintains a balanced program of social activities, some of which are annual traditions of long standing, such as celebrations at Halloween, Homecoming, Valentine's Day, and spring Weekend. Students also participate in a variety of campus student publications, such as The Columns and The Oak, the College's newspaper and year-book, and Wolfpen Branch, the literary magazine. The Christian Life Council, CLC, offers students religious life activities. The CLC is under the advisorship of Chaplain Sidney Stafford. Cultural events play a major role in a balanced agenda for student life. The office of Cultural and Public Affairs sponsors many events of the Arts. Films, guest speakers, and concerts will be open to all Louisburg College Students. Students may also involve themselves with intramurals under the direction of Mr. Ervin Williams. Men and women students will be able to compete in a variety of sports including soccer, football, softball and basketball to name a few.

The list of clubs and organizations also includes The Appalachian Trail and White Water Club, Cheerleaders, Glee Club, College Ensemble, the Louisburg Players, Residence Life Council, WAVES, Student Government Association, WQLC Students Radio, and the Young Democrats and Republicans Clubs.

So if it's involvement you are seeking, get yourself over to the Clubs and Organizations Fair Monday. There will be a lot to choose from!

LOUISBURG COLLEGE

Welcome Students

Learning Should Be Joyous!

*Dr. C. Edward Brown, Jr.
Interim Pres. & Academic Dean*

By C. Edward Brown, Jr.

I will be your Academic Dean during your stay at Louisburg College, and I welcome the opportunity to assist you in any way that I can. I will also be serving as your President for part of this year while the College engages in a search process to select a new President.

I am glad that you are going to be a part of the 1992-93 chapter in the life of Louisburg College. Students like you make the lives of the staff and faculty very interesting and full of rewarding experiences. We enjoy helping you face the challenges, joys and labors of learning. You might question the joy, but yes, there should be joy in learning along with the hard work.

It should be fun to learn and we hope you find it so at Louisburg College.

We cannot promise you that all your learning experiences will be easy or totally successful. What we do promise you is that we will assist you in every legitimate way to achieve your learning goals. I have heard some not-so-industrious students say that it would have been nice if they could have inherited knowledge from their parents in the same way they acquired big feet, and they wished they could absorb knowledge by osmosis or could purchase it in a plastic bag like bread. I have always been glad that knowledge is not acquired in any of these labor free ways because I wanted to do it my way and have the fun of learning. Yes, it will take work, perhaps more than has ever been required of you, but there are many sources of help at Louisburg College if you will just ask. I hope you will pay close attention during orientation when we show you all the sources you can consult when you need assistance.

As your Academic Dean, I am responsible for Louisburg College's academic programs, academic standards and most matters pertaining to the Faculty. I am very proud of the academic reputation that Louisburg College enjoys and I am particularly proud of our Faculty. I enjoy working with them and no doubt, you will like them too. They are well-trained, student-oriented people who enjoy teaching. You should respect them and their position, but you need not fear them. You will find that they care about you. They will require you to live up to high standards, but they will give you much assistance in attaining the learning goals they set. If you do your part, you will find that they will prepare you for your future academic pursuits.

Louisburg College offers many enrichment opportunities outside the classroom: art, sports, drama, music, concerts, chapel programs, clubs, dances, talent shows, newspaper, literary magazine, student government, guest speakers, films, etc. I encourage you to look carefully at the total College program and to get involved. Such activities will add greatly to your education and to the enjoyment of your college days. So, take part in and attend events that you think you would like and even some that do not seem interesting. You might be surprised.

I feel fortunate to have been a part of Louisburg College for sixteen years. It is truly a special place doing special things in special ways. I know you also will enjoy being a part of LOU-U, and I hope you will develop a life-long attachment.

A Time For Change!

By J. Craig Eller

Hello, and welcome to the Louisburg College experience. Together we (the faculty, staff, administration, and students) are starting out on an educational journey which will last for about nine months. You, the students, will be considerably changed at the end of the journey; the rest of us will change, also, but not as obviously nor as much.

Let's think about change for a moment. Some people believe that all of us naturally resist change, particularly change that we do not understand. Yet in this case, we have all agreed that change is in order: improved study habits, more mature ways of thinking, new friends and a change of attitude. The wonderful thing is that you have the capability of directing and facilitating all of this change for yourself as it fits your personal goals and aspirations.

Some of you will have entered college with labels that were stuck on you years ago by your friends, classmates or teachers. Those labels are invisible to everyone here and are easily shed. No one is going to judge you or classify you by what you did or didn't do in high school or earlier. The record that you accumulate from here on will determine how you are viewed by your teachers, classmates, and future employees.

In student affairs we are committed to helping you to bring about the most positive, helpful and personally rewarding experience possible at Louisburg College. Whether in residence hall life, food service, health, security, extra-curricular activities, or programming, your concerns are our concerns. We welcome you and look forward to getting to know you.
