It may not look scary now, but this weekend the Perry House will be the cause of many a fright. The Student Government Association is sponsoring a charity Haunted House.

Charity Haunted House Planned

by Wendy E. Michel

This is the first year the Student Government Association will be hosting a haunted house for all Louisburg College students as well as the public. Canned goods will be collected from each person at the entrance: however, for those who do not have a canned good, the cost will be one dollar. All proceeds will be given to the Care and Share Program and then distributed to needy families for Thanksgiving.

The S.G.A. Haunted House will be located next door to Ervin Williams' home behind Patten Hall. It will be open this Friday the 27th and Saturday the 28th from 7pm to 9:30pm.

"One exciting feature is the Chamber of Death!" said Ginger Bray. It will be great fun and everyone should take the time to come!" said Bray, a member of S.G.A. "The initial funds from S.G.A. have provided a sufficient amount of money to spend on the activity," said Bray. "It will be a lot of fun!"

So, if you haven't exactly figured out how to spend the Friday and Saturday before Halloween, you have now! Don't miss the S.G.A. Haunted House!

UP IN SMOKE Playing hardball with drug users

by Matthew Yehiel

Dope. Weed. Pot. Call it what you will, marijuana has hit Louisburg College.

This year the administration has adopted a "zero tolerance" policy. If a student is caught on campus with marijuana, other drugs or paraphernalia he or she is automatically suspended for one semester.

According to Dean of Students Michael Krause four students have already been suspended from school due to marijuana possession, one of them being a freshman who was caught on the second day of school.

Last year if someone was caught with drug paraphernalia they lost their financial aid and lost privileges around campus. They were also recommended for a counseling program. The change of policy was brought around in part by students who were fed up with the slack disciplinary measures handed out to drug users. The Student Affairs Committee which consists of students and faculty decided to ditch the old plan and implement the new no-frills approach.

The new policy also applies to students who are
