

Louisburg College COLUMNS

THE STUDENT VOICE

VOL. 55, NO.2 OCTOBER 21, 1997

SGA on Profile by Kiejah Dionne

New Student Government Association officers want to give their all to Louisburg. When recently interviewed, the freshmen, sophomore, and executive class presidents discussed their ideas for making this year better.

Elizabeth Lohr, freshmen class president stated, "I want to work on a variety of things that will build up the team spirit and get the student body together as one. One thing I really want to do is a 'Garbage Pick-Up Day' where there are games involved. It will help the environment and bring students together for a good cause."

Tina Outlaw, sophomore class president, stated, "I want the SGA to give students the opportunity to assist in making decisions about student, academics and student life." Outlaw considers herself a good role-model because she is hard-working, responsible, and very dedicated to making Lou-U better.

Jamie Dew, the president of the executive class, said that one of the biggest things that he plans to fix is the maintenance service for the residence halls. "There are some students, including myself, that will turn in a request for repairs and not get a response for one to two weeks," remarked Jaime Dew.

Dew said in general, "I wouldn't ask any student here to do anything that I wouldn't do." When asked if he considered himself to be a good role-model, he said, "I admit making my own mistakes, but for the most part, I've tried to stay true to my word. I just want people to know that it is okay to be yourself, be comfortable with who you are, and still have a good time."

From left to right: (Parliamentarian) Mike Nelms, (Treasurer) Wendy Clark, (Secretary) Mary Charles Smith, (President) Jamie Dew, and (Vice President) Jennifer White

INSIDE COLUMNS...

Inside Lou-U.....	2
Talent Unmasked.....	3
Out There.....	4
Cultural Splash.....	5
Sound Off!.....	6