Minority Graduate Student Locator Service

How can minority college students planning for graduate school find the right opportunities for advanced study?

One way is with the Minority Graduate Student Locator Service, developed by Educational Testing Service (ETS) and offered by the Graduate Record Examinations Board.

Through this free service, college juniors, seniors and graduates who are members of racial and ethnic minorities in the United States can make their intentions known to graduates schools seeking such applicants.

Students sign up by completing the registration form contained in the GREMGSLs Information Bulletin. It is the same form used to register for the Graduate Record Examinations, comprehensive aptitude and advanced tests used in the admissions process by many of the nation's graduate schools. But students do not have to take the GRE to use the Locator Service.

To take part, students describe themselves by answering questions that ask for ethnic background, undergraduate major, intended graduate major and other information about educational experience and objectives. This information is placed in the Locator Service file and made available to participating graduate schools upon request. GRE scores are not included in the Locator Service file.

Each graduate school established its own criteria to select students from the Locator Service file based on ethnic background, intended major field of study, degree objective and state of residence. The names of students who use the Locator Service and meet the criteria set by a particular school will automatically be sent to that school.

Graduate schools will contact the students in whom they are interested to inform them of application procedures.

Because of the interest among graduate schools throughout the nation in attracting qualified minority students, a student's name often will be sent to several institutions.

Because a graduate school may not wish to contact all students whose names it receives, students are not informed of the identity of those institutions to which their names have been forwarded.

The Locator Service is not an application to graduate school or for financial assistance and does not constitute a guarantee of admission for financial aid. It is designed only to supplement a student's own efforts to locate and seek admission to a suitable graduate program and to find resources for financial assistance.

Information students supply for the Locator Service file is treated confidentially and is released only to participating graduate schools and scholarship programs.

The Information Bulletin explains all students must know to participate in the service. Copies of the bulletin may be obtained at most colleges or by writing to MGSLs, Box 2615, Princeton, N.J. 08541.

The GRE and the MGSLs are administered by ETS under policies determined by the GRE Board, an independent board affiliated with the Association of Graduate Schools and the Council of Graduate Schools in the United States.

WHAT TO DO AFTER COLLEGE . . .

is a question a lot of young people in high school and college are asking. Then, even if you get the finest college degree, where can you use it meaningfully?

Perhaps the answer lies in becoming an Air Force officer through Air Force ROTC. We have many different career areas in which specialists of all kinds are needed. And as an Air Force commissioned officer you can have unequalled opportunity for leadership and management experience, plus an excellent starting salary and benefits package.

Consider Air Force ROTC as a gateway to a great way of life for you. Find out about the benefits of a four, three or two-year scholarship that pays $100 a month, tuition, book costs and lab fees. Couple that with what will be waiting after graduation, and you have the answer to what you've been looking for.
