

Aluta Continua!

Time to Make a Change, BSM President Says

Habari Gani! (What's the good News?!) It is in the spirit of community that I come to you. I'm very happy with the progress of the Black Student Movement thus far, but our work has just begun.

Brothers and sisters, we have a great commitment to each other, that begins with a look at self. We must continue to be our brothers' and sisters' keeper. Whether we know it or not, all we have is each other, so that support must be there daily.

We have just finished officially celebrating the great Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. and his contributions toward promoting social change. WELL ITS TIME TO MAKE THAT CHANGE. We can no longer settle for what is given to us, instead we must insist upon that which is deserved. The retention and recruitment of black faculty, permanent, free-standing facility, that will be used for educating the campus community on the intellectual, social and cultural contributions of African Americans. By knowing the experience, you begin to know yourself.

This has been a struggle for several years. These things and others cannot be accomplished unless we work as a community of intellectually and culturally skilled individuals.

We should be a proud people, for the record shows we are the sons and daughters of kings and queens.

Let's make 1992 a year of POSITIVE CHANGE.

staff and students MUST increase. The Sonya Haynes Stone Black Cultural Center needs a

Aluta continua (The Struggle Continues)
Epps is president of the BSM.

Junior Wins Scholarship

By Sharilyn Seale
Ink Staff Writer

The recipient of the 10th Annual Martin Luther King Award for the 1992 year is Cassandra Caldwell, a 21-year-old junior from Hope Mills, majoring in Speech Communications and minoring in African-American studies.

"It is a wonderful award because it is based on service to the university community," Caldwell said. "(The award) can only benefit the university since it promotes leadership on campus."

When asked if black students were keeping the dream alive, Caldwell said, "African-American students are not keeping the dream alive because they are not working to their fullest potential on campus. More students need to seek leadership positions on campus to empower other African-American students."

Caldwell is a resident assistant, minority advisor, the information coordinator for the Carolina Week by Week and a member of Delta Sigma Theta sorority. Her outside interests include cooking and working with the 4-H Club to help revise the public speaking curriculum.

The MLK scholarship is awarded to a junior by the Office of the Vice-Chancellor for University Affairs. The original award amount of $100 has since been increased to $500. Students are nominated by faculty members or may nominate themselves. All nominees are then sent applications. They must submit an essay, a list of their activities, two letters of recommendation and a resume. Students are chosen based on academic excellence and their service to the university campus.

Arnie Epps and Christy Hale were the two other finalists.

Black Ink Photo by: Evan Elle

The Black Student Movement held its annual candidates forum Wednesday. Afterward, the BSM endorsed Mark Bibbs (shown above) for student body president, Wendy Bounds and Dacia Toll for Daily Tar Heel editors, Charles Streeter for Residence Hall Association president and Tracy Kirincich for Carolina Athletic Association president.

Clip and Save

Hair Tips

1. Wash Hair Weekly.
2. Condition With Mayonnaise Monthly.
3. Cover With Towel in The Shower.
4. Trim Ends Monthly.
5. Brush Each Night.
6. See Shurli Often.

Shurli McAdoo
Hairstylist
110 Starlite Drive
Carrboro, NC
942-1247