

Gardner-Webb Projects School Guidance Plan

Schoolmasters Enthusiastically Endorse Program For High School Seniors Of County

At the December meeting of the Schoolmasters' Club of Cleveland County held at the Charles Hotel in Sneeuwy, President F. L. Elliott presented the plans for a guidance program among the high school seniors of Cleveland County. The principals, teachers, and administrative personnel of the schools were enthusiastic.

The plan as tentatively projected is to give psychological and aptitude tests to all the high school seniors of both northward and Cleveland counties during March. At a later date and after the tests have been graded and tabulated, a member of the faculty of the college will have a personal conference with each pupil endeavoring to guide him into the line of work or to the college where he is best suited to go or, in fact, has the type of work that the tests show that he ought to pursue. Colleges in this section have been contacted and asked for material which will be used to point the students to the college which will offer the courses designed to help them, which they desire to further their education.

Rutherford County will be given the same offer. Gardner-Webb is offering this service without cost to the schools and without any thought of a selfish nature other than being of service to this fine group from our high schools each year. It is the supreme ideal of this college to be of service.

This work will be under the supervision of W. Lawson Aitch, teacher and director of church-school relations for the college.

Miss Cuthbertson Freshman Sponsor

The Freshman class met in the E. B. Hamrick Auditorium following chapel January 3, 1945. President Marjorie White presided and recognized Willard Jenkins. He asked for suggestions for the contents of the Freshman page in the Anchor. It was decided that a letter of commendation of the sophomores be used in the annual. The business of electing a class sponsor was carried out, and Miss Frances Cuthbertson was unanimously elected.

A. R. L.'S DECIDE TO GET PENNANTS

At the December meeting of the Athenaeum Rhamseur Literary Society the members planned to get pennants bearing the name of their society. The A. R. L.'s will now be spotted by the pennants on the backs of their books and notebooks. The words Athenaeum Rhamseur Society are in blue printed on a white background with a blue border around the entire edge of the pennant.

There is a story of an old Scottish weaver who always made this prayer: "O God, help me to hold a high opinion of myself."

Professor Stacy: "Why don't you answer me?"

Student: "I did, professor. I shook my head."

Professor Stacy: "But you don't expect me to hear it rattle way up here, do you?"

SOPH GIRLS WIN BY 19-18 SCORE

Friday night, January 5, began another sports event of the school year for the W. A. A. Basketball, the sport of sports, got underway on our campus with a game between the freshman and sophomore girls. The vivid cheer-leaders in our school colors, black and red, on the sidelines urged the teams into a very spirited game.

Folly Costner was star player for the sophomores leading as high scorer with 8 points. Speedy Nancy Trout and her hot for the freshmen girls was also high scorer for the game.

Before the game the teams organized themselves, electing captain and manager. For the sophomores Polly Camp was chosen captain and Margaret Roberts manager. The freshmen elected their captain Katherine Crawford and Marjorie White, manager.

The remainder of the season should be as exciting as the first with such sportsmanship and cooperation that was shown. The teams were both so nearly equal that everyone was in doubt as to the outcome would be. The score at the half was 11 to 7, sophomores.

The Sophomore class took victory over the first game with a 19-18 score.

We need the peace of God in our heart just as really for the doing of the greatest duties of our secular life as for the doing of the greatest duties of Christ's kingdom. Our face ought to shine, and our spirit ought to be tranquil, and our eyes ought to be steady, and our nerves ought to be steady, as we press through the tasks of our commonest day. Then we shall do all things well, slurs that we want, marring nothing. We want heart peace before we begin any day's duties, and we should be at Christ's feet ere we go forth.—Dr. J. R. Miller.

"Refuse to open your purse and soon you can't open your sympathy. Refuse to give, and soon you will cease to endeavor, and your nerves ought to be steady, as we press through the tasks of our commonest day. In order to have some excitement and to test their strength and ability as basketball players, the sophomore boys and the freshman boys clashed in a one-sided, but well-played game Friday night, January 3. Although the sophomores exceeded the freshmen in height and skill, their victory was not an exceptionally easy one.

The sophomores were fast in taking the lead at the beginning of the game, and at half-time they still seemed to possess the ball, with the freshmen trailing 20 to 5. But the freshmen buckled down in the last half of the game and scored only 3 points less than the sophomores with the final tally reading 33 to 15.

Shining for the sophomores was J. T. Jones, Jr., leading his team with a high score of 14 points. No individual starred on the freshman team, although Blanton, J. Hoyle and C. Jolley led with 4 points each. Each team worked together nicely, with each performing his duties well.

Small but fast Carl Jolley and Eugene Hoyle, freshman and sophomore guards respectively, played very nicely from the time of the starting whistle until the end of the game. Both seemed very calm and collected during pressing moments. If they keep up the good work along with the rest of the boys, the Bulldogs will have an excellent team.

Sophomores Freshmen
Greene, 6 Bridges
Jones, 14 Jolley, 4
Hamrick, 3 J. Hoyle, 4
G. Hoyle, 2 Blanton, 4
Lowery, 6 C. Jolley, 4
Substitutes: Sophomores—Shaw, 2; Beason, Freshmen—r/nlibck.

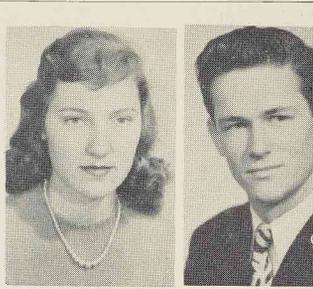

BASKETBALL PLANS MADE BY NEW LEADERS

The Gardner-Webb boys decided that in order to have a good basketball team they must have some good leaders. They met and elected Sam Greene, Jr., and J. T. Jones, Jr. as co-captains and Bob Beason and Billy Pegram as co-managers. Also the boy's Athletic Association was organized and some rules made concerning basketball activities.

After going through some strenuous workouts the team is almost in shape for a game. With a few more stiff practices they will be ready for a full schedule. So far they look very good, and with the grand performances of our co-captains, stars from last year's team, we are sure we will have a great season filled with victories for the G-W Bulldogs.

With so many good newcomers out to play, it is very difficult to decide who will be on the first team. Each player will probably play on the first team at one time or other throughout the season.

All the boys are happy to have B. E. "Pop" Simmons as their coach, and under his splendid leadership it seems that the Bulldogs will have a team not surpassed by any in the county.

SOPHOMORE SUPERLATIVES—Miss Margaret Roberts, left, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Lawrence Roberts of Shelby, and J. T. Jones, Jr., right, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Troy Jones, also of Shelby, were recently voted the best all round girl and boy of the sophomore class. Miss Roberts is active in campus activities, holding the offices of treasurer of the B. S. U. Council, secretary of the Marshall club, president of the W. A. A., sports editor of the Pilot, art editor of the Anchor, secretary of the Glee Society and of the Student Government, a college marshal and president of the sophomore class. Others elected were: Most Popular Girl and Boy—Jackie Hisea and Bob Beason; Most Dependable—Ovelia Benefield and Milton Hamrick; Most Athletic—Marian Lipscomb and Gene Hoyle; Prettiest Girl—Margaret Wacaster; Most Handsome Boy—Sam Greene; Jr.; Most Influential—Ruby Connor, and Most Likely to Succeed—Mary Grace Queen.

BSU CARRIES ON Cathedrals And EXTENSION WORK Christianity

On December 17, the missionary students of Gardner-Webb once again journeyed to Shelby to do some extension work for our B. S. U. But this time they did not stop in Shelby.

Mr. Mode met them at the bus station and carried them over to the colored prison camp. Some of them had never been to a prison camp before, and it was very exciting for them. But, most of all, they realized that they were there for something more than excitement. They gave their personal testimonies and sang some songs. The colored boys seemed to receive a great blessing. When they saw those men come in with chains and stripes on, to hear more about Christ, somehow it gave them a greater determination to do more extension work through the B. S. U.'s leadership. Those taking part in this trip were: Dorothy Franklin, L. J. Benefield, Polly Shook, Mary Kate Bostic, Marjorie White, Beatrice Wilson, Myrtle Whitaker, and Emma Sue Milard. They came back to our campus with more love and a new strength to work!

Another phase of extension work through the B. S. U. is the observation of Student Night at Christmas. It wasn't possible for all members to observe it, but Ruby Connor, our first vice president, did observe it at her church. It turned out very successful. They feel that the church knows more about the B. S. U. and its purpose since their program.

The B. S. U. is still trying to hold its distinction of having first Magnitude. We hope to continue to hold this distinction throughout the year.

Cathedrals And EXTENSION WORK Christianity

The world in the past has made the mistake of thinking that Christianity could be embalmed in the frozen splendor of architecture. But cathedrals do not mean the preservation of Christianity. We can have cathedrals and lose Christianity. Our Baptist people should keep in mind the fact that a great church building does not always mean a great church when measured from the Christian point of view. A press dispatch states that the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York City has opened one section of that great building to the public. Nineteen million dollars have been spent so far in its construction and it will take ten million more to complete it. When finished it will be one of the world's greatest cathedrals, second only in size to St. Peter's in Rome. But what about New York City? Does that cathedral mean less crime and more righteousness in that great center of population?

"I KNOW WHERE THE BAD PLACES ARE!"

The president of an ocean liner was taking a journey across the water, and when the ship entered a very dangerous channel he engaged it in a conversation with the pilot, who, by the way, was a whiskered old man of sixty-eight, with all the appearance of having spent most of his days on the water. The magnate remarked: "Suppose you know all the dangerous places in this channel?" The pilot, looking straight out into the night, gravely replied: "None." "You don't!" said the magnate, very much surprised. "Then, why on earth are you in charge of that wheel? What do you know?" "I know where the bad places are," coolly replied the old pilot, with the satisfaction of the magnate.
