HENDRICKS (Continued from Page One)

unfortunates in other ways. The unfortunates in other ways. The total membership of the church is 555 and the enrollment of the Sunday school numbers 416 with an average attendance of 224. Various organizations, among them the Bap-Training Union, the Baptist therhood, and the Missionary Brotherhood, and the Missionary Union with 115 members meet on Sunday night or through the week. The activities of the church are divided among 25 committees, Also, divided among 25 committees, Also, the church sponsors gatherings on soil conservation, 4-H Clubs, Grange, and home demonstration clubs which meet at the community Olive Chapel provides not only the spiritual needs of its mem-bers, but also teaches them new and better farming and homemaking practices

The new department will offer two college courses, and a special night course. The two college courses will be Church Administration and Community Development The night course is called "A Church at Work in its Community' is designed to help ministe and church leaders form more ef-fective paths of work and endeavor in their churches. There will also be a discussion course in which ex-De a discussion course in which ex-periences, successes, and failures will be aired among the group. New aid for the course will be made available at the library. These will include such things as books will include such things as books will include such things as boost on rural and industrial community life and church work, a loose leaf encyclopedia of ideas on rural and industrial life, visual aids, special surveys and research materials, surveys and research materials, building plans for churches and parbuilding plans for churches and par-sonages, and an up to date built-tin service. A rural and industrial life encyclopedia is being compil-ed by Hendricks from letters and papers he has collected during the past decade. The encyclopedia will include personal comments from some of the finest men in the nation in the field of rural church

Rev. Hendricks has been appointed by Gov. Scott and invited by president Truman to attend the mid-century White House Con- is destin ference on Children and Young of God People, for bettering the welfare of the nations children Dec. 3 through 7.

Perhaps the best theme for the new Department Church-Commun-ity Development comes from Ar-thur Morgan's The Small Community with which Hendricks concluded a study he made in 1948: "In modern times the small community has played the part of an orphan n an unfriendly world. It has been despised, neglected, exploited, rob-bed. The cities have skimmed of off the cream of its young population the small community has sup plied the lifeblood of civilization and neglect of it has been one the primary reasons for the slow-ness and the interrupted course of human progress. It is high time that the fundamental significance of the small community be recognized."

Then there was the man who Then there was the man who went crazy trying to make a donut out of less dough. When he made the hole bigger it took more dough to go around it, and when he made the hole smaller it took more dough to full it up. to fill it up.

A true egotist is one who works on crossword puzzle with a fountain

Campus Big Wheels Frank Wilson

Sincerity and humility are two Frank Wilson's most marked qualities, and they color everything he says or does. He belongs to that devout few who practice what they preach. Don't get the idea, how-ever, that he is solemn to the extent of being a kill-joy. His sparkl-ing sense of humor and unbounded enthusiasm make him popular among both boys and girls. A quiet, unassuming manner frequently mis-leads people into thinking him shy, but nothing could be farther from the truth. On occasion he is quite capable of "shooting a good lin of high-grade bull," and of holding ment. The three most often heard remarks concerning Frank are th he is a Christian fellow, a regular Joe, and all right guy.

Frank modestly belittles the role he played in high school. In his own words, "I lived for baseball and baseball alone." He was both popular and successful on the mound lar and successful on the mound for Gastonia Hieh School. In 1946 he hurded his team to the state cham-bonship, Again in 1967. Its section-tic states and the state states are states ramon, his brilliant pitching was in-strumental in bringing the state championship back to Gastonia. Aryone who saw his amazim relief pitching for G. W. Lat yet with into every buch he makes. into every pitch he makes.

After working for two years received his call to the ministry, and enrolled in G. W. for the fall term in 1949. His record here has been enviable. As president of the B.S.U. he has inspired the entire organization to greater heights of service. Upon graduation from G W. next spring, he plans to enroll in Carson-Newman, After that, he has no definite plans, but he is considering attending Southwest-ern Baptist Theological Seminary in has Teyes Regardless of his final decisions, we are destined to lose a wonderful pitcher, and the world is destined to gain a crusading man

A Rat's Views Of Rat Day By ELEANOR COGDILL

Rat Day was ushered in with a bang one Tuesday morning a few weeks ago — the bang being the slamming of doors, feet tramping across the campus, and the shout-ing of "Rats, rats, rats!" _We ing of "Rats, rats, rats!" We couldn't be certain if it was Phacouldn't be certain if it was Pha-roah's army or the Pied Piper of Hamilton calling all humble beings to follow him. Well, we soon found out. It was the most honorable upperclassmen who were going to take advantage of us poor "rats" that day, and who wanted to get it off with an early start.

The first gathering place for us eatures, and where we got the finishing touches of make-up, was in front of the E. B. Hamrick Building. And as if we didn't have enough to do under our physical education teacher, Miss Morgan, we girls. with the canable direction of Jonelle Teague gave a sample of what good students we are. Thus began the hardships of the day.

Of course we couldn't let the teachers out so easily, so about 4:30

Agnes Mull

Agnes Mull is the sort of person who takes everything seriously but herself. This unusual trait of be-ing able to laugh at her troubles while sympathizing with those of while sympathizing with those of others has endeared her to pactically everyone on the campus. other things: Agnes is always busy and usually laughing. In fact, when and usually laughing. In lact, when work is mentioned, a goodly por-tion of our students and faculty automatically think of Agnes. Sho prides herself on being a moun-tain-girl. Her monologues about her thill-billy background and neighbors are quite amusing, especially the facial controling which she em-ploys to illustrate her yarns. To sum everything up, she is a well-rounded person and personality.

A look at her high school record is startling. How could anyone per-son do so many things so well? Her activities ranged all the way from president of the Beta Club to directing her junior class play and starring in her senior class play. starring in her senior class play, In addition she was secretary and treasurer of her junior and senior classes, editor of the yearbook, and played four years of varsity basket-ball serving as co-captain. The scholastic record she made was above reproach. Then, too, from all reports we have had, she must have had as much fun as any four of her classmates

Her achievements here at G.W have been just as outstanding. The honor-roll isn't complete without her name, and faculty members rely questions which have the remainder of the class in stunned silence secretary and treasurer of our Student Government Association, active marshal, and a member of the Pilot Staff, Agnes has proven almost indispensible to these organi-zations, She also assists Mrs. Ham-rick and Mr. Martin in a scoretarial capacity. In a lighter vein, we shouldn't forget that she is an active member of the East Wing Rene gades of the girls' dormitory. Laugh ingly, Agnes takes life in her stride, and dares the world to ignore her.

we lined up two by two and head-ed for their houses. First came the G. I. apartments to get some of our fellow students out of bed. Then came the teachers' houses, After we succeeded in waking most of them, we marched back to the dorm and woke the others who were lucky enough to sleep through it all enough to sieep through it all. By this time, we had worked up a good appetite, but, being Rats, we couldn't enjoy our meal. Trying to eat soft done eggs with a knife easy. And there were so many interruptions were really making good use of our humble service.

During class, everything happened from trying to wake the stu-dents up with alarm clocks to telling our professors that they didn't know what they were talking about Goodness knows how many poor boys were cornered with a .22 and preed to propose! Then came what was probably the most looked-forward-to event of the day-Rat Court. With Your Honor, Wade Sparks, presiding over the court, the law breakers were given their due punishment.

Then came lunch and the big job of the day - trying to eat peas with a knife. How we Rats envied the "most honorable upper class-

I.R.C. Endorses MacArthur Move

After a spirited session of debate, the International Relations Club of Gardner-Webb voted last week record as endorsing to go on United Nation's crossing of the 38th parallel in Korea as the "wisest and safest" decision which could have been made under the circumstances. The supporting majority was lead by Mr. Loyd Hales and Mr. Kenneth Dettmar. They argu-Mr. Kenneth Dettmar. They argu-ed that failure to cross the 38th parallel of Korea would be nothing nore than an invitation to future more than an invitation to future agression by the regrouping Com-munist of North Korea. The sup-porting group further said that the failure to cross the 38th parallel would constitute a default of the United Nations' obligation to re-establish free and democratic government for the whole of Korea.

The members opposing the reso-lution were lead in the debate by Mr. Bob Ward, Mr. Robert Wright, and Mrs. Andy Sealey. The oppos-nig members maintained stouthy that the decision to cross the 38th parallel was an unnecessary risk which might involve the United Nawhich might involve the United Na-tions in a war with Red China. They said that the very least we could expect was a long guerrilla war in North Korea after we crossed the 20th menual 38th parallel.

The final vote on the resolution

(Continued from Pase One) HOMECOMING

with red and black satin ribbon. During the half, the Cherryville and Kings Mountain High School bands gave a spectacular performbands gave a spectacular perform-ance displaying skillid utills. The Cherryville band wore attractive blue uniforms while the Kings Mountain band wore orange and black uniforms. The Kings Moun-tain band led the way; forming the letters, C. W.; and Cherryville Joined them by forming the let-lets, P. J. C.

men" sitting back in perfect ease listening to Frances Rhyne's ren-dition of "You'll Never Know." while we struggled through those peas! The meal was completed with a long, low howl from Rachel Morgan

After lunch came the big disap-After lunch came the big disap-pointment of the day. We were made to spend our last cent just to try to get on the good side of our superiors. Filling them up with ice cream and cokes was much to their pleasure and much to our regre

At 1:45 we could try to get rid of the grease paint that covered our faces and the attire which was looked upon with much apprasial. We Rats had made history.