Campus Big Wheels

Iim Weaver

In Arlington County, Va., population 140,000, the water depart-ment was summoned to the Weaver home to investigate a small leak or in this publication's vernacular, a Big Wheel. Anyway, it was in 1931, an odd year, that Jim Weaver was born in the bestest city in the country our years of his life were spent in Washington and Lee School in Arlington where Jim did much work with radio his last two years. He has worked for two sum-mers with The Washington Times Herald as a photographer which he considers his most interesting and varied work behind the camera. While in this work he has had t privilege of interviewing such personalities as Bob Hope, Marta To ren, Vic Damone, and Jane Powell. His prize photographs are the ones he did of President Truman and V. President Barkley. Last summer Jim had his own busine ed largely of portraitures, his newest interest in photography. In ad-dition, he has illustrated two ar-ticles for Woman's Day magazine.

Well, Gardner-Webb's gain was brother George's loss when Jim decided to matriculate here last Janu ary. He is doing splendid work in Public Relation's Department as school photographer and is add-ing much to the success of the 1952 Anchor and Pilot

His life-long ambitions have been to learn to fly an airplane and to invent a liquid compound that would ely abolish the razor, but practically speaking, Weaver would like to go into the advertising business and plans to major in journa-lism at U. N. C. next fall.

Soph Officers

Last week the sophomore class had its first meeting of the year for the purpose of electing our class officers for the year and for electing the class superlatives. Jack Hol: president of the Student Body presided at the meeting following class officers were elected: Bobby Pettyjohn, Summer-ville, Ga., President; Pat Withers, Gastonia, Vice-president; and Jo-nelle Teague, Hickory, Secretary-

Then came the election of six boys and six girls to serve as sophomore superlatives. The superlatives were chosen on the basis of their con-tributions to the sophomore class and to Gardner-Webb College as a whole. The following girls were elect-ed as superlatives: Nancy Lincoln, Lynchburg, Va.: Faith Johnson, Magnolia; Doris Adair, Gastonia; Mallo Howking, Gastonia; Magnoila; Doris Adair, Gastonia; Mollie Hawkins, Gastonia, Mar-Moline Hawkins, Gastonia, Mar-quean Ross, Morganton; and Jo Lena Bridges, Shelby. The six boy superlatives were Gaylord Lehman, Inman, S. C.; Charles Rabon, Lugoff, S. C.; Charles Radon, Lug-off, S. C.; Bobby Pettyjohn, Sum-merville, Ga.; Glenn Pettyjohn, Winston-Salem; Max Lennins, Gra-ham; and Jack Holt, Winston-Sal-

Mollie Hawkins

Mollie (Dorothy Dix) Hawkins n't ever done nothing, ain't never been no where-but she's one of biggest wheels on the campus During her freshman year she was in the Y. W. A., Choir, Glee Club in the Y. W. A., Choir, Glee Club Home Ec Club and Christian Volunteer Band. This year she became Music Director on the B. S. U. Council, an active Marshal in the Marshal Club, a member of the House Council (West Wing Hallproctor), a Homecoming sponsor, and a Superlative. Mollie says the best way to like college is to keep busy and get into everything you can, even though you have to miss being on the "A" Honor Roll by a few points. The way she sees it is that much experience is gained in this way which will be of considerable more value in the future Mollie loves to sing and talk and ve and learn and love. She also live and learn and loves nursing, and her work at the clinic, playing basketball, domestic and religious education in particular doesn't know exactly what the future holds, but she will do it all with the best of her ability. Maybe she'll go to Carson-Newman and then again she might not. At any rate, we West Winger's know from experience that her work for Christ in the future will be done triumphantly

The Boiling Springs

Christmas is a-comin' and things is a-Whizzin' at G. W

Could it be that this is the real Could it be that this is the real thing, Charles and Jo Lena? Looks that way to us. Martha Coffey seems to have taken a sudden in-terest in basketball, Don Elliott wouldn't have anything to do with that, would he, Martha? We won der how many girls have heard these words from Bill Wallace, "If it weren't for Sue, I could go for you." Fitzpatrick really goes for blond hair, especially when it is on a girl named Rebecca, Frances Rhyne was fissing from the campus last weekend and she didn't go home, either How's everything in Winston-Salem, Jonelle really goes for a Queen in other ways besides a part in the play. Billie Sue Richardson seems to be getting regular telephone calls as well as letters from Davidson. Speaking of regular letters, how many does Frances Phillips get a We've heard as high as or four. Martha Hawkins, could those sparkles in your eyes be transformed to your finger by Santa Claus? We've heard rumors to that ef-fect. Another victory for West Wing. Joan Rhinehardt seems to have car "Little Deac's" heart, for the moment at least.

Cathy Prince must get a new pic ture every new moon. At least we notice something new has been added to her desk. Hey. C. D., how about coming to breakfast a little earlier, Nell begins to have a look earlier. Nell begins to have a look of disgust on her face at about five minutes to eight. Sleigh bells aren't the only kind of bells that will be ringing for Faye Evans at Christ-

Jim Weaver seems to be giving Carolyn Harless the old photographer's eye. I wonder why Patricia Smith gets a gleam in her eyes when Al Cobb steps into the scene. It seems that at least one freshman girl has succeeded in getting a stea-dy boy friend, huh, Mildred Laney? Martha Stone, don't take it to heart what Mrs Pierce said to you about getting a date, where there is life, there is hope. Small world we live in, can't see why Wilkie Melton didn't discover Pat Withers in Gas-tonia, or could it be that he had other interests? Since football season, Nancy Lincoln certainly has taken an interest in the library. Molly, let's please try to be ready so Jim won't have to sit in the parlor

Mary we add our congratulations to those already offered to Jim Huffstettler. Seems as if Mars Hill and Gardner-Webb are competitors in more ways than one, huh, Bob Mulkey? Bobby Heffner, are you try-ing to wrangle an invitation for a Christmas in Florida? Oh, well, there are more ways to skin a rabbit than one. How do the girls on Second Floor do it? Steady boy friends on three or four campuses at one time! Say, Joyce Hines, why were you so anxious to go home last weekend? Could you have had some "motiva-tion"? Wonder why Annette Har-ry's mind is in the air—could be a certain guy in the Air Corps, maybe Pop: "You never kiss me unless Anne Pack sure made a fuss about not ship stoves until you pay for taking her Carson-Newamn emblem your last consignment." Daughter: "Well isn't that often off her sweater, she must have an interest there

Wonder why Bob Myers and Tommy Beard are so bashful-come on, boys, give the girls a break, Too bad bus drivers on our trip to High Point were married, they were cute, weren't they, girls? Margaret Swann, what do you mean when you say you have to write that letter? Speaking of getting mail, Doris Workman and Pol-Williams were awfully excited at mail call the other day. Peggy Love even saw Ware in her Lit, assign-ment the other day—must be get-ting bad, huh? The girls were glad to have Gerldie and Billie Sue from runswick, Georgia, to go to High Point with us. Some girls were real-iy "tearing up Jack" the other night in the Shop - better watch it

Well, kids, the Editor is yelling for copy so w-a-t-c-h it, you might see your name here next time. Merry Christmas and

Happy New Year The Three Muskateers P.S. Harvey, the great Romeo of G-W, must have gotten his dates mixed up the other night 'cause he sure did have a wild goose chase— and it ended up with no goose. Diaz and Brady seemed to be having a heap big time on the back of the truck last week. Wonder why they wanted two girls each? Does Gamble still get letters from
