

The Pilot

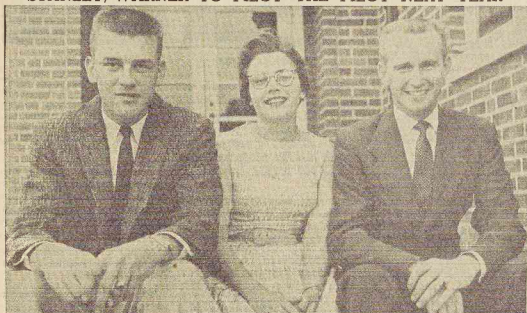

Volume XI, Number IX

GARDNER-WEBB COLLEGE, BOILING SPRINGS, NORTH CAROLINA

May 17, 1957

SIXTY-SIX TO GRADUATE MAY 28

STANLEY, WARNER TO PILOT THE PILOT NEXT YEAR

Shown above, left to right, are the officers for the PILOT, Bill Kincaid, retiring editor, Freida Stanley, new editor, and George Warner, recently elected news editor. This issue of the PILOT was published by Freida with the advice of the retiring editor.

A lady is back in the driver's seat. The Gardner-Webb students chose to be the editor of the PILOT for next year, the first girl to be elected to the post in three years. Miss Freida Stanley was elected to pilot the PILOT.

Chosen as news editor was George Warner. George, recently discharged from three years duty in the army, entered Gardner-Webb at the beginning of second semester. During his three years of work for Uncle Sam, George traveled far and wide, once getting as far north as Alaska. Many of his friends report that it was there that he became such a "snow man." George is well qualified to hold the job of news editor.

Freida, a native of Wilmington, has served on the PILOT staff this year as a staff writer. She has shown much versatility in handling the assignments given her. Associate editor Ray Rollins says, "I was glad to see Freida get the election, and I feel sure that she can handle the large job which will be handed to her next year."

BACCALAUREATE SERMON SUNDAY G.W. HISTORY SATURDAY and MONDAY GRADUATION TUESDAY

Candidates for graduation will receive their diplomas from Gardner-Webb Tuesday, May 28. The graduation ceremonies will serve as a fitting climax to the commencement weekend on the campus.

The annual Alumni Banquet will be given on Saturday night, May 25. Following the banquet the pageant, THE GARDNER-WEBB STORY, by Miss Kathryn Copeland, will be presented in its premiere performance.

Student Body Officers Elected For 1957-58

Gardner-Webb students recently participated in the annual campus-wide election. Elected as president of the student body was Jerry James. Taking the post of vice-president was Judy Hughes, while Winnie Benfield won the post of secretary-treasurer.

In the publications field Betty Jo Hamrick was elected ANCHOR editor. Helping her was business manager will be Daniel "Laguna" Byrd. Freida Stanley is the new PILOT editor; George Warner was elected news editor.

Sun Biggerstaff is new day student president.

Competition for some of the posts was keen, and a competitive spirit prevailed over all the campus as election day came and went. This campaign proved to be one of the most interesting in the history of Gardner-Webb.

Dr. Elmo Scoggin, professor of missions at Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon on May 28.

The pageant will be presented for a second time on Monday night. The address on graduation day will be brought by Dr. Dean B. Pruette, superintendent of High Point City Schools. Dr. Pruette is a Boiling Springs native and a Gardner-Webb graduate.

Final exams for second semester will begin Monday, May 20; the majority of them will be over by Thursday.

Rehearsals for THE GARDNER-WEBB STORY began recently under the leadership of Miss Jean McSwain, director.

With the exception of the graduates, the Marshals, and the few student workers the campus will be emptied by Friday afternoon. The greater part of the students will vacate the campus by Wednesday or Thursday.

The G.W. College Bookstore

For refreshments, supplies, mail, or just a nice gab session, go to the most popular place on campus, the college bookstore. Maintained by a group of student workers and Mr. Leonard Allen (supported, of course, by the college for the students), we declare this spot the most improved since last year. With only a few figures to prove it, like a $227 gross margin over last year's, we talked to some of the sophomores about the visible improvements. It seems that the refreshments are of a better quality and variety than last year's. Recreation facilities are improved in that in addition to last year's one ping pong table there are two more tables, and two sets of checkers.

Hours for the opening of the student center are more convenient to a majority of students this year, with especially convenient hours at 9:30 on Mondays through Fridays. The 9:30 break at night finds students parking the store while waiting for a toasted sandwich or school supplies that they need on the spot.

Perhaps the thing most appreciated is the interior improvement. The fresh paint aids the appearance of the bookstore greatly. Mr. Allen has said that the thing he appreciates most is a student who does his share in keeping the bookstore as clean as he would like for his own home to be. To Mr. Leonard Allen goes the students' thanks for an excellent job well done in keeping them in mind at all times.

Hello . . . Should the greeting be as fellow classmates or as alumni? At the close of another school year, there is the inevitable adjustment to new situations about us. Because of this period of training at Gardner-Webb, new adjustments should now come easier. Let's hope so, anyway, as we go our various ways.

We now see real benefits from all this construction that has been taking place around the campus. The big dream of all seems to have come true as the new swimming pool has officially opened. Our near-the-end studying now has some mighty keen competition as the local drug store does a thriving business in sun tan lotion.

Physical education classes tell the tale—points out those who have taken time to soak up the sun and those who have spent a lot of time indoors. Let's hope that the consolation of these "white" people is greater study benefits.

Our sincere congratulations to the new officers for next year. Students can have the assurance that they have selected a good slate of officers. The only pathetic thing (Continued on Page 3)

G.W. May Day, Health Fair Held

The May Day celebration of Gardner-Webb College's golden anniversary recently brought a round of festivities never before equaled at this Baptist institution.

A congregation of notables from all over the state, and several nationally recognized persons attended and took part in the many-phased occasion.

Two programs of activities—the all-day Health Fair and the May Day program were jointly presented to a wide number of visitors and friends from throughout the Greater Gardner-Webb Area. Highlighting the day were contests, and "over-78" luncheon, the presence of the division Miss North Carolina and the late afternoon crowning of the May Queen.

Gardner-Webb College, which owns and operates the college-community clinic, sponsored the Health Fair as a community service aspect. Chief among those making the affair possible was Dr. W. Wynn Washburn, citizen physician—country doctor—who gratefully admits that the Health Fair "exceeded all expectations." Sharing in Dr. Washburn's and clinic staff's delight, Dr. F. S. Crockett, vice-president of the American Medical Association, says that "The Health Fair is the first thing and the best thing of its kind that I have ever witnessed."

Early in the day, a speaking concert (Continued on Page 2)

In The Pilot This Issue

Nemo has his final goodbye to be said—Read it all.

The Bulldogs have been tearing up the conference—Read Dilbert Morrow's accounts of the season.

Page 4—Look at it.

Our new editor has an editorial.

Page 2.

Thanks go to our advertisers for the support they have given us this year. Support them.

EXAMINATION SCHEDULE Spring Semester 1956 - 57

MONDAY, MAY 20, 1957

8:30 - 11:00
English 102 (All Sections)
English 202 (All Sections)
11:00 - 1:00
Phys. Ed. 104 (Men)
Phys. Ed. 104 (Women)
2:00 - 4:30
All 8:30 TTS
Classes

TUESDAY, MAY 21

8:30 - 11:00
All 8:30 MWF
Classes
11:00 - 1:00
Phys. Ed. 102 (Men)
Phys. Ed. 102 (Women)
2:00 - 4:30
All 9:30 TTS
Classes

WEDNESDAY, MAY 22

8:30 - 11:00
All 9:30 MWF
Classes
11:00 - 1:00
Dramatics 102
Rel. Ed. 202
2:00 - 4:30
All 11:00 TTS
Classes

THURSDAY, MAY 23

8:30 - 11:00
All 11:00 MWF
Classes
11:00 - 1:00
Theory 106
Sec. Prac. 204
2:00 - 4:30
All 12:00 MWF
Classes

FRIDAY, MAY 24

8:30 - 11:00
All 2:00 MWF
Classes
11:00 - 1:00
2:00 - 4:30
All 12:00 TTS
Classes