

PILOT SALUTES

"Martha, are you there?" is a familiar sound as many classes begin. Martha Mason is a very sweet and remarkable young lady who attends classes by way of a two-way communication system and with help from her mother. Martha is unable to attend classes in person for she is housed in an iron lung, but she has attended classes every day and attained a 97.22 average for her freshman year. Quite remarkable, but to Martha it just comes natural, for she is fond of books and loves to read.

Her ambition is to become a writer and we are sure that she will go far in that field for she has what it takes. Martha has proven her capability in her work and even more as she inspired the Student Body by reading the morning scripture in chapel.

Pilot salutes a sweet, determined young girl who has made the best out of her life.

Each month the Pilot chooses an outstanding sophomore boy. This month we are proud to salute Dillard Morrow.

The by-line "by Dillard Morrow" is often seen in newspapers, since Dillard is the school sportswriter, writing up all the games for local papers. Among his many other activities are Monogram Club, Circle K Club and Sports Editor of the Pilot. Dillard has filled his capacity as sports editor so well that he is without doubt one of the best that Gardner-Webb has known.

Dillard, a native of Forest City, plans to attend Western Carolina after Gardner-Webb and major in mathematics.

To a very nice and friendly boy, we are proud to say "We salute you."

WHY?

By Flunko

Well, here I am again, looking across the campus at the girls going to Phys. Ed., enjoying the scenic beauty and wondering why, with all of this to choose from, Dillard Morrow isn't happy.

You can learn a good deal by looking out the window. I just saw Lawrence Mashney and noticed that his nose has lost that brownish color. This caused me to realize that football season is over.

I was planning on mentioning some of the newer activities on our campus, such as Keith Eller turning lover, the "meatball" hair-cuts, and Mickey Byers collecting garbage, but our editor wouldn't let me have the space.

Since football season is over, I'd like to warn, Nanny, Hughes and several other unfortunate that I'll be another year before you are again known as athletes so catch on to those girls pretty tight 'cause the basketball players feel that it is now their turn to be hugged after the games.

I am late trying to get this assignment in, so I'll have to write it in class Betty Jo Hamrick is taking notes for me, and I'm racking my brain for something to put in the paper as to get more names in it.

After a 30-minute chapel break, I'm still hard at work. Mr. Jolly isn't helping one bit by his pop test and lecture on some popes over in Rome that don't have anything to do with "The Pilot." Joan Cline isn't helping much either since she keeps smiling at me and taking my mind off the job at hand.

Before I got back to my duty, the bell rang and I had to rush to math. On my way up I saw Charlene Klier and Pat Justice with their heads together gossiping. I can imagine that if I could have gotten closer, I would have heard them saying something about Mr. Flynn.

All I got done in math was to learn how to factor a quadratic equation and notice that Christine McSwain is a real cure when she blanches. Oh yes, I did learn that Steve Carver and Larry Klostler snore.

During lunch I saw Freida and the asked for my article. Since I didn't have it written, I had to say that I'd tell her WHY? next issue. See ya.

CUT CORNER

By

Some people we have heard, expressed an opinion that they didn't like this column. Well, that's good, because it's going to come out every month anyway. Ready, here we go. We understand that Paul Cline is lettering in "loving." Is this right Nancy?

Say "That's the price of Glory" Glenda?

Lib: You have a convert who likes Cliffside. That makes two of you. Better go talk with Jane Mann.

John "Lover" Cambell: We have heard that the girls really liked your pictures. Oh Oh. This could mean trouble.

What is so funny about passing the hat, Ellen?

QUESTION OF THE MONTH — Just who is your "special Angel", first floor girls?

Judy Hughes: We hope that you enjoy your Christmas present, but who wouldn't enjoy a trip to Florida?

Burly Ed: Congratulations — We understand that you finally made the band. Atta boy.

Beth P: Someone told us that you are dating again. Is this true?

Jerry MacLeod: Say the boys over in Hap finally gave you your burial papers so you can be buried in the good part of the United States, "Good Ole Dixie."

TONGUE OF THE MONTH

Jayne Smith, you won this month's coveted title. Better luck next month Byers.

Have you seen the new Executive committee? The boys in it are Norman Rush, Old Man Hughes, Co-Captain Eller, the Chesney kid Roper Cooper, and various others. It is the purpose of these boys to have their pictures taken when necessary.

C. P. saying, "I can't wait to get home. Now just what's at home for you?"

C. Sparks saying, "I wish I could go home," after seeing her grades. They couldn't have been that bad, or were they?

Bill Ashley, Steve Floyd, and Lloyd Hoffman have the motto, "We never wear two socks alike." Wonder if that's an excuse to people never know when they dress too fast?

Terry W. saying "All week long Coach has been telling me to do push-ups, so this week I'm going to do "Stay-downs."

Well, that's all for this month. Watch what you say or do because we have spies all over. (Sounds like the Executive Committee, doesn't it?) Adios for now...

FROM THE ## SPORT'S DESK

By Dillard Morrow

'Old Man Football has rounded the corner, not to pass this way again until the hardwood has taken the stage and all the bats broken. As you know, the Bulldogs finished the gridiron season with one of those odd type records—3-3-3.

Since our last meeting, the Bulldogs have dropped two, won two, and tied one. The big black and red took the full measure of the Wingate attack; lost to Lees McRae in a free scoring battle which saw both teams scored a combined total of fifty-nine points; racked Mars Hill up in one of the Bulldogs' most spirited victories; kicked a field goal in the last thirty seconds to edge Perum 38-0; and traveled to the Cracker state to be tied to a 6-6 verdict.
