

CHARLES HUNSINGER

Awarded Scholarship

Charles Hunsinger, sophomore pre-medical student at Gardner-Webb College, has been awarded a Morehead Scholarship to the University of North Carolina.

Hunsinger was the only junior college applicant from a field of nine to win this award. It entitles him to receive all expenses up to $1,250 per year for his junior and senior years, and a full scholarship to complete his four years in medical school.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hunsinger of Charlotte.

Hunsinger has achieved many honors while at Gardner-Webb College. He has the highest scholastic rating among the male students, and holds the position of serving as Chief Marshal.

Performed over 2,000 wedding ceremonies.

Preached over 30,000 sermons, often as many as five sermons in as many churches each Sunday.

Canaan In Carolina takes the reader back to 1870's when Shelby and Rubertord were a full day's journey apart, separate by unbridged rivers, muddy trails, and virgin forests. No telephones, radios, or even electric power were linked the two, and if any newspapers existed they were a far cry from today's publications.

Into this post-Civil War South of poverty and hopelessness, John William Suttle was born in 1872. Odds are few people expected the little runt to survive, and certainly nobody could have foreseen him as the leader he was to become.

For John W. Suttle's audiences included the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, and also some of Madison County's busiest bootleggers.

He conducted the funeral services for Governor and Ambassador O. Max Gardner, and also for many an illiterate woodcutter.

He was pastor for Dr. J. N. Barnett and Dr. A. V. Washburn, leaders in the Southern Baptist Sunday School Board, among them were unknown farmers plowing cotton.

He had the vision to see potential in the everyday man, perhaps because he felt a certain potential in himself as God's man.

Truly John W. Suttle has been aptly captured on the pages of a book describing what he found, his own "Canaan in Carolina."

B. S. U. Sponsors Religious Emphasis Week

By MARIAN WALTERS

The Gardner-Webb B. S. U. sponsored Religious Emphasis Week, which took place in the Hamrick Building the third week of March. The theme for the week was "Christ the Master of All Men Everywhere." Daily programs at 10:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. consisted of religious talks, panel discussions, and special music.

Speakers for Religious Emphasis Week included Miss Adrienne Hill, assistant B. S. U. State Secretary; Rev. Harold Howe, Shelby; Rev. C. O. Greene, Lenoirville; and Rev. Jeremiah Graham, Shelby.

A panel discussion on Tuesday night dealt with "Moral or Immoral" issues and another panel discussion on Friday night answered questions about "Love, Courtship, and Marriage." Suggestion blanks given out previously in chapel enabled the student body the opportunity to submit suggestions for the programs.

An annual event, Religious Emphasis Week strives to give added religious inspiration to the Campus and to help solve the student's problems in Religion.

New Marshalls Tapped

New members were tapped into the Marshall Club at a recent chapel period. Membership in the Marshall Club is the highest honor a Gardner-Webb student can achieve. The club upholds four standards: scholarship, character, leadership, and service. Each year the outgoing Marshall Club elects 12 honorary members from each of the two classes. Also 12 active marshalls are chosen to become the core of the Marshall Club.

The active marshalls for 1958-1959 are Jennie Queen, Paula Wintstead, Louise Alfred, Kay Meadows, Elizabeth Semethers, Frances Hamrick, Dean Bridges, Joyce Blalock, Ronald Travis, Janice Anderson, Charles Cooke and Marshall Mauney. Dean Bridges and Louise Alfred are chief marshalls.

Honorary marshalls for the freshmen are Ann Garrett, Jeanette Jackson, Katherine Scraggs, Beth Biggershaft, Jean Perkins, and Sue McClure. The sophomore honorary marshalls are Mrs. Margaret Howe, Marian Walters, Mrs. Glenda Parson Blanton, Marjorie Greer, Betty Bridges, Ruth Ann Poole, Charles Huey, Russell Parsons, Troy Blanton, Marvin Walters, James Hardin and Dean Ware.

The Marshall Club sets the example for the other students to follow, and among their duties is helping with social events.

B. S. U. Officers Elected

JOY MARIAN WALTERS During a chapel period recently, 12 outstanding freshmen were elected by the student body to positions of responsibility in the campus Baptist Student Union. The organization's executive council for 1958-1959 will be composed of these officers and the presidents of the Young Women's Auxiliary, the Christian Volunteer Band, and the Ministerial Association.

Dean C. Bridges, ministerial student from Kings Mountain, and Sandra Gibson of Shelby will lead as president and vice-president respectively.

Other officers elected are: Louise Alfred, secretary; George Joyner, treasurer and enlistment chairman; Doris Walters, devotional chairman; Mickey Morrow, missions, Listen, and extension chairman; Edna Harris, chapel chairman; Ronald Travis, chairman; Loretta Greene, music chairman; Sue McClure, publicity chairman; Fred Snipes, Sunday School superintendent; and Charles Howe, Training Union director.

After formal installation these new officers will take over the direction of B. S. U. work. The B. S. U. Executive Council is the hub around which the religious activities on the campus revolve.

Named As English Judge

Thirteen Osborne, professor of English at Gardner-Webb College, has been named a member of the North Carolina judging team for the newly adopted high school English Achievement Awards program, sponsored by the National Council of Teachers of English.

The aim of this program is to grant recognition to the nation's outstanding high school seniors for excellence in English.

Prof. Osborne, a native of Winchester, Ky., is in his first year at Gardner-Webb.

As one of 12 judges, Prof. Osborne will evaluate the members' writing and special tests to determine outstanding high school students in English in North Carolina secondary schools. There will be 12 Award winners throughout the state.

All the people standing in the group were from Gardner-Webb and we said yes. The reply was, "How many do you have in your club?" Our president, Beverly Guffey, solemnly replied, "This is all of us and some more too." We passed by some girls standing in the lobby and as I was near the end of the line, I heard one of the girls say, "All of those were from the same place." So we began to wonder about how many delegates we were supposed to have at the convention. We decided that if we were called to stand at the meeting that we would let the president and the vice-president stand, so we wouldn't look so stupid.

The speaker for the meeting was Dr. Robert Holt, vice-president of Mary Hill College. He stated that 1 teachers had just come into the spotlight. They must assume total responsibility and that their main privilege was being respected. A statement that he made I thought was very good was "BEWARE OF SLIPPING INTO A WHITE COLLAR JOB." A teacher's position demands service. He also told some of the privileges that a teacher has.

After the meeting a slip of paper was sent that explained why everyone thought we had so many delegates in our club. If the club had 30 members, we could send 3 delegates and for each additional 25 members, another delegate could be sent. We figured for the number of students we had at the convention we were supposed to have 180 members in our club. We do well to have 12-15 at our meetings.

There was a nice snow storm enjoyed by all as we left Asheville. We were in a hurry because Mr. Moseley had to be on a panel discussion in the Hamrick Building at 7 o'clock that evening. We arrived at the school at 7 p. m. just in time for him to get on the stage and start talking about love, courtship, and marriage.

I hope that if the P. T. A. goes to the convention next year they at least know how many delegates to send so they won't be embarrassed as we were.

THREE DRAMAS PRESENTED

Drama students presented two religious dramas in churches throughout the greater Gardner-Webb area. Another play, a Broadway hit, was shown at the college. The religious plays were shown on invitation in churches of Cleveland, Rutherford, Gaston, and Lincoln counties.

The dramas are prepared by students under supervision of Prof. Robert Flynn.

"Let Your Light So Shine," a one-act morality play, is about a lost man making an unsuccessful bid for political office against machine politics. It is directed by sophomore Ann Abernathy. The characters are played by Sara Moore, Ann Holden, and Mickey Morrow.

The second religious drama is entitled, "A Certain Man Had Two Sons." It is a modern day parallel to the story of the Prodigal Son in the Gospel of Luke. Student director is Jean Hambrick. The characters are acted by Ann Holden, Betty Jean Wall, Dorsey Hogard, Jack Anthony, and Duane McDougale.

"The Glass Menagerie," Tennessee Williams first Broadway hit play, was presented by the dramatics department at Gardner-Webb College May 1, 2, and 3.

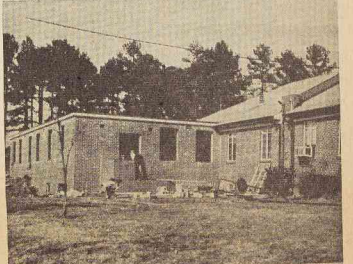

The play was produced in the round, with the audience seated on all sides of the stage. Presentation will be in the lounge of the O. Max Gardner Student Center, with opening time each evening, 8 o'clock.

Tennessee Williams portrays the life of a Southern family living in difficult circumstances in St. Louis in the early 1930's. The mother, former Mississippi belle, has been deserted by her ne'er-do-well husband. This role was played by Ann Abernathy of Hickory.

The cast is completed by a day-dreaming son, an introverted daughter, and her "gentleman caller" who is engaged to marry someone else. These roles were played respectively by Byron Ripley of Shelby, Kay Meadows of Guilford College, and Mickey Morrow of Shelby.

The play is directed by Robert L. Flynn, professor of drama and speech. Rachel Elliott was student director. Bill Brackett was in charge of scene designs, and Ruth Ann Poole handled stage props.

Seating arrangements were made for several score visitors in addition to college personnel who will attend the play.

ALMOST READY — A 3,000 square foot addition to the G. W. Clinch is slated for completion and occupancy within 60 days. The addition will increase hospital facilities to care for 28 bed-patients, and will provide additional room for operating and treatment, for offices, kitchen and visitors space. The $35,000 job is made possible by the Ford Foundation, the doctors of Boiling Springs, and local residents. The clinic, erected in 1949 and previously expanded in 1955, is owned and operated by Gardner-Webb.
