

Go Ahead—Do As You Please

If you toss paper on the floor at home, by all means continue to do so here.

We will understand that your parents don't mind and your rearing did not include sanitation, pride, or discipline. In college we learn to broaden our minds to include patience for those not taught things at home which most of us take for granted.

It's cute to you to place your feet on tables in one of the finest college lounges in the state, please be cute. We will understand—even look the other way in order not to make you feel as small as your mind is.

And with full knowledge of long walks to waste cans and ash trays, we commend those students who toss cigarette butts and drink cups onto the floor. At our age, we can't use our energy for such foolishness—even if Gardner-Webb College did spend nearly $600,000 to furnish us a fine, new campus center.

Also, if you are sitting in a classroom and the professor is boring you to the point that you must do something, by all means write on the desks. After all, a happy go lucky college student doesn't realize that this is hurting him more than anyone else. You pay 600 bucks a year in tuition alone, and if you damage the desks the school officials can always raise this fee to accommodate the extra cost. Don't worry about the students who must attend this institution 10 years from now, no one expects you to.

Yes, in our conduct throughout the campus, we must always be on guard to avoid developing characteristics of ladies and gentlemen—we must, at all cost, cling to our old modes and methods. Perhaps, if we work at it we can leave here as uncouth as we arrived and go on to senior college with our social attitudes unchanged.

Ten Outstanding Programs Listed

Ten outstanding programs are listed in this year's Distinguished Artist Series which begins Sept. 20 with The Town Criers, a contemporary folk song group.

This group, composed of five young men, is noted for its humor and ability to play well anything from old mountain ballads to the "Twelfth of Never." They will begin playing at 8 p.m. in the Best Physical Education Building on Sept. 20.

An unusual program slated Oct. 11 is Theodore Ullman, a pianist who received a $50,000 Smith Johnson Award recently and who is here under a cultural tour grant financed by the Louise N. Grace Memorial Fund.

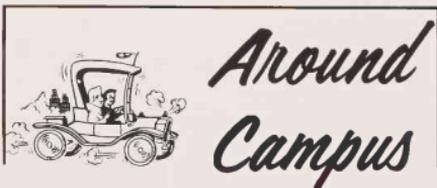

Jeff Espina of Florida who excels with 12-string, folk and flamenco guitar as well as being an accomplished blues singer will come Nov. 15 to round out pre-Christmas holiday programs.

Russ Burgess, a master of extra-sensory perception, will lecture Jan. 16 followed on Feb. 14 by the Theater of Concern of New York City. Norman and Sandra Dietz present drama in this program using light humor and veiled deep moral undertones.

Master works for two voices should mean much to lovers of music when Lynn Blair, who began her career with the Metropolitan Opera, combines with Mark Howard for an evening of music on March 21.

Alexander Gabriel, dean of United Nations correspondents, lectures on April 10 during a 10 a.m. program and that evening a Poetry-Jazz Concert is planned. Loomis McGlohon's Jazz Trio provides music and the poetry of Thomas Wolfe and others is read by Mrs. Charleen Whinnant, editor of the Red Clay Reader. This program has been acclaimed by college students throughout the state.

The Springs Art Show will be here April 11-23 and also during year are planned seminars for the discussion of topics to be announced at a later date. Jerry R. Hill is director of the artist series.
