

Barefoot In The Park

The four nights of October 9, 10, 11, and 12 saw the performance of Barefoot in the Park presented under the direction of Mr. C. Robert Jones. Three freshmen joined three sophomores to make up the cast.

Katie Duffy gave an excellent performance as the new bride of Michael Ledford who did a superb job of keeping in character. The unique Victor Velasco was performed by Rodney Burford in a most entertaining way. Janet Whisnant was excellent in her portrayal of the mother of the new bride; excellent performances have become the role for this talented young lady. These four characters did their best acting in the scene following their evening out.

The telephone repairman and the delivery man, played by Ed Solomon and Mark Austin, respectively, were extremely realistic.

Even though the play as a script borders on the commonplace, the presentation on stage is very satisfying. The casting was excellent; the lighting and staging were extraordinary. Many people were heard saying, "It seemed like a professional performance," as they left the E. B. Hamrick Auditorium.

JOYCE Selected Miss Student Nurse

MISS STUDENT NURSE - at Gardner-Webb College this year is Anne M. Joyce of 2327 Lindhurst Ave., Winston-Salem. Anne Joyce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Mock of the same address, was voted Miss Student Nurse by her fellow students on the basis of academic work, personal appearance and professional competence. She will represent the G-W Department later in the year at a District Contest. Ann served as secretary of the Freshman Nursing Association of N. C. Her ambition following graduation in the spring is to work at the Baptist Hospital of Winston-Salem.

CHARLES P. MORRISON

"I believe that the individual should be responsible, but isn't the individual a part of the society in which he lives? If any individual is mature and cooperative, he should be able to conform to the best interest of society."

MARION NICHOLS

"People should be responsible for setting social standards as individuals. Too much social and racial prejudice are judged by society."

Watch for other issues
Watch for other issues in the upcoming Pilot.

- Grades -

I think that I shall never see
A mark as lovely as a B
A B whose fat and luscious curves
Will please the eyes and soothe the nerves.

A B that drives away dull care
And bringeth gladness everywhere.
A B that may increase four-fold
So that I can sometime make the honor roll.

Some say that D's are made
by fools
But not according to my rules.
For in this course it seems to me
That only God could make a B!

Rev. Hill Here Friday

Rev. Jim Hill of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary at New Orleans will be in the Hamrick Building Friday, Nov. 15 to speak with students interested in religious work.

Whisnant To Present First Of One-Man Student Art Exhibits

The first of a series of one-man student art shows will be presented on November 19 in the O. Max Gardner building, when a collection of paintings and sculpture pieces will be presented by Joe Whisnant Jr., a G. W. day student from Shelby.

Whisnant has won various awards for previous artwork. Among these recognitions are two Scholastic Art Merit Awards and first prize in the Shelby Court Square Art Show.

To Joe, art is a valid means of portraying inner thoughts: "Since the beginning of time man has searched for something more than a day by day existence. In man's search for elusive truth, he becomes aware that he is not winning his struggle alone; an almost inconceivable awesome power . . . is gently urging him forward. With this . . . man loses his conceit and acquires humility. In my paintings . . . I have tried to show man and his relationship to his world and God." This exhibit is sponsored by the art department, under the direction of Mr. James Rash.

"You Said It"

The first thing that is noticed about one person is his total appearance, and as the saying goes, "first impressions really count!" Which should be responsible for the setting of these appearance standards - society or the individual?

HAPPY DEATON

"I believe in individual standards. I admire the individual quality in anybody. Few people have that, that I know."

CAROL NEESE

"I believe the individual should set the standards. Who is it but the individual that constitutes any society?"

RONNIE MCGUIRT

"I believe that it isn't anyone's business how you dress or whatever else that goes into your appearance. If a guy wants his hair long - let it be long. If a girl wants to wear short dresses - let her. I think it depends on the particular individual and should not be set by any particular society."

CHARLES P. MORRISON

"I believe that the individual should be responsible, but isn't the individual a part of the society in which he lives? If any individual is mature and cooperative, he should be able to conform to the best interest of society."

MARION NICHOLS

"People should be responsible for setting social standards as individuals. Too much social and racial prejudice are judged by society."

Watch for other issues
Watch for other issues in the upcoming Pilot.