Students Study

Ancient Art

Pictured here are fourteen G-W students that you may wish to make friends with. They are all members of the College Karate Club of Boiling Springs (a branch of the David Adams Karate School). Twice weekly these students attend the meetings (held at the old skating rink building) to engage in one and a half hours of vigorous strategic exercises designed to guide students on their way to become masters at this imported sport.

Monday, January twentieth, a beginners class in Karate will be formed. The price for these lessons is $16 per 30 days (eight lessons).

Instructor David Adams, a fourth degree black belt, believes in strict discipline as the key to a progressive class. "You can lead a horse to water," says Adams, "you can't make him drink - but you can put his head in the water." And this, Adams relates, is the purpose of any instructor: to encourage the students to give of their very best for their own improvement. "The real credit goes to the pupils," Adams continues, "They're really interested and hard-working - they're doing a fine job."

Looking to the future, Adams is planning syndicated karate instruction programs for television. He also forecasts and encourages members of his present class to become instructors with a brown belt or above.

The school is planning a series of public demonstrations to be performed during half-time at G-W games.

HEART OF CHRISTMAS

By REG ALEXANDER

"It came upon the midnight clear,"

As so the lyrics tell,
And songs proclaim the gospel news -
The story known so well,

Men and women, boys and girls
Join to sing their parts,
Yet, it's so, true Christmas dwells
Deep within our hearts.

A gift for you, a song to sing,
A wonderland of snow
Yet recall the Christmas gift --
One given long ago.

'Twas given by a loving hand
To help us here on earth,
And angels in the glory realms
Announced to men his birth.

The wise men from a land so far
Found they the star in sky,
And followed it until it stopped
O'erwhere the babe did lie.

And later, shepherds from their watch
To this place they did trod,
To see this child from Heaven sent --
He was the Son of God.

Now, Hark! and we can hear this day
The bells that peal their sound,
Let's show good will, and have good cheer
And spread the news around.

Let not a soul that you may meet
While going on your way,
Pass by without the cheerfulness,
The gladness of this day.

"Good tidings of great joy" have we,
So e're one do his part
To set aside a special place
For Christmas in his heart.

"You Said It"

"With the holiday season upon us, one of the most pleasing of the reoccurring decorations is the customary mistletoe (a disease astronaut gets, similar to athlete's foot in basketball players). With this in mind, the Pilot asks, "What is your opinion of kissing."

SANDRA H. HUMPHREYS - "Good if you like it. Something to do when friends come over."

MEL CAMPOS - "First one I had was very hot -- actually I really like it -- large and round. . . Flat if possible."

JACK ROSE - "It's hot, gooey, yummy, fattening -- I like it best at midnight watching the late show. Come and get it! Good for pimples, Good for ulcers. You haven't lived until you have had one."

TAMARA LANE - "I like 'em - all kinds - great for parties - I like 'em spicy. I can't cook 'em too well."

BRENDA WHITLEY - "I like 'em - I love 'em - I hate 'em in the cafeteria. I like 'em spicy on a rainy day in my room but not at 2 o'clock in the morning."

PROFESSOR ROBERT MORGAN - Luvit - particularly at dark time. I like them with everything, but little bit fish (anovies). The best ones are the ones I make myself - flow's that for egotism?"

JUDY GLOYNE - "It is good-good-good. There is not enough of it in the world and it's too expensive. I prefer the round ones and would have it all the time if it was free. It goes good with fire-water and I like it every night of the week. I would rather fight than give it up."

MAX HAMILTON - "I like it - yum yum eat 'em up. My better half (Gudy) likes it, even better than I do - in fact she craves it. We have a special tape."

JERRY RUPPE - "I t takes deep thought. It's great! No, great's too common. Just wonderful - my favorite food - has truth, honesty, beauty, integrity, etc."
