Well, We Are Back

Dear Mamas and Daddys,

Well, we are back. None of our classes are like we had planned - 8:00's every morning and we don't get out until 5:00. But I guess that is better than walking 5 miles every day and milking cows when we get home.

By the way, we've been thinking about those good "ole" days when things were tough, and cars and radios and t.v.'s were first coming in. Boy, ya'll sure had the change built into your generation. Guess there was no time for a gap. Maybe we need the same kind of change ya'll had, but not with two world wars and a depression.

Don't get us wrong, we aren't asking for work or hard times. We just want a chance to study in the school of experience. Maybe Dads, that's why our hair is a little longer than it was when we were six. Or Mamas, why we don't keep the same things in our room or wear the same kind of clothes.

Well, we have to run. Don't worry, we're sure before we finish the "Webb" we will have seen plenty of changes in ourselves, our school, and even in ya'll.

Love,

Your sons and daughters

Speak Up

Gardner-Webb has a stated purpose. It is printed on most of the materials published by the school. Every activity of Gardner-Webb has to point to this purpose.

Perhaps The Pilot needs a stated purpose. We will take our aim from the line "to develop quality Christian students who think for themselves." It is the "think for themselves" part that strikes us. This is what we think college is about -- Gardner-Webb, too. An individual purpose comes from individual experiences and personal decisions.

This first week has been required meetings with authorities handing out books of rules and sheets outlining where to go when and what to wear there. There has not been much time to think.

The thinking comes, but too often it is only expressed in dormitory hall sessions and letters to the friends at the other schools.

This is an advertisement. If The Pilot is "the student voice of Gardner-Webb", we need to hear the voices. We're listening.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

THEY SET THEM RAISED THE TUITION AGAIN THIS YEAR."

A pretty vest is one thing every-girl must have for back-to-school this fall! And your top choice is a long, long "sweater vest" like this, belted and pocketed: the main ingredient of a wonderful threesome when you add a long-sleeve shirt (note those deep cuffs) and a little plaid skirt with swingy A-line or news-from-Paris pleats.

Check Into This

That long piece of paper handed to you in the registration line, the one that stated something about a proposed amended constitution, could be important to you. Voting on whether to accept this constitution will be in a general assembly on Thursday, September 4th. Article II states, "All students of Gardner-Webb College are automatically members of this organization and shall be governed by this constitution." Check into it before voting on it Thursday. Extra copies can be obtained from the office of Director of Student Affairs.

Important Time For Juniors

The junior year of college is usually the most important year in a college career. In the junior year a student begins to lay the ground work in his major concentration studies.

G. W. C.'s initial efforts toward senior status make available a Baccalaureate Program with eight divisions and 18 departments. Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science degrees will be awarded in the spring of 1971 to the students who successfully complete 128 semester hours of work with a 2.0 or better quality point average.

The following list is the basic eight divisions the Baccalaureate Program has to offer the GW student:

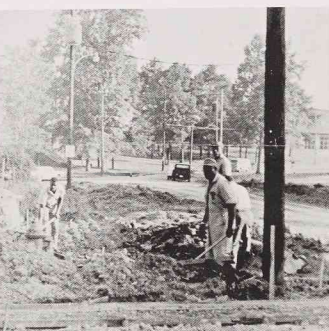

- Division of General Business
- Division of Education and Psychology
- Division of Fine Arts
- Division of Health Education and Physical Education
- Division of Languages and Literature
- Division of Mathematics and Natural Science
- Division of Religious Studies
- Division of Social Science.

G. W. To Enter Fund Campaign

Gardner-Webb's Board of Trustees and Board of Advisors voted unanimously in a joint session last May to enter a capital fund campaign with Martz and Lundy, Inc. of New York City as professional counsel.

The purpose of this, as stated by Dr. Poston, "is to put our four year program over the top and to insure for this area an outstanding, accredited senior college by 1974."

Where does Gardner-Webb stand in meeting the accreditation standards? The faculty standards call for one-third of the faculty to have the doctorate degree in the field of study in which they are teaching and that over 60 per cent

FOCUS Has $1,103.01 Endowment Fund

The Fellowship of Christians United in Service at Gardner-Webb College have built a $1, 103.01 endowment fund over the past four years, it was announced by the sponsor, Dr. Tom Ballard.

Money from the endowment goes to sponsor small scholarships for outstanding members of the organization. The fund developed slowly as the members visited churches to sing, preach, teach Sunday School classes, witness and lead youth activities. The churches often made donations and the group paid expenses and deposited the remainder in an account.

Members are any students interested in taking an active part in presenting the Christian faith through organized activities.

of the faculty have three years of study beyond the bachelor's degree. This area will be completed in this year's program.

The library is required to have at least 50,000 selected volumes. Gardner-Webb now has over 40,000 selected volumes and will meet the 50,000 volume figure by the end of 1969-70.

Financial resources requirements are that a senior college of G. W.'s size must spend $1,115,000 yearly on its educational program, plus $50 per student for every student over 1,000 enrolled. The college is already meeting this four year standard as a junior college.
