

Pat Spangler

(CON. FROM PAGE 1)

campus. If a person wants to study communism let him go to Russia or Cuba. Furthermore, any student participating in the organizations or attempting to foster their establishment on campus would be expelled.

6. Dress-

Quest: If a student wants to wear long hair and a beard he exhibits no radical behavior, is neat in his appearance, and minds his own business by not interfering with the process of education on the campus, then would he be allowed to wear his long hair and beard?

Ans: Certainly the administration would not go around measuring hair length but we feel that this type of appearance would be looked down upon by the business community and thereby would hurt our fund raising drive. Let us emphasize that the administration would not go around measuring the length of hair or sideburns or be hard to get along with on this issue, but.....

7. School's direction-

Quest: Where is the school headed in the future?

Ans: The administration feels that the school is headed in the right direction. A maximum capacity of 5,000 is expected for Gardner-Webb. It will probably continue as a denominational school, although state support would make the job easier. The school could not do the job that it is doing now as a Christian school if it were state supported. We feel that the school would lose personal interest in the student body. The Board of Trustees is doing its best to better Gardner-Webb College. The new buildings, the sports programs, etc., all stand as evidence of this. This effort is to a sincere desire to help on the part of the members of the Board of Trustees and certainly not from a fine pay check.

Note: Mr. Pat Spangler receives one dollar a year for his work at Gardner-Webb.

Lindsay Building Dedicated

Dedication of a new three-story $740,000 classroom building highlighted homecoming and Founder's Day activities at Gardner-Webb College Saturday.

The structure was donated by Mr. and Mrs. David Lindsay of Rutherford, N.C., a couple we know for their church and civic philanthropies.

Presentation of the building was again made at a luncheon in the Charles I. Dower Campus Center Saturday afternoon by Dr. E. Eugene Poston, President of Gardner-Webb College.

Acceptance of the structure and expressions of gratitude and appreciation were made by Mr. Lloyd Bost, on behalf of the Board of Trustees; by Mr. Larry Thomas, President of the G.W. Student Government; and by Mr. Robert Abrams, Director of Admissions at the college, on behalf of the faculty and administration.

Thomas J. McCraw, vice-president of the school, introduced the featured speaker at the luncheon, George Catting. Catting is co-ordinator of Coordinated Program Planning for the Education Division of the Southern Baptist Convention Sunday School Board.

The presentation ceremonies centered around a bronze plaque which will be placed in the building and features a bust of the late David Lindsay. The inscription on the plaque reads, "Mr. David Lindsay -- This Building Honors the Life of a Dedicated Christian Philanthropist, Promoter of the Free Enterprise System, Man of Character and Vision, Whose Wisdom Inspires Youth to Higher Education."

In Reference To Our Food

Mr. Robert Reid, manager Slater Food Service Gardner-Webb College Bolling Springs, North Carolina

Dear Mr. Reid:

In reference to our food for the past several days, I believe that I am speaking for a majority of the students, when I request that your staff review their standards of service. On Tuesday, November 5, the cheese sandwiches were one of the worst meals served at Gardner-Webb college.

Sandwiches are acceptable, and evidence of this can be seen at any local restaurant catering to the college students. However, poor quality is not acceptable -- by this I mean the use of "hard" cheese used in today's sandwiches.

We have considered the equipment provided by Gardner-Webb, and realize it does not stand up to your desired needs. We have also considered the floor plan of the cafeteria and realize the great handicap of transporting the food from the kitchen to the service line. Although we can offer no complete solution, we wish you would adopt a more adequate food service.

If there is some reason for this decline of suitable service, we wish you would state this in a letter to the Pilot. We realize it is your goal to serve the best possible food, and hope this letter will not be insulting. However, we do expect prompt attention and consideration, and request that the Pilot cooperate with you concerning any announcements.

For the majority, we are proud of our school and for what it stands. We know that other schools have worse food. However, we would like to be able to boast our food as being the very best.

Sincerely,
John P. Whitten

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

New Faces On Campus

Among the many new faces on the Gardner-Webb campus this fall is that of Mr. Alton H. Malone, the new head librarian. Mr. Malone, who considers Dover Library's main interest to be the students, comes to G. W. directly from Mars Hill College, where he served as Reference Librarian from June, 1968 to August, 1969.

Mr. Malone has held many positions of experience. At the University of South Carolina, he served as Director of Reader Services for McMillan Library and Director of the Undergraduate Library. In Morristown, Tennessee, Mr. Malone served as Bookmobile Librarian for Nolichucky Regional Library in Canton, Georgia. He served as Circulation Librarian in Dawson, Georgia.

Mr. Malone is married to the former Miss Carol McGarry. They have a daughter, Kay, born in June of this year. The Malones now reside in Bolling Springs.

Ideas from students are welcomed by Mr. Malone and his staff as to how the library might better serve the student body. Mr. Malone considers the library primarily for students and his staff "here to help in any way possible."

Mr. Malone attended graduate school at the University of Illinois where he received the Masters Degree in Library Science. From Carson-Newman College in Jefferson City, Tennessee, he received the B. A. in History. A three-year hitch in the Army interrupted Mr. Malone's matriculation at Carson-Newman in 1956.

Needs To Meet

Accreditation

(CON. FROM PAGE 4)

3. A new Classroom Building with special emphasis on laboratories.

Second Phase:

4. Best Physical Education Complex (classrooms, assembly area for student body, physical education areas, basketball area, offices, etc.)

5. Dormitories (Men's residences and Women's residences).

6. Endowment (for operation, endowed chairs, and scholarships).

Third Phase:

7. Faving and landscaping.

8. Faculty Housing (rental houses or apartments).

Professor Presents Paper

A Gardner-Webb professor, Phillip Tse, presented a study paper on physics, at the Southeastern Section of the American Physical Society meeting in Gainesville, Florida, at the University of Florida, November 8, 1969.

Professor Tse's paper was entitled "An Optical Study of the Annealing of Neutron-irradiated Magnesium Oxide."

Prof. Tse is a native of Hong Kong and a graduate of the Forest University with an M.A. He is in his first year as a faculty member at Gardner-Webb. He has been in this country for five years.

Halloween

On Thursday, October 30,

1969, a contest was held in the Charles I. Dower Campus Center for the ghosts and goblins of Gardner-Webb College. The students were invited to dress-up for the occasion of Halloween and to present their attire at supper on the evening of the 30th. Although some students felt they were too old to participate in the fun, others were still daring enough to enjoy themselves in the spirit of Halloween.

The night before Halloween and all through the Webb, not a creature was stirring, except the dead. The cafeteria was clanging with dishes and pans, as the goblins appeared all clad in their things. A few went out throughout the hall, as the goblins and ghosts sat down to the ball. A meal was served and people laughed, as prizes were given to the ghostly class.

First prize was won by Dan Snyder. He received but five dollars. All went well for the rest of the night, except for the fun on the girls' camp site. When the bell was rung the screams outburst, as the evening passed on to the 31st.

The entertainment for Halloween night consisted of Gardner-Webb's own Steve Wilson and the Peace Singers, Laura Day and Raymond Davis with piano concertos, Steve Ray and his guitar and Woody Fish and Tricia Greene clogging their way as the first to "dance" on the Gardner-Webb campus and assisted in their feat by Mr. Tom McCraw. Ken Willis brought psychedelic stroves to Halloween making the ghostly entertainers seem to achieve fame.

Special thanks are issued to Mr. Jerry Hill and Mr. Tom Fuston for securing the O.M.G. building.

Choral Group Goes To Convention

The Gardner-Webb College choral group under the direction of Jerry Hill travelled this week to Fayetteville and the North Carolina State Baptist Convention, where they gave a concert in conjunction with choral groups from the other six state Baptist schools.

The 250-voice program was presented to the joint convention Tuesday night. It included choral groups from Wake Forest, Campbell, Wingate, Chowan and Mars Hill as well the G-W groups.

The program was conducted by R. Paul Greene, a nationally renowned director of choral groups. The presentation consisted of selected works from the great church composers, including contemporary works.

Faculty Warned

The faculty at Gardner-Webb College has been given a close briefing on what to expect when the school is visited by an accreditation committee in the future.

Dr. A. R. Burkot, vice president and Dean of Campbell

College, Buie's Creek, N. C., talked with the Gardner-Webb group at a faculty workshop. He explained the various phases of preparation which must be completed before the former junior college can become an accredited four-year institution of higher learning.

Dr. Burkot pointed out that a committee of six members, not residents of North Carolina, will be named by the Southern Association of Colleges and Universities to make an accreditation report on Gardner-Webb in June of 1971.

