The ultimate in summer employment plus travel may be found in the Student Overseas Services or Jobs Europe Program, two of many programs for student work overseas. Pick from Switzerland, France, Germany, Spain, and Italy; jobs may be located all over Europe.

Sixth Hedrick Attending G-W

This is an important year for the Karl H. Hedricks of Boiling Springs, for they are sending their sixth and last child GINGER Hedrick on her way to college. Not only is GINGER her sixth child to send to college, but she is also their sixth to attend Gardner-Webb College.

The Hedricks have had close connections to Gardner-Webb since the school began as Boiling Springs High School in 1905. Mrs. Hedrick's father, J. D. Huggins was the first principal of the high school and taught Math there. Mrs. J. D. Huggins taught Latin and English. Mrs. Hedrick attended high school there with her brothers and sisters and later attended Gardner-Webb Junior College in 1936, where she met her husband, also attending the Junior college.

The Hedricks made a rule that the children were to go their first two years to Gardner-Webb. Mrs. Hedrick states, "We think it's the best. It has an exceptional faculty, with a unique and personal touch between the students and teachers."

Their oldest daughter, Mrs. Allen Jones, began the tradition in 1957, graduated in 1959, and went on to Appalachian. She now teaches the first grade in Boiling Springs. Mrs. Wakefield Hamrick, the second daughter, attended Gardner-Webb from 1959-1961 and now lives in Clemmons, North Carolina. Karl Hedrick, Jr., now in the Research Lab at N. C. State, went to Gardner-Webb from 1961-1963.

From 1962-1964, Mrs. Clyde Buckner, the fourth child, attended Gardner-Webb. She went on to

GINGER HEDRICK

Appalachian and now lives in Durham. Jimmy Hedrick was the first of the children to go to Gardner-Webb all four years (1967-1971), and was graduated in the first senior college graduating class of Gardner-Webb. He works for the Bassett Furniture Company in Newton, N. C. And now GINGER is bringing the tradition to a close as she starts her first year, 1971 will see the Hedricks a happy couple as they complete the college education of their children which took 18 years.

There are no regrets to the many years of that backed up their education. Mrs. Hedrick states, "We've leaving our children an education — that's something no one can take from them."

Concerts For February

"Pacific Gas & Electric" will appear in concert on Thursday, February 17 at 8:00 P.M. in Best Gymnasium. The opening act for the concert will be "Warm."

P.G. & E. got their start in Los Angeles three years ago under the name Pacific Gas & Electric Blues Band. Charlie Allen organized the band with the idea of playing contemporary blues. Charlie found this idiom too confining and gradually the band members changed and styles changed to become a contemporary electric rhythm and blues band.

P.G. & E. from its inception, have had crowds standing on the seats shouting for more at every rock concert and festival at which they have appeared. The group is a unique entity in pop music because they are one of the few bands who create their single and album product exactly in live performances.

The P.G. & E. is a 7 piece band. The members of the group are lead by Charlie Allen who is the lead singer and producer and music director of the P.G. & E.

Dr. Charles Cox, director of the upcoming drama production, Blithe Spirit, explains a scene to actors Suzie Cooner and Stan Napier.

BLITHE SPIRIT To Be Presented

Blithe Spirit, a three-act farce by Noel Coward will be presented by the Gardner-Webb College Theatre Arts Department March 25 and 27 in Hamrick Auditorium.

The plot centers on predicaments arising when Madame Arcati, an eccentric medium, unknowingly releases the "blithe spirit" of the deceased first wife of Charles Condomine. Such release makes him a "sort of astral bigamist," and his second wife Ruth, who cannot see the spirit as Charles can, is frustrated at her sudden change of circumstances.

The play, directed by Dr. Charles Cox, has been adapted to a contemporary setting.

The cast includes Edith, a maid, played by Judy Greene; Ruth Condomine, played by Suzie Cooner; Charles Condomine, Stan Napier; Dr. Bradman, played by Doug Byers; Mrs. Bradman played by Ella Harrison; Madame Arcati, Wanda Haynes; and Elvira portrayed by Joy McManus. Technical director for this unusual comedy is R. Reid Cone. The play is said to be "hilariously funny, brilliant, clever and just plain entertaining."

Drug Abuse Meeting Held on Campus

The Cleveland County Drug Abuse Prevention Community Meeting was held in Hamrick Auditorium on Monday, January 24, at 7:30 p.m. The program was introduced by Mr. William J. Briggs, Coordinator Student Personnel Services.

The proposal for organization of an anti-drug abuse program by Cleveland County citizens will give Gardner-Webb students, faculty, and administration the opportunity to become involved in the establishment of a comprehensive drug action program for the Cleveland County Community.

The Community Organization for Drug Abuse Prevention (CODAP) has priorities which include research, education, law enforcement, and treatment of drug abusers. The main objective is preventive education focusing on all age groups that will enlighten and involve every member of the community with the promotion of full and productive lives with drug being used properly and judiciously.

CODAP will be implemented through the use of committees whose members will include a cross section of the county's population. A brief summary on the objectives of the committees include the following: (1) research — to determine what the problems are; (2) community involvement — to set up machinery necessary to develop and coordinate an active program; (3) education and program for the parents, teachers, and all members of the community at large; (4) treatment — by means of clinics, rehabilitation centers, "hot lines," therapy in schools and by private professionals; (5) law enforcement — to spell out the laws, to alert parents, to evaluate existing laws, and to locate drug sources.

An effective anti-drug abuse program will take community efforts and action by concerned individuals. Gardner-Webb was well represented but there is still need for more involvement by individuals. Students interested should contact Student Personnel services.
