

New Slate of SGA Officers Installed For 1972 - 1973

Receiving the oath of office on April 11, the following students were recently elected to serve as the 1972-73 Student Government Association executive Council: Steve Riddle of Winston-Salem, president; Burt Skinner of Newport News, Virginia, vice president; Candy Cline of Fallston, secretary; Bob Grant of Greenville, treasurer; and Mike Stewart of Matthews, chief justice.

In a recent interview with the PILOT the officers commented on the recent campus unrest which has pointed out a great problem at GW, the lack of communication. The new officers are convinced that better lines of communication between the three branches of SGA, between student leaders and their constituents, and between the students and administration must be maintained. It has been suggested by the executive council that the communication problem may be alleviated by the circulation of minutes from the meetings of key organizations and personnel across the campus. The executive officers recognize the need to change certain areas of campus life but feel the SGA should first serve as a source of stabilization among students, faculty, and administration. "There is the great need for students to review all facets of SGA. By thorough acquaintance with the factions involved, the students can further attain the goal of first hand student government. Students must subject their SGA executive officers to their viewpoint and offer suggestions and criticisms." This is a statement given by Steve Riddle who also told of the recent executive council planning meeting. In this meeting there was a discussion of the present campus code, orientation for next year's freshmen, fall registration and the 1972 homecoming festivities.

The newly elected officers will officially begin their work next fall.

Pilot Editor Named

The 1972-73 editor of the student publication, the PILOT has been announced by the Public Relations Office.

Samala High of Baltimore, Maryland will be editor-in-chief of the PILOT. Samala is a rising junior and an English major.

Samala will take over her duties next fall, receiving a $300 scholarship for her work. Any student wishing to be on the PILOT staff can contact Samala or apply in 111 CID.

The student editor of the ANCHOR, GW's annual will be announced at a later date.

SAMALA HIGH

Dorm Officers, Counselors and Directors Named

Officers of the Woman's Affairs Board for the academic year 1972-73 were elected on Monday night, April 10. They are as follows: President — Gay Greene, a rising Junior from Winston-Salem; Vice-President — Donna Ellington, a rising Senior from Belmont; Secretary — Becky Abernathy, a rising Senior from New London, North Carolina.

These girls were nominated by the current WAB executive council and were voted on by members of all three women's dorms.

Residence counselors for the women's residence halls have also been selected.

Serving in Happy Dorm will be Ann Gritmer from Petersburg, Virginia, a rising Senior majoring in Religious Education; in Nancy Dorm will be Elaine Kiser, a rising Senior majoring in Social Studies who is from High Point; and in Stroup Dorm the counselor is Gay Shouse from Winston-Salem a rising Senior majoring in Elementary Education.

Duties of the residence counselor include assisting the residence director in locking doors, working late hours and taking charge of the dorm in her absence. The residence counselor is a part of the Staff and personnel department and is salaried. They must maintain a 2.5 scholastic average.

GW's dorm officers were elected on Monday, April 17.

Officers for 1972-73 in Happy Dorm are: President: Kathy Nichols, Vice-President: Kay Smith.

Secretary: Brenda Evans, Treasurer: Doris Singleton, Serving Nancy Dorm are: President: Dene Eller, Vice-President: Stephanie Angelo.

Secretary: Martha Gragg, Treasurer: Debbie Walker, Stroup's officers are: President: Gloria Washburn Vice-President: Jane McArthur, Secretary: Kathy Budd, Treasurer: Brenda Barlett.

Tentative resident directors for the men's dorms are Decker, Dickie Brown; Lutz-Velton, Coy Huffman; Mauney, Bert Smith; Myers, Stan Napier; and Spangler, Tony Mauldin. The final selection will be made by May 1.

Newly elected SGA officers for '72-73 are from right to left: Bob Grant, treasurer; Burt Skinner, vice president; Steve Riddle, president; Mike Stewart, chief justice; and Candy Cline, secretary.

'71 - '72 Perspective

1971-1972 was a unique year indeed for the Webb. It was a year of advancement, national recognition, hard work, a few disappointments, and for the seniors, one of mixed emotions.

To start off for the year with a bang, a man named Johnny Cash appeared on campus September 28. Students thought this was just a rumor at first, but it became quite a reality when classes were called off for the day. He gave a concert in the stadium, received an honorary doctor's degree from this institution, and was quickly whisked off to Charlotte, leaving GW national fame by his presence, and leaving the staff and students' heads spinning.

December 1, 1971, saw a dream come true as GW received accreditation from the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. Seniors and 1971 graduates breathed a sigh of relief as they were then sure their diploma was secure.

Football season brought the gladders hard luck and bad breaks as they fell to some close games, and ended the season with a 3-7 mark. But the cagers started a trend on November 23 against Piedmont College in Best Gym that was to take them all the way to Kansas City, where they concluded the season with a 33-5 mark and ended 4th in the NAIA. This was probably the highlight of the year for GW students, as they listened intently night after night while the Dogs knocked off each opponent until they met East Clark and Kentucky State. It was also a big year for senior George Adams as he brought in the honors and became one of GW's biggest athletes.

For the Student Government Association this year was a test for the new constitution. Under the leadership of Jeff Cranford, the SGA advanced by leaps and bounds, and the students began to feel their power and use it constructively. The senate brought many new changes, such as the pool tables, pin ball machines, and the altogether new look for the CID. Also they enacted a new rule for women's hours. The judicial board too felt their strength and responsibilities throughout the year and in April met their biggest challenge of the year in the "Campus Code #7"—the men's hair rule. Although the SGA has had some disappointments and set backs, on the whole they advanced forward with new power.

The year saw some changes on the GW campus, both internally and externally. Several new administrative positions were filled, much needed by the new four-year college. Externally the chapel was under construction all year. Off campus, a new hamburger joint was established, the Bantam Chef, providing students with a new place to eat besides the cafeteria or Snack Shop. And speaking of the cafeteria, it was also full of changes, as ice cream was served, a juke box installed, and several outdoor specials provided. Also, other external changes seemed to be longer hair for the men and for women more and more pants.

Several well-known speakers came on campus such as Lord Cardon, British Ambassador to the U.N., and Grady Nutt, a Baptist comedian.

Second semester saw a new program for students and the community in the form of night classes. This lightened the day-time load of many students and provided many extra hours.

Homecoming was traditional, even with the good old GW rain. But, May Day became Spring Jubilee and new festivities such as a Ball were added while the traditional May Day activities were dropped.

Many, many more activities graced the year such as the drama productions and music specials. We've only mentioned the highlights. For seniors, this was their most important year and of course their last. Many are glad to leave, some sad, but all a little older and a little wiser.

RAY GREEN

DONNA ELLINGTON

BECKY ABERNATHY