Gardner-Webb College—Home of the Bulldogs

MERRY CHRISTMAS and HAPPY NEW YEAR from the entire PILOT staff.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 12, 1972

BOILING SPRINGS, NORTH CAROLINA

Debbie Burns Awarded “Miss Anchor—1973”

The ANCHOR held its first annual Miss ANCHOR contest with ten candidates vying for the title. Debbie Burns, a sophomore Music major from Kings Mountain, was selected to receive the honor. Debbie is captain of the cheerleading squad and a member of the college chorus and gymnastic team.

Lanita Wright, a junior education major from Shelby is first runner-up, and Donna Turner, a senior psychology major from Blackburg, S. C., is the second runner-up.

The Miss ANCHOR title was created this year by the annual staff under the guidance of its editor, John Fowler. The staff nominated ten students who were to be judged on their beauty, poise, and participation in school activities. The contestants were selected from the sophomores, junior, and senior classes and are in good academic standing.

Contestants for the event were: Myra Botis, Shelby; Lawana Cooper, Cherokee; Judy Greene, Charlotte; Sherry Hugh, Gastonia; Gloria Holt, Durham; Gay Shouse, Winston-Salem; and Carolyn Vinson, Valdes.

The yearbook will be in Miss Anchor's honor and she will be featured. Her name will be engraved in gold on her yearbook. She will represent the ANCHOR at banquets and various school festivities.

The judges were Mr. Jonas Bridges of WKMT radio in Kings Mountain and Mr. Ken Vessey of WADA radio in Shelby. The presentation of the 1973 Miss Anchor was made by assistant editor Bud Thomas and editor John Fowler at a dinner held in the Bulldog Room of the Student Center on Tuesday, November 29.

Christmas Drive

The Gardner-Webb SGA in cooperation with the Cleveland County Community Action has started a drive to help underprivileged families throughout the Boiling Springs and Shelby areas. SGA President Steve Riddle and J. C. Cole initiated the project after a Sociology class under Mr. Lanford Jolley toured the poverty-stricken areas in Boiling Springs and Shelby.

Students are asked to contribute cash, goods, clothing or toys, and these articles will be collected in a designated area in the cafeteria under the Christmas tree. These items are being picked up by the Cleveland County Community Action and distributed to needy families. If there is a surplus of items and all the physical needs of families in this area are met, the remaining goods will be taken to the Salvation Army for distribution in other areas.

This is the first year the SGA has attempted such a project. The fullest cooperation of the student body is required and if the response is successful, the SGA plans to make it a year round project. "It seems hypocritical to me that people only care around Christmas time. Remember these underprivileged families must eat year round," commented Steve Riddle.

Although a similar project has been initiated by women's resident halls in past years, this is the first time the SGA has attempted to underwrite this type of campus project.

Life Committee.

Impeachment proceedings were begun by the senate on Walter Biggs and Gerry Valecourt for failure to fulfill the responsibilities of senator. Both students had continued to fail to attend senate meetings. The impeachment will be carried to the judicial board for further action.

Student Judicial Hearing

At a call-meeting on December 4, the student judicial body ruled on case 72-132. The charges consisted of violation of campus code 42—theft. The accused student pleaded guilty and after lengthy deliberation, the student judicial body ruled, by majority vote, to place the individual on disciplinary probation for the remainder of the fall semester and suspension for spring semester '73.

In September the student judicial justices ruled on case 72-731 which involved cheating and they delivered the same sentence.

Holiday Tournament Queen

The 1972 Holiday Tournament Queen is Patti Fisher, a freshman. The runners-up were Linda Albright and Lanita Wright.

Nominations were presented by campus clubs and organizations and in chapel assembly on Tuesday, December 5, the student body voted on the Queen.

Patti Fisher and her court will reign during the Basketball Holiday Tournament played at Gardner-Webb, December 29-30.

SGA News

Legislation was introduced to the senate on Dec. 4 requesting that a document be prepared which would contain a written explanation of student rights and responsibilities. Chief Justice Mike Stewart will be chairperson of the committee to prepare this document. It is hoped that rules and regulations and policies which directly affect students will receive major emphasis in this document, as there has been problems in the past with infractions of rules with which students were not aware.

Officers of AWS and MAC and justices will serve on the committee which will conduct an in depth study of judicial practices and procedures.

The Student Union Board Committee reported that it had begun to rough draft on the constitution and bylaws for a Student Union Board. In cooperation with the Constitutional Review Committee the SUB would unite the activities of the campus.

Realizing that Spring Jubilee is an integral part of campus activities, a motion was carried to have a committee organize this activity. Guidelines for the coffee house were presented and approved and the food committee was approved to be a standing committee. This legislation should provide the food committee with more strength and if valid complaints are not acted upon by cafeteria management, an appeal may be presented to the Student

Students Affected By Financial Aid Cut

In mid-October Mr. Bill Briggs, Director of Student Personnel Services, received information that final approval of the funds had been denied and the Gardner-Webb had lost $39,500.

This federal cut-back affected 233 students that were on the program and while 177 students lost partial funds, 26 students lost all funds. The average cut-back was $300 per student.

Mr. Briggs stated that the cut-back was not an arbitrary denial of funds by the college but the cut-back had come from the federal government. He also stated that college regulations provided that students were responsible for all payments before beginning during the fall registration, but due to the situation arrangements could be made through the Financial Aid Department.
