Mission Mountain Wood Band

October 4 Performance Slated At Bost Gym

The Mission Mountain Wood Band will perform tomorrow night, October 4 at 8 o'clock in Bost Gymnasium. The group is comprised of four men from Montana and one from Nevada. They have been described as "The Greatest Electric Bluegrass Band In the World."

The music of Mission Mountain is a combination of bluegrass, hillbilly tunes, heavy rock, light rock, country-western, folk and even a version of barbershop harmony. The group plays numbers of various recording artists as well as their own compositions. Originally, the band began as a general rock and roll group, but changed to bluegrass when they found the audience reacting favorably to it. The audience is the key to the success of a Mission Mountain performance. The Sunday Missoulian says, "Band members are audience-oriented, not self-oriented, and their stage performance shows it. . . . The more the crowd loves it, the more the band loves it."

The members of the band are Richard Johnson, Rob Quist, Greg Reichburg, Steve Riddle, and Terry Robinson. Richard, a native of Reno, Nevada, plays lead guitar, mandolin, and sings harmony. He enjoys skiing and skydiving. Rob plays banjo, electric guitar, flute and mouth harp. He also sings lead and harmony. He is an active athlete and outdoorsman and lives in Cut Bank, Montana.

Greg is the percussionist for the group. He is a resident of Billings, Montana and his hobbies are skiing, parachute jumping and outdoor sports. Steve is the group's leader, singing lead and harmony. He also plays the bass guitar. His hometown is Libby, Montana and he enjoys skiing, big game hunting and holds a private pilot's license. Terry plays six and twelve string acoustic guitars, Kalispell, Montana is his home and he enjoys basketball.

The Mission Mountain Wood Band has performed in several nightclubs, concerts and television shows. Clubs include Mr. Kelly's, Bitter End, Barney Google's, Dutch Mill Inn, and Clancy's. The band received reviews at Mr. Kelly's like, "The MISSION MOUNTAIN WOOD BAND, five young men from Montana, who had their first nighters stomping their feet and clapping their hands." (Aaron Gold, CHICAGO TRIBUNE), and Sam Lesser of the CHICAGO DAILY NEWS: "Sharing Mister Kelly's stage for the week is the MISSION MOUNTAIN WOOD BAND, a young five-man group from Montana, with the hoedown sound and a "mountain dew" fermentation. It's heavy stuff, if you dig slapdash musical entertainment based on a kind of jolly monotony of string sound."

Concerts have been held at thirty-two different colleges and universities. Some of these are the University

Association Of Women Students Sponsors Storaska's Lecture

On October 10, at 8:00 p.m. in the Gardner-Webb cafeteria, "rape" will be the focal point of conversation. Perhaps one of the most fact-filled public lectures ever to be given on this campus will be presented by Mr. Frederic Storaska, national authority on the problems of assaults.

Mr. Storaska is a graduate of North Carolina State University with a degree in psychology. Since 1964, when he witnessed the brutal rape of a teenage girl, whom he aided, Frederic Storaska has had a deep interest in both the victims and the social connotations of rape. Therefore, in November of 1964, Storaska presented his first program at a private women's college. Since then, he has lectured to over a million students at more than 400 colleges and universities throughout the nation. These lectures have prevented serious assaults and/or saved lives in more than 250 documented cases. In May 1972, Mr. Storaska founded the National Rape & Assault Prevention Center in New York City. He directs the Center's activities with volunteer help. In July 1973, Frederic Storaska was featured with several other experts (Alvin Dewey, "In Cold Blood", Edie Eagan "The French Connection" on ABC's "Crimewatch", hosted by Truman Capote. In August of that same year a film of Storaska's lecture, explaining and documenting his principles, was made for television. He has a book slated for publication later this year.

Storaska's topics include: "To be raped . . . Or . . . Not to be Raped" a discussion of the elements of an assault and the best psychological and physical preventives, "Sex and Surviving The Dating Game", points out that over half of all assaults are made by someone the woman knows. Many of these occur in the dating environments. Storaska discusses human sexuality in the context of interinteraction of men and women, including biological, sociological and expectations, potentialities, limitations, and responsibilities of men and women.

This lecture at Gardner-Webb is being sponsored by the Student Center Board and the AWS.

Food Service Committee Meets Long Lines, Food Waste Discussed

The Food Committee has been hard at work this year on the problems in the cafeteria. The members have been working closely with Mr. Connie Branch, the cafeteria director, so that these problems can be ironed out.

One of the major items of discussion has been the long lines at meal times. It is hoped that in the future, something can be worked out with the class schedules to alleviate the long lines. But for the present time, the students will have to adjust their eating schedules as well as they can to avoid eating during these congested times. Students breaking in line has also been a problem and this slows up the lunch lines. Breaking in line will have to stop. If it continues, the lunch lines may have to be monitored.

Another big problem existing in the cafeteria has been the constant waste of food. Students should come to the cafeteria knowing their appetites and then taking only the amount of food they feel they can eat. If afterwards the student is still hungry, he may always come back for seconds. Mr. Branch is merely asking that the students cooperate with him and his staff to conserve on this waste of food. It should also be pointed out that what everyone was either jokingly or seriously calling food poison was, in reality, cases of a stomach virus. For true food poisoning to exist, hundreds of students would have to become suddenly ill, and not just a few students.

The idea has been suggested to hold a town meeting concerning the problems in the cafeteria. All concerned students would be urged to attend this meeting. This meeting would provide the students an opportunity to air their ideas or suggestions on these problems. Students can also voice their suggestions to the Food Committee members. The members of the Food Committee this year are Otis Hollar-Chairman, David Laws, Chuck Scoville, and Charlotte Meyer. Representatives from each of the resident halls are also being appointed to serve on the committee.

Mr. Storaska to be on campus October 10. Rape will be the focal point of conversation.
