

GWC Golfers In Five Tournaments

DAVID HYDE

The Gardner-Webb College golfers are expecting a winning season. All team members are back from last year except John Mattson. Mattson will be hard to replace as he won 1st place in the district and 3rd in the national tournament. Freshman Tommy Franklin is being counted on to fill part of Mattson's shoes. Spring practice has already begun for the team. The team will play five tournaments during the spring: Elon Invitational on March 10 and 11, Red Foxx Tournament in Tryon during March 19-21, Furman Invitational in April 3-5, North Carolina Collegiate Tournament in Charlotte, and the District Tournament April 25 and 29. The Gardner-Webb gold team members for this year are: Jim Zimmerman, Jim Franklin, Rodney Morrow, Charles Mack, Dan Phillips, Joel Lineberger, Jim Hunsuck, Rick Stephens, and Lee Abrams. This is one of the smallest teams Gardner-Webb has had in years.

Girl's Intramural Basketball Outlook

Leah Hayes

Decker is the girl's volleyball champs. Decker's strength was highlighted when they won first place and the volleyball championship. Second place honors went to Nanny.

Paula Hook, chairman of women's intramurals, would like to thank all the girls for showing great sportsmanship through football and volleyball season. She hopes the girls will continue the sportsmanship through basketball.

There are 5 teams competing for the basketball championship this year. And all of the coaches are proud of their teams and with much enthusiasm they each look for a competitive but winning season.

"We are short but quick. Our quickness and aggressiveness will determine the games we win. With Marty Driver helping us out at center and the recruits from Decker (last year) along with Nanny's returning girls, like Wanda Nantz, we should have a strong team," says Nanny's coach, Roger King.

Otis Hollar, the coach of Stroup said, "We have a small team. We play a controlled type offense. We plan to have a winning season. There is no one individual who is outstanding, but it is a team effort."

Decker is a fine, experienced team. They are easy to work with. We have a strong starting line-up, with Linda Cody at center. We are expecting a winning season this year," said their coach, Jeff Johnson.

Chris Dukes, a player for the Day Students, made this comment, "We look better than we thought we would at our first game. As soon as

BULLDOG SPORTS

COACH HOLBROOK LAYS DOWN SOME LAST MINUTE INSTRUCTIONS

Gardner-Webb's Bulldogs, leading all the way, whipped the Flamingo Club, 103-89, to salvage a victory Friday in its three-game swing through Rio de Janeiro.

Eight Bulldogs shared in the scoring in their win over the Flamingo Club, Billy Ellis, Jim Blanks and Alvin Jones hit 13 each, Don Foster, Doug Turner and Seairight scored 12 each, and Gene Bowen and George White had 10 each for the G-W outfit.

Fioranto, with 27, paced the Flamingo Club along with Eric McWilliams, who had 25. McWilliams and George Thompson, who hit 14, both played for Long Beach College in the States.

The Bulldogs led 67-40 at intermission and were never in trouble.

However, the Bulldogs suffered a heart-breaking 89-88 loss to an All-Star team there Thursday night.

John Seairight's basket at the buzzer, which would have won for the Bulldog, was nullified by the officials.

In Thursday's loss to the All-Stars, Foster took the inbound pass, drove down the middle and passed to Seairight, who scored what would have been the winning basket, but Foster was off for traveling.

Eddie Holbrook, G-W coach, said, "Thursday night's game was played as hard and good as we've played all year. But, out players couldn't overcome the difficult circumstances which went far beyond just the international rules. Our guys made the rules adjustment fine and played an excellent game. It was obvious, however, that we wouldn't win the game.

The G-W team and fans were treated ver cordially by the Brazilian Basketball Federation.

The Globe, the top local newspapers, also received the Bulldogs well. It also was critical of the officiating in the loss to the All-Star contingent.

GW Signs Elkin QB

GWC News Bureau

Gardner-Webb College's new head football coach, Oval Jaynes, has announced the signing of Dean Gilliam of Elkin, N.C., to a football grant-in-aid.

Gilliam, the starting quarterback for Elkin High School the last three seasons, completed 212 of 400 passes in his prep career for 3,475 yards and 56 touch-downs, and a 53 per cent completion average.

The 5-11, 175 pound signal caller, who was approached by over 50 schools, said he narrowed the choice down to three, Gardner-Webb, Appalachian, and Lenoir Rhyne, before deciding to play with the Bulldogs.

Included in the schools interested in Gilliam's talents were Southeastern and Atlantic Coast Conference members. But he decided he liked the idea of playing at a small school, says, "the people and the coaching staff at Gardner-Webb especially impressed me."

Coach Jaynes, former offensive line coach at the University of South Carolina, says that the 'Dogs will run a twin-ver offense next season featuring sprint-out passing, much similar to the type of plays Gilliam ran successfully at Elkin.

The entire coaching staff is very high on Gilliam, with Coach Jaynes saying, "We think Dean Gilliam will be able to help us out at quarterback next year. He is a good enough athlete to start as a freshman."

"We are delighted that Dean chose Gardner-Webb. I think that the type of football background and training he had under Coach Harry Jennings will help him make the adjustment to college ball next year."

DADDY'S GONE A-HUNTING

Carol White, Paul Burke

DADDY'S GONE A-HUNTING has been described as the most terrifying thriller since ROSEMARY'S BABY. The film unfolds the story of a young man turned homicidally psychotic and realistically depicts the horribly insane campaign of terror which he wages against his former lover. This tension and suspense never let up as the film builds to a thrilling and shocking climax.
