What's New!

By R. Shawn Lewis
Managing Editor

Spring has come to Gardner-Webb College and brought with it flowers in bloom and a baby boom. Yes, that's right--a baby boom. The Gardner-Webb College family continues to grow, with four new members added since December 25th.

Cheryl Potter, an interpreter with the hearing impaired program, began the Gardner-Webb baby boom with a bouncing Christmas baby (9 lbs. 10 oz!). Phillip and Cheryl Potter are the proud parents of Lauren Ashley Potter, born December 25, 1989.

Lisa and Ozzie McFarland were next up to bat and on February 15, 1990, they welcomed Russell Adam McFarland to the Gardner-Webb family. Russell Adam tipped the scales at just over 8 pounds.

More recently, Admissions Director Randy Kilby and wife Dana added another boy to Gardner-Webb family. Joshua Randall Kilby, their first child, was born March 16, 1990 and weighed 6 lbs. 14 oz.

Adding to the growing excitement of "Baby Mania '90", Dr. Rudee Boan and wife Robi adopted a newborn son, Jordan Quentin Xavier Boan. Born March 12th, the baby Boan weighed in at 7 lbs. 1 oz.

With the addition of these four fresh faces, there are a couple of questions that come to mind: 1) Is it time for a nursery on campus? and 2) What are they putting in the water around here?

Congratulations to all the proud parents and may you and your children live prosperous lives.

Touted as potentially the greatest back to ever don the black and red of Gardner-Webb, redshirt freshman Robby Holloway was used sparingly throughout the game. Though the defense was obviously keying on him when he was in the lineup, Holloway managed to chalk up two touchdown runs. He showed good strength in several runs up the middle. Holloway also exhibited good hands in catching screen passes, including one that set up the offense's final touchdown. Though the offense went on to a 42-35 "victory," several defensive players merited mention. Free safety Hoyt Bynum was consistently around the ball and also snared a second half interception. Freshman linebackers Chris Griffin and Mike McFadden also played well and should give support to starter Darren Nosal next season.

Pending further development of the very young and inexperienced offensive line, the Runnin' Bulldogs will be picked as one of the nation's elite going into this fall. On offense, both the quarterback and running back positions are deep with talent. The 'Dogs, defensively, appear solid throughout. With a bumper crop of recruits expected in August, Spangler Stadium will be the place to be for major excitement in 1990.
