Gardner-Webb had little, if any trouble, handing the Clark-Atlanta Panthers their first loss of the season. In a game that saw GWU's William Andrews move into third place on the school's all-time receptions list and set a school record of having at least one catch in 30 consecutive games, ended 45-0 on Saturday night.

After allowing only one yard on the Panthers first drive, sophomore quarterback, Nick Roberts, led the Bulldogs 42 yards in three plays. Roberts found Andrews in the end zone for a 13 yard score and a 7-0 lead. A one-yard run by Chris Foster later in the quarter capped a 27-yard drive and took a 19-0 lead to the second quarter.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association enforcement staff released its 22-page Notice of Allegations against Gardner-Webb to President Campbell on Wednesday Aug. 27.

The Notice of Allegations is an official document that is sent to an institution following any NCAA investigation; the findings stem from an investigation conducted on campus during the past year.

An email from Matt

Webber, director of university communications, was sent to staff members late Wednesday and stated that the notice had been given to the university.

The email, however, did not include a list of the findings and was not sent to the student body.

In the email, Campbell said he was not surprised about the NCAA's findings because the university has cooperated fully with the NCAA throughout the investigation.

The next steps for the university include a response to the NCAA Infractions Committee regarding the findings by mid-October. The infractions committee will meet in mid-December, possibly to determine appropriate punishments for the university.

Scott Larson, assistant athletic director for compliance, said he is not allowed to release any information without Campbell's permission.

Campbell was unavailable for comment.
