Top: Seeking shelter under umbrellas, students hurried to class during the rainy day weather.
 Above Left: A new way to look at Gardner-Webb's rose garden gazebo.
 Above Right: The verge was held on the quad as a form of "remix" away from the usual location in Dover Chapel. Heather Shirey lights a tiki torch as Ruth Marino holds her hand up to shield from the wind.
 Right: Joshua Pniewski, a first year MBA student, sits in the DCC on a Sunday afternoon, reading business newsletters on his laptop.
 Bottom Right: Jeff Ward relaxes on the Pamela Darnell's memorial bench at the springs.
 Below: The hands of Gabrielle McClure mold and form the clay. She is working on a series of coffee cups for her pottery class.
