Smart growth forum tomorrow morning

A free public forum will be held tomorrow morning in King Auditorium to discuss growth and planning for Wilmington and New Hanover County.

The forum, which will take place from 8:30 a.m. to noon, will bring together five growth experts to discuss the positive aspects of smart growth and how to better manage the area's growth explosion over the last few years. The forum will also examine the city's new mixed-zoning.

Associate Professor of Political Science Tom Barth will moderate the discussion.

Hurricane program for young children

"Hurricane Hunters and Stress Busters," a free program for elementary-age children, will be offered at the New Hanover County Public Library at 2 p.m. on Saturday. The children will be led on an interactive journey through the eye of a hurricane, educate them on hurricane safety, and give them an opportunity to describe their own experiences during Floyd.

The program will take place in the large meeting room on the second floor of the Main Library. All school-age children are welcome, and no registration is required. For more information please call 341-4392.
