English Dept. Head Attends Ceremony

Dr. W. W. Powell, head of the St. Andrews English department, has accepted an invitation to attend a ceremony in honor of Henry David Thoreau, May 6, to be held at New York University.

This ceremony is to honor Thoreau by his addition to the Hall of Fame for Great Americans at New York University, in recognition of his eminence in American letters. The activities will involve the unveiling of a bust of Thoreau and the presentation of a tablet.

To be present are his Excellency Mr. Braj Kumar Nehru of India, Ambassador to the United States, Professor Raymond Adams, University of North Carolina, first President of the Thoreau Society of America, Professor Lewis Leary, Columbia University, President, The Thoreau Society of America, Mr. Paul Osher, of the Smithsonian Institution, and many other dignitaries.

Dr. Powell has recently attended the sixteenth annual Southeastern Renaissance Conference at Columbia College. This conference involved the meeting of various authorities on the Renaissance for discussion and comparison of new ideas, and was held April 13-14.

Interested In Annual Staff?

Anyone interested in working on either the Business or the Editorial staff of the 1963 Lamp and Shield please contact Harriet Johnston (Ex. 68) or Johnnie Hamrick (Ex. 28) before May 9. Interviews will be held in the annual staff room.

The mixed chorus appears here performing as part of the inauguration ceremonies and can be seen again May 7.

Professor Bryant Featured Music Prof. Performs May 11

Miss Joyce Bryant, assistant professor of Music Education and flute will give her faculty flute recital on Friday evening, May 11 in the L. A. Auditorium at 8 p.m.

Miss Bryant received her B. M. from Ohio University and her M.M. from Florida State University. She has completed further studies at Eastman School of Music where she studied with Joseph Mariand.

While attending college Miss Bryant was chosen for membership in Sigma Alpha Iota, the National Music Honorary Fraternity for Women.

Having performed under such well known conductors in the past as William Revelli, Howard Hansen, Frederick Fennell and Thor Johnson, Miss Bryant still finds times to perform in regional orchestras. This year Miss Bryant has been performing with the Fayetteville Orchestra, Florence Symphony and the St. Andrews Orchestra.

Before moving to St. Andrews this year Miss Bryant had taught at Flora Macdonald for seven years beginning in 1954.

Miss Bryant's recital is divided in two sections; the first part will consist of solo performances by Miss Bryant and the second part will be performances of chamber music.

Mr. Lewis H. Hoy, assistant professor of piano, will be the accompanist for the first half of the recital.

Miss Bryant's solo selections for the evening are: Sonata No. 5 in E minor by J.S. Bach (1685-1750), Minuet and Dance of the Blessed Spirit from Orpheus by C. W. Van Gluck (1714-1787), and Poem by C. T. Griffes (1884-1920).

The second half of the program will begin with Diptych, a composition composed for flute, oboe and piano by Dr. Charles G. Vardell, Dean of the Conservatory. This composition was premiered this past February by Dr. Vardell, Miss Bryant and Mr. West at the Southern division of Music Educators National Conference in Greensboro, N. C. Dr. Charles G. Vardell, piano, Miss Joyce Bryant, flute and Mr. Franklin West, oboe will also give the first performance of this new work at St. Andrews.

The trio for the final two selections of the evening will be Miss Bryant, Mrs. West, Viola and Mr. West, oboe. The two selections they will perform are: Andantino from Trio in G by C.P.E. Bach (1714-1788) and Grand Trio in C, Op. 87 by L. Von Beethoven (1780-1827).

Women's Chorus Sings Today

St. Andrews' Choral Club, under the direction of Miss Anneliese Schober, presented a program of music at the Rotary Club Luncheon today at 1:30 p.m.

Opening their performance with "Jesus, Our Lord" by Will James, the girls' chorus continued with Johann Wolfgang Franck's "Ye Fields of Light."

A Belgian folk song, "Tell It Out, the Story," was selected from a collection of four Easter Carols. "Triumph Thanksgiving" by Sergei Rachmaninoff was next on the program.

Two pieces by John Jacob Niles — "Go 'Way from my Window" and "Frog in the Spring" — were included in the afternoon presentation.

The group continued their program with "An Idle Song" by Victoria Glaser and an American folk song, "Lollytoddum."

Two selections from Isadore Freed's "Postscripts" — "No Parking" and "Theory of Ratios" — concluded the performance.

Accompanists for the group are Barbara Love and Ruth Smyth, freshmen.

Mixed Chorus Gives Concert Monday Night

St. Andrews' College Choir will present a program of music in the Liberal Arts Auditorium Monday, May 7, at 8 p.m.

Lawrence M. Skinner is director of the group, and Joyce Menghi is the accompanist.

The program will be opened with Gumpelzhaimer's "Caenam Cum Discipulis." Following "Hallejuah" (from Mt. of Olives) by Beethoven, the choir will sing a Brahms Motet: "Make Me, O Lord God, Pure in Heart."

The presentation will continue with three choruses of Mendelssohn's "Elijah" — "Cast Thy Burden Upon the Lord;" "Lord, Bon Thine Ear to our Prayer" with soloists Nyal Womble, soprano, and Margaret Ann Martin, alto; and "He Watching Over Israel."

The choir ensemble will then present "Black is the Color of My True Love's Hair," arranged by Churchill, and "Old Joe Clark," arranged by Kleinsinger.

Tkach's "To Thee We Sing" will be followed by "With a Voice of Singing" by Shaw. Bill Abrams, tenor, will be the soloist in Harter's arrangement of "Come by Here."

Nyal Womble will be featured in "There is a Balm in Gilead," arranged by Dawson. The program will conclude with Smith's arrangement of "Ride the Chariot."

Officers of the college choir are Dianne Kearns, president; James King, vice-president; Linda Turner, secretary; and Nyal Womble, student director.

Ralph Allen, Student Center Board Member, announces that Bermuda Shorts may be worn in the Game Room and down-stairs in the Student Center from 2-5 p.m. every day except Sunday.

Students in shorts must enter from the lake entrance only, and must not go up stairs at any time. Students are reminded that this privilege is extended on a trial basis and will be taken away if it is abused.

SAC Students Attend Meeting

Representatives of St. Andrews' student government attended the annual convention of the North State Student Government Association, held this year at Catawba College in Salisbury, N. C., April 29-30.

The delegates to this convention were representatives of the newly-elected student government officers of the members of the Northstate Association. Presiding was Lee Kanipe, of Lenoir-Rhyne, president of this organization, who spoke at the installation of our student government April 16.

The convention is held annually at this time with its main purpose being the election of officers for the coming term.

The convention was opened with a banquet Sunday night for purposes of introduction. With the election, other activities were: reports from the members on their progress in student government the past year, and group workshops to compare ideas and discuss common problems and possible solutions. Each school also prepared a display of their associations activities for the past year, this involving reports, articles, and other displays.

Representing St. Andrews were: Nanci Crowell, president of the student center board; Carol Brooks, secretary of the SGA; Bob Zeh, treasurer of the Christian Association; Bill Patterson, editor of The Lance; and Ted Williams, president of the Day Student Association.

The Northstate Student Government Association is composed of Appalachian State Teachers College, Atlantic Christian College, Elon College, Lenoir-Rhyne College, Pfeiffer College, Western Carolina College, and St. Andrews.
