Vol. 111 No. 2

ST. ANDREWS PRESBYTERIAN COLLEGE, LAURINBURG, N. C.

September 27, 1963

Jim Stedman, reporter for THE LANCE, talks with Mike Morgan, newly appointed security officer for St. Andrews.

Security Officer For St. Andrews

Mike Morgan is St. Andrew's new security officer. A native of Scotland county, Mr. Morgan was for ten years a member of the Laurinburg police department.

Robert R. Davenport, Assistant Dean of Students, expressed the long felt need of a security officer and concluded "I'm very impressed with his attitude . . . and I think he is going to fulfill a real need." Mike was selected mainly through the efforts of Silas Vaughan, business manager of the college, and Herbert Hannah, campus engineer.

Mike made such a great impression on the administration that he now has a new 1963 Rambler in which he can make his rounds of the campus. The students say that this car can catch anything on four wheels although Mike admits that this is a "slight" exaggeration. However, his new car does contain, for emergencies, such articles as a battery cable, a 2-gallon can of gas, and two cables.

As his duties require that he be subject to call 24 hours a day, it will be necessary to install a radio in his car; however, that cannot be completed for approximately another five weeks.

Until then he can usually be reached through the boiler room. Among his numerous duties, there will be regular night patrol of some of the more popular "parking places" throughout the campus. He wants to remind the students that his job is to help them and to insure their safety.

MENC Forms

The new 1963-64 officers of the St. Andrews chapter of the Music Educators National Conference presided over the club's first meeting of the year, Tuesday, Sept. 17. Joyce Menghi acts as president, Mary Elizabeth Ricks as vice-president, Mary Wallace as secretary-treasurer, and Barbara Love as corresponding secretary. Professor Joyce Bryant acts as advisor to the organization.

The MENC was first organized on this campus through the efforts of Miss Bryant. Last year the organization served the students through bi-weekly meetings. A comical skit was presented in the Liberal Arts Auditorium on concert etiquette starring Professor John Williams as the performing artist. Also, Robert MacDonald, artist in residence of last year's faculty, gave a program on the art of the teacher.

The MENC plans to serve the students this year through listening sessions to familiarize students with "classical" music. Plans are in the making for procuring performing artists, and lecturers and exchange programs with other schools of music are being considered.

President Joyce Menghi wishes to make it known that membership is open to all St. Andrews students interested in music.

Junior C & C Program Deals in Far Eastern Affairs

"The earth is no doubt the same size as it was when man made his first appearance upon it, but through miracles of communication and transportation modern man has radically reduced his planet to a very small world. What happens in the little nation of Togoland instantaneously affects nations on the opposite side of the planet. Conversely what happens in the Western hemisphere makes an immediate impact on the emerging nations of Africa and Asia. Two days after the Little Rock episode hit the headlines in American newspapers, a Congo chieftain one-hundred miles from 'civilization' asked a Christian Missionary to 'explain' why it happened. Isolation is impossible in our world today."

ture program for juniors was introduced to St. Andrews. Enrollment for the new course was heavy, and included some seniors who chose the course as an elective.

This is the first time that a junior Christianity and Culture program has been offered. However, the present junior class has become familiar with the course through their work with it during their freshmen and sophomore year here at St. Andrews. During these two years the course includes a study of the Hebraic and Greek sources of our culture, the Graeco-Roman culture, the High Middle Ages, The Renaissance, and the Age of Revolutions. The third year program for the C. & C. course includes a study of the history, literature, religion, and philosophy of Africa and Asia.

The Junior C & C team, composed of Dr. Bennett, Dr. Bullock, Mr. Chee, Mr. McLean, and Mr. Soloman, have been working on the junior program for sometime. There will be thirty, seventy-five minute periods, with 12 sessions devoted to Africa, nine to India, and seven to China and Japan. Some attention in the course will be given to the influence of Christianity upon the non-Western cultures as a result of the missionary movement. During the second semester developments that have occurred during the twentieth century will be focused upon.

Dr. Bennett says they feel through this course that they are opening a window on this very important half of the world.

Public Speaking Class To Meet

The first meeting of the Public Speaking class will be held on Monday, October 7, at 6:30 p.m. in the small dining room.

(See related story p. 2.)

Miss Bryant rehearses with Lewis Hoy, accompanist for her recital October 11.

Faculty Recital Scheduled For October 11

Joyce M. Bryant, Assistant Professor of Music Education and Flute, will present a flute recital on Oct. 11 at 8:00 p.m. in the Liberal Arts auditorium. Lewis H. Hoy, Assistant Professor of Piano, will accompany her.

French Student Visits St. Andrews

Lilliane Petit, a graduate of the University of Paris, spent Thursday visiting St. Andrews campus. She was escorted around the campus by John Campbell, who is from Dillon, S.C., where Lilliane has spent the last eight weeks.

Lilane is in the United States participating in "An Experiment in International Living" which is sponsored by the Rotary Clubs. The main purpose of Lilliane's visit to the U.S. is to visit American families and to learn how they live.

Lilliane was very impressed with St. Andrews campus. She liked the Student Center because it reminded her of the French Quarter Latin which surrounds the University of Paris. The students spend their leisure time in the cafes discussing national affairs, school subjects and personal problems.

Lilliane plans to return to Paris today after two months in the U.S.

The program will include: Sonata in A minor, Op.1, No.4, by G. F. Handel; a Sonata for flute and piano by L. van Beethoven; Night Soliloquy by K. Kennan; and Jota by G. S. de Roxlo. The flutist will also perform from Carmen, Entr'acte from Act III, by G. Bizet; March of the Jolly Fellows by H. Gagnebin; and Nocturne et Allegre Scherzando by P. Gaubert.

Miss Bryant holds the Bachelor of Science degree in Education from Ohio University, and the Master of Music Education degree from Florida State University. She joined the Conservatory faculty of Flora MacDonald in 1954 and has been with St. Andrews since its opening. Presently she is engaged by the Florence (S. C.) and Fayetteville Symphony Orchestras.

Miss Bryant has studied with Joseph Mariano, master teacher at the Eastman School of Music, in Rochester, N. Y. She has played under such well known conductors as Howard Hanson of the Eastman School of Music, William Revelli of the University of Michigan, and Thor Johnson, conductor of the Chicago Little Symphony.

She played for the Convention of the Southern Division of the Music Educators National Conference in 1960.

Lilliane Petit (c.), visiting student from the University of Paris, is interviewed by Pat Ball, reporter for THE LANCE. With Miss Petit is John Campbell, who escorted her around St. Andrews campus.

YRC Meets

The Saint Andrews Young Republicans club held their first meeting of the new school year in the small dining room Monday night. Thirteen students were present for the dinner meeting.

Since the club is still in the organizational stages, a club constitution, means of financing the club, and the need for an advisor were the main topics of discussion. Duck Carr, Jim Moore, Pat Phifer, and Courtney Shives were appointed to formulate a club constitution.

The next meeting of the club will be 5:30 Monday afternoon in the small dining room. All interested students and faculty members are invited to attend.
