SM Movement to Meet

The Centenary Methodist Church in Winston-Salem was setting February 7-9 for the annual Methodist Student Movement State Conference.

The theme, "If I Should Die Before I Live," was further explicated Sunday morning in the communion talk on Christian service by the Rev. James Lawson. As an extension of the theme, Rev. Lawson spoke on Friday night and Saturday morning. His talks were followed by a Lenten "talkbacks."

Afternoon of the St. Andrews delegates—Maurice Bowles, Larry Bowers, Judy Lutz, and Miss Moore, and Miss Julia Moore, advisor—attended seminars on psychiatry and related careers. After a wonderful banquet, the students returned to Salem College for the thought-provoking play "For Heaven's Sake!"

Following the worship service on Sunday, the St. Andrews delegates returned to Old Salem and the Wake Forest campus and went to Judy's home for dinner.

Leonard Rose's 1963-64 tour of the United States is as varied as it is extensive, and features such special events as three performances as soloist with the Music Aeterna at New York's Metropolitan Museum; concerts in Philadelphia and New York with Eugene Ormandy, the Philadelphia Orchestra and fellow trio members Isaac Stern, violinist and Eugene Istomin, pianist. Other orchestras with which Rose appears during his current trans-continental tour include those of Cleveland, Buffalo, San Antonio, Brooklyn, San Francisco, Portland, and Washington, D.C.

Born in Washington, D.C. and brought up in Florida, Rose was a student of Felix Salmond at Philadelphia's Curtis Institute of Music. In 1938 he was engaged to play in Toscanini's NBC Symphony, and after only three weeks was appointed assistant first cellist by the Maestro. In 1944 he was appointed first cellist of the New York Philharmonic. His last appearance as a member of that organization was at the 1951 Edinburgh Festival.

Rose made his first major European tour in 1958, playing a recital at the Brussel's World's Fair. A major critic noted: "Leonard Rose's recital was not only equal to all the great recitals so far heard in the American Theatre, it was a high point of the musical events organized there." In August 1961 he made his first trip to Israel to play in that country's first International Chamber Music Festival.

Last year his North American tour included four New York concerts, participation in the opening festivities of the Seattle World's Fair, and an appearance at the White House.

This coming summer Rose will appear as soloist at the Edinburgh Festival.

The Very Reverend George F. MacLeod, founder and leader of the Iona Community will be on campus February 17-19, as a Danforth Visiting Lecturer in the 1963-64 Concert-Lecture series.

On Monday night, February 17, Dr. MacLeod will give a lecture at 8 in the Liberal Arts Auditorium. Tuesday night at a supper discussion sponsored by the International Relations Club and the Student Christian Council, Dr. MacLeod will speak on "The New Europe." All chapels, which will be moved to Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday mornings, will be presented by this distinguished guest.

Dr. MacLeod was born in 1895, the second son of Sir John MacLeod, first baronet. He was educated at Winchester, Oxford (Oriel College), and Edinburgh University. He holds a Doctorate of Divinity from Glasgow University.

He is Honorary Chaplain to Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II. Since 1960 he has been convenor of his church's committees on church extension and on Central Africa.

Dr. MacLeod was the first Presbyterian to preach in St. Paul's Cathedral, London, since the eighteenth century.

Since 1938 Dr. MacLeod has been leader of the Iona Community, a Presbyterian brotherhood of ministers and craftsmen which has undertaken the task of restoring the ruined Abbey at Iona, founded by St. Columba on the West Scottish island in the sixth century, and regarded as the cradle of Scotland's Christianity. It is used for retreats and conferences.

The Abbey was taken over by the Benedictines, and twice destroyed by pirates in its first centuries. It nevertheless became the center of Scotland's Christianity, and the burial place of its kings until the Reformation, when the Abbey was pillaged and its community dispersed. A burial ground attached to the Abbey contains the graves of fifty Scottish kings, among them MacBeth, villain of Shakespeare's tragedy. Many European kings are also buried there.

ICE CREAM

The Student Center Board invites everyone to come to an ice cream carnival tonight at 9 in the cafeteria. Come early and avoid the rush of people coming from the game. Sweets for the sweet on Valentine's Day!
