G.R.E.'s Will Be Given Seniors

Graduate Record Examinations will be given to those seniors who registered for them this semester Friday and Saturday of this week. The area test will be given Friday. This series of tests measures the breadth of knowledge and understanding of the student in three broad areas of the liberal arts: Social Science, Humanities, and Natural Science. Each of these tests requires seventy minutes.

The social science test is concerned with those phases of non-specialized education in the social sciences which prepare an individual to understand and deal with the interrelated social, economic, and political problems of contemporary society. The student should have an understanding of the nature and history of social, economic, and political institutions and of the problems arising in relation to them; he should have the critical abilities necessary to make intelligent use of the materials of the social sciences.

The Humanities test is a means of evaluating normal undergraduate experience in literature, philosophy, and the arts. The questions in this section were designed to depend as little as possible on particular knowledge, on technical vocabulary, and on "recognition." While the major emphasis throughout the test is on general skills and abilities, the student's basic knowledge is also tested.

The third area test is the natural science test. This measures the student's grasp of scientific methodology and of the simple but fundamental concepts which are of general value. The student has an opportunity to apply his basic knowledge and ability to a number of new situations.

Saturday morning all students will take the Aptitude Test which provides a measure of general scholastic ability of graduating seniors. It yields two scores: verbal ability and quantitative ability. Included in the test are verbal reasoning questions, reading comprehension questions and various kinds of quantitative-mathematical materials.

The afternoon testing period will be devoted to the advanced tests in the student's major field. These comprehensive, three-hour tests are designed to measure the achievement of the college senior in his particular area.

This examination is required of all seniors and is used to compare St. Andrews seniors with those in other colleges in the United States and also as a prerequisite for entrance into most graduate school.

Highland Players Present "Boy and Phoenix", by Fry

HIGHLAND PLAYERS REHEARSE FOR "BOY WITH A CART"

A pair of one-act plays by Christopher Fry, English dramatist, is being performed in a seven-night stand by the Highland Players of St. Andrews Presbyterian College beginning now through November 23.

All performances are being given in the 80-seat Laboratory Theatre for both "Boy with a Cart" and "A Phoenix Too Frequent," beginning each evening at 8 p.m. Tickets are available to the public.

"Boy with a Cart" is being directed by Arthur McDonald, head of the drama department at St. Andrews. It is also being taken on tour in January, with Helen Gregory of Java, Va., as student director and tour manager.

Leading role in "Boy with a Cart" is taken by Larry Mathes of Durham as Cuthman, an English shepherd who dreams of building a cathedral. Lynn Leverton of Baltimore, Md., portrays his mother and the cast includes a chorus of medieval English folk, who also become individual characters.

Members of the chorus are Robert Frothingham of Sykesville, Md., David Hendricks of Charlotte, Jean Bolinger of Spartanburg, S.C., Sherry Baldwin of Farmingdale, N. Y., Tray Stephenson of Chesterfield, S.C., Louise McLeod of Dunn, Elaine Ellwell of Columbus, Ga., Harry Hagan of Irvington, N.Y., and Bob Bercaw of Wilmington, Del., who is designing masks for this play.

"A Phoenix too Frequent" is a comedy played in the tomb of a Roman aristocrat. His widow is portrayed by Lillian Phillips of Charleston, S.C., as Dynamene, who comes to mourn his death and die also. She is accompanied by her maid, Doto, played by Kay McClanahan of Herndon, Va. Romantic complications develop when a Roman sentry arrives at the tomb—Tegius is portrayed by John Campbell of Dillon, S.C.

Mary Hardy of Alexandria, Va., is directing "A Phoenix too Frequent" as a senior project, and is being assisted by David Hendricks.

Costumes for both plays are being designed by Walter Boyce of Mayesville, S.C., and lighting is being planned by Sue Scarborough of Raleigh.

Mrs. P. Smith Gives Plants To School

Several truckloads of azaleas, sasanquas, gardenias, and other plants have been given by Mrs. P.R. Smith of Wilmington to St. Andrews Presbyterian College.

The first truckload of plants arrived on campus Wednesday, November 10, and planting will be done under supervision of

New Honor Code Work Started

The Cabinet has established a new Honor Code committee, Aggie Henderson serves as chairman with members Lee Accettullo, Mike Mullinx, Steve Wainscott, Hunter Allen and Elmer Cool. Working with this committee are faculty members Mr. Forest Altman, Mr. Carl Bennett, Mrs. Margaret Moore, and Miss Pat McQueen.

There are two main objectives toward which the committee will work. One is to set up a temporary procedure in relation to classroom cheating. The other long term objective is to formulate an Honor Code (after all aspects of the possibility can be studied.)

Presently the committee is dealing with the procedural problem. It is attempting to define the obligations of the fac-

Mary Biddle Grant to College

St. Andrews Presbyterian College has reached a $10,000 grant from the Mary Duke Biddle Foundation to aid its program for physically handicapped students.

The college had earlier been given a grant of $30,533 by the Vocational Rehabilitation Administration for this research project, aimed at defining a total college program adapted to the student's needs.

"We are indeed most grateful that the Mary Duke Biddle Foundation has selected St. Andrews for this grant," said President Ansley C. Moore. "The executive director, F.R. Pemberton, gave us some valuable suggestions in shaping the program."

"Mrs. Mary D.B.T. Semans of Durham, chairman of the foundation, has shown a personal culty, Judiciary Boards, and students to each other. Three aspects present themselves as pertinent to this definition: (1) If a student sees another student cheating, should he go to the professor in charge, to the suspect student or to the Judiciary Board? (2) If a faculty member observes cheating, should he take the case to the court or should he handle it himself? (3) should there be a set procedure established?

The committee urges any student to express his view to them as a whole at scheduled meeting, to any of the above named committee members, or by letters to the committee chairman.

It is the committee's hope that students will take an active interest in this project which will greatly affect them.

interest in this project," President Moore noted. "The foundation was established in 1956 with headquarters in New York. Its long-term purpose has been to help the handicapped."

A major part of the foundation grant will be used for student "aides" who work with each handicapped student in the program.

The St. Andrews project provides regularly scheduled medical, sociological, and academic evaluation for each student. There will also be aptitude and personality tests, interviews, and regular counseling periods. Six doctors and a group of professional consultants are working on the project, which is directed by Dr. Ralph Hester, dean of students at St. Andrews.

DR. BANERJEE SPEAKS INFORMALLY WITH STUDENTS

Dr. Purnendu Kumar Banerjee, Minister, Embassy of India, Washington, D.C., was the main speaker in the second of a series of St. Andrews Concert-Lectures.

Speaking on "India and China in Asia," Dr. Banerjee gave a summary of India's past and current problems. He placed special emphasis on Red China's threat to India and the free world. After Dr. Banerjee's initial speech, and informal question and answer period was held. Some of the questions asked concerned India's Viet Nam Policy and Dr. Banerjee's opinion of the possibilities of a Red Chinese-Russian war.

Some members of the International Relations Club met with Dr. Banerjee after the lecture to discuss the current situation between India and Pakistan.
