

SUSGA Workshop For Cheerleaders

The Southern Universities Student Government Association, in keeping with its purpose of being a link of communication between the colleges and universities in the Southeast, and providing an exchange of ideas among student leaders, takes another giant step.

This step is in the form of organizing a workshop for cheerleaders of its member schools. This will be known as the SUSGA SPIRIT AND SPORTSMANSHIP WORKSHOP, and will be held on the campus of the University of Southern Mississippi, August 7 through 12, 1966.

Delegates will check into the workshop on Sunday, August 7 and remain through the closing banquet on Thursday evening, August 11.

The workshop is for all cheerleaders, persons working with school spirit and advisors of spirit committees and cheerleaders.

On hand in the instruction area of the workshop will be a well trained staff from the National Cheerleader Association. This staff will be trained by the National Cheerleader Association under the direction of Mr. Lawrence R. Herkimer, "Mr. Cheerleader," Executive Secretary.

The tentative schedule shows the following areas of cheerleading and campus spirit activities to be presented: "Teaching of New Yells," "Cheer Workshop with Evaluation of Yells," Lecture and discussion will be held daily on the following topics: Boosting School Spirit, Pep Rally Ideas, Mass Demonstrations, Flash Cards, Sportsmanship, Crowd Psychology, Timing of Yells, Different Types of Yells, and many other phases of cheerleading on the college level. McNair Donates Fund

The suite of faculty offices in the planned new physical education building at St. Andrews Presbyterian College has been given as a memorial to Mrs. Martha Fairley McNair by members of her family.

In announcing the gift today, President Ansley C. Moore said, "This contribution of $15,000 will defray the cost of an important part of a much-needed building, and represents a continuing interest and encouraging support of the kind which Mrs. McNair exhibited during her lifetime."

The office suite will be located near the main entrance of the physical education building, opposite the main basketball area. It will contain six individual offices, two work rooms, and a general reception area.

President Moore also noted that the architects, A. G. Odell Jr., and associates of Charlotte, are now doing the working drawings for the building, and that the college expects to ask for bids early this year.

Members of the family, who are establishing this memorial to Mrs. McNair include her husband, John F. McNair, Jr., and her children, John F. McNair, III, Mrs. Jane McNair Bell, and James A. McNair. All are from Laurinburg, except Mrs. Bell, who lives in Raleigh.

A bronze plaque will be placed in the suite, President Moore noted, with the following inscription: "This suite of offices has been provided to the glory of God and in loving memory of Martha Fairley McNair (August 31, 1902-September 28, 1964) by her husband and her children. With a joyous Christian spirit she was a devoted church member and an enthusiastic supporter of St. Andrews."

bling Stunts and Pom Pom Routines will also be taught along with a session during which time the participants will perform their yells in front of the staff for evaluating and rating.

Living accommodations for the participants of the workshop will be deluxe to say the least. They will live and have their meals in the beautiful new Elam Arms, a private dormitory just across the street from the University of Southern Mississippi. The building is designed to be used as one large dormitory for men or converted into two separate wings for use for men and women students during large conferences such as the SUSGA conference. Food service in Elam Arms is provided by the famous Morrison's Food Service, which always provides a most enjoyable dining experience. Elam Arms features many luxury items such as wall-to-wall carpeting, maid service, swimming pool, large game rooms, and others. SUSGA member schools have been encouraged to reserve their cheerleaders a place early. It is recommended that entire cheerleading squads attend in order for them to train and learn as a unit.

Blue Scholarship For Honor Fund

A new honor scholarship of $10,000 has been established at St. Andrews Presbyterian College by John Blue, Sr., farm implement manufacturer and Laurinburg native.

President Ansley C. Moore announced that the fund had been given to honor Mrs. Anne White Blue, wife of the industrialist, who now has his headquarters in Huntsville, Alabama.

A grant will be given to one St. Andrews student each year out of interest from the fund's principal. The scholarship is renewable each year and is to be awarded to a student who needs financial assistance.

When St. Andrews was being built in 1960-61, Mr. and Mrs. Blue donated the money to pro-

Circle K Chooses L. Schild

Jo Ellen Schild has been elected Circle K sweetheart for the year 1966. This is the first time Circle K has elected a sweetheart, and we are proud of the selection. Jo Ellen will represent the club in all official business. She will attend all meetings, and be as much a part of the club as any other member. The Circle K feels that Jo Ellen will not only add her sincere personality and charm, but will represent our club in the finest manner possible.

Jo Ellen is a very lovely, very talented girl. She is a cheerleader and carries a full load of studies--being a sophomore. She has already shown a lot of initiative in being the first Circle K sweetheart.

We hope that she will continue to provide the encouragement and good will necessary for such an organization. With her charm and beauty she has captured our admiration, and we are proud to have her represent us as the first lady of Circle K.

John Dahl Displays Oils and Collages

A show of oil paintings and collages done in an unusual technique by John Dahl, assistant professor of art at St. Andrews Presbyterian College, is now being exhibited in the Vardell Building.

Most of the collages reflect the artist's reactions to contemporary life, and were made between 1961 and 1965. Professor Dahl has been experimenting with pastels, water color, acrylic paint, collage materials applied with resin glue, and final work with oil paints.

All of the oil paintings were also done in the past five years. Largest of these is a nearly life-size portrait of Don Arentz, who studied with Dahl at Jamestown College in North Dakota. Another of the oils is a view of the college campus, "Green Sprouts from Dead Wood Grow."

"East Wind" was done by the artist from memory of a lake in Minnesota where his father hunted ducks.

"Mailer's Draftee" treats the idea of writer Norman Mailer that modern man is drafted the minute he turns on television or looks at a newspaper. "The Baby in Her Arms Is Dead" is based on a news photo from Life magazine of the war in Vietnam.

Professor Dahl is working on a new series of the mixed media collages reflecting his first encounter with the South--the landscapes and people.

The current show will continue until mid-February, and is open to the public, without charge, during college hours--including Saturdays and Sunday afternoons.

CHOIR

ces Network overseas. The 50-voice St. Andrews choir is the first college group chosen for "The Protestant Hour" music by TRAV, the Presbyterian Church, U. S., agency for television, radio and audio-visuals. Its executive director, Bluford Hestir, estimates that 100 million people now listen to the program.

With much juggling of class schedules, the choir spent a week last spring in afternoon and evening recording sessions.

Choir On "Protestant Hour"

Recordings by the St. Andrews Presbyterian College Choir will make up the musical portions of the internationally-aired radio series, "The Protestant Hour," during January-March, 1966.

Sponsored jointly by five denominations, the half-hour programs are carried each week by 560 stations in the United States and 100 in the Armed Forces.
