Self Nominations For SASA Next Week

The Lance

Wrestlers. Bowlers Lead DIAC Tilts

T. ANDREWS PRESBYTERIAN COLLEGE

LAURINBURG, N. C., FEBRUARY 10, 1967

VOL. 6, NO. 11

Robert A. Wallace To Speak On U. S. Economy

The State of the National Economy will be probed by Robert A. Wallace, assistant secretary of the treasury, in a speech on campus next Tuesday.

Assistant secretary Wallace will be meeting with both students and faculty involved in the Economics Association. All students are invited to his speech at 8 p.m. in the choral room of the Vardell Building.

At the Treasury, Wallace plays an important role in forming federal economic policies by working with member of the Council of Economic Advisers and the Bureau of the Budget in developing programs. He has policy supervision of the Bureau of the Mint and is the departmental employment policy officer.

In 1955 he received the Exceptional Service Award, highest honor given by the Treasury Department, for his work in the development of national economic policies, and for preparing programs to overcome the national coin and silver shortage.

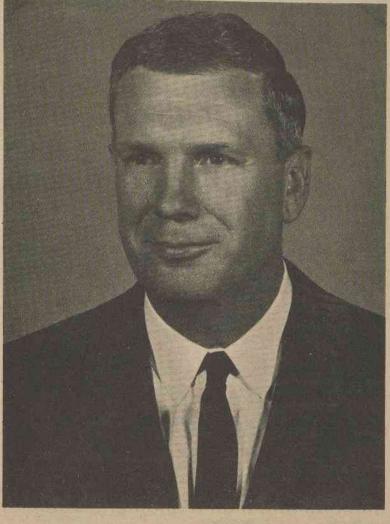

Wallace came to the treasury in 1961, and had formally come to Washington in 1949 as assistant to Senator Paul H. Douglas. He holds nis Ph. D. degree from the University of Chicago and has written book, CONGRESSIONAL CON-TROL OF FEDERAL SPENDING.

Mardi Gras!

A bigger and better Mardi Gras will be held this year on April 1. Under the direction of Scott Mc-Crea and Pete Cook, the festival will feature displays, booths, and amusements from many campus organizations.

A planning meeting was held Thursday afternoon with representatives from most campus

Last year's Mardi Gras featured power boat rides on the lake, a live combo, and announcer

Assistant Secretary of Treasury, Robert A. Wallace.

SA Sponsors Poetry Contest

Three prizes are being offered in a general poetry contest to be conducted by St. Andrews, and will be open to any poet within a 50 mile radius.

"Originality and effectiveness in conveying experience" will be the criteria used by the judges in selecting the winning and honorable mentioned poems. Poems are unliminted in both length and content, but only two previously unpublished poems are allowed to an

Deadlines for entries is March 1. Rules may be obtained from Dr. Forrest Altman or Mrs. Margaret Moore of the English depart-

Winners will be announced and prizes awarded at Happening IV of the freshman English program in Bragunier, fourth runner-up.

Lynn Wagner, and Eloise Ristau. As elementary education major, and Shield" is president of the Student North Carolina Educational Association chapter at St. Andrews. She has also been a resident assistant and a member of Concord Dorm Council. Her sophomore year she was St. Andrews' chief cheerleader. Alice is from Jacksonville, Florida.

the college yearbook.

Grants Aid St Andrews In Preliminary Planning Of New Science Building

Two grants of $6,050 each are aiding St. Andrews with the cost of preliminary planning for a radically new type of science building.

Equal shares of financial support came from Educational Facilities Laboratories, Inc., of New York, and from Lunsford Richardson, Jr., of New York and Greensboro.

Announcement of the gifts came from the President's Office with

Psychiatrist

Replies To

Suicide Speaker

A program concerning Suicide

on the College Campus will be presented Sunday, February 12,

at 8:00 p.m. in the cafeteria.

symposium will be Reverend

Robert Bluford of Richmond, Vir-

Christian Education under the division of Campus Christian Life.

will be made by a reaction panel

composed of Dr. H. D. Horne,

the college psychiatrist, currently

serving at Sand Hills Mental Health

Clinic, Mr. Andrew Oerke, St. Andrews Poet in Residence and Dr.

William Alexander, Associate

Professor of Religion and Philoso-

symposia sponsored by the Student

Christian Council in an endeavor to deal with issues that are or should be of major concern to St. Andrews

This is the third in a series of

A reply to Mr. Bluford's address

The principle speaker for this

He is on the Board of an estimated innovation of the building set for 1969. Architects will be the firm of A. G. O'Dell, Jr., and Associates of Charlotte, designers of the contemporary St. Andrews campus.

Instead of the traditional chemistry, biology, physics, and math areas, the new building will have a series of interdisciplanary clusters for faculty offices, classrooms, and labs.

There will be a few, if any, fixed walls in the lab cluster. Instead, multi-disciplanary research carrel is being designed with standard utilities and a basic table. Portable units for special uses could be attached as needed. Folding walls would be used to enclose areas for special purposes.

The new building will also break the traditional isolation of science from non-science studies by being connected to the main academic building and by housing facilities to be used by all students and faculty.

In making their grant, Educational Facilities Laboratories noted, "It is our expectation that the end product of this grant will be an exciting science building, which will be a model of imaginative planning for other colleges."

Coming Events

Feb. 11, The Fabulous Five Feb. 12, Suicide Symposium Feb. 13-18, SGA Nominations Feb. 24, Voting Day

Mar. 20-25, Senate, Dorm, Class self-nominations.

Mar. 31, Voting Day Apr. 6, Officer installations

Miss Alice Ragland Crowned "Miss Lamp And Shield"

students.

The crown of "Miss Lamp and Shield" for 1967 was placed upon Senior Alice Ragland Friday night, January 27, as students, faculty, and administration attended the annual beauty pageant in the Liberal Arts Auditorium.

the LAA on Monday evening, March

27. A separate contest is being held for freshman English stu-

Judges for the contest are Mr.

Andrew Oerke, Richard Lietz,

Mrs. Isabel Carver, and Mrs.

Nancy Fulcher.

Donna Southers was first runner-up; Shannon Hershberger, second runner-up; Mary Lou Kruthoffer, third runner-up; and Carol

These five other lovely co-eds were in the semi-finals: Betts Hunter, Janice Wells, Carol Hovis, Alice will teach in Princeton, New Jersey, next year while her husband attends divinity school. Alice and senior Al Thomas plan to marry after their graduation this

St. Andrews' 1967 "Miss Lamp

The "Miss Lamp and Shield" pageant is sponsored annually by Starstruck senior, Alice Ragland of Jacksonville, Florida, has been crowned 1967 Miss Lamp and Shield.

Bill Miller from the Florence TV station. McCoyDepicts God Is Dead

Theory In Lecture Series

Co-author of THE GOSPEL ON CAMPUS, Charles McCoy will peak on "God Is Dead: The Future of an Illusion" Monday, February 3, at 8 p.m. in the Liberal Arts luditorium. After his public presentation, which is part of the oncert-lecture series, Orange Hall will host a reception in their main lounge.

Professor of Religion in Higher Education at Pacific School of Religion, McCoy will be on St. Andrews' campus Monday through riday, February 13-17. During is five-day visit, he will speak to arious classes and individuals. Wednesday at 10 a.m. in Room 18, he will speak to Dr. R.

Gustafson's Applied Christianity class on "Power, Ethics, and Po-

From 4-5:30 p.m. Thursday he will speak on "The Divine Disguise: Theological Reflections on Art" in Room 113. At a dinner Thursday evening he will address the faculty dinner on "Emergent Agony of Higher Education."

Presently professor at Pacific School of Religion, McCoy has also taught at Yale and University of Florida. He contributed to the writing of PERSPECTIVES ON THE COLLEGE CHURCH and RELIGION AND THE SOCIAL CONFLICT. (See picture, page 8).